Do You Bet on Horses?

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE "SPOT news" is as follows:

FIRST: Young Mr. O'Connell, nephew of important political bosses and beer brewers, kidnaped in Albany, has been released. It is suggested that the demand for $250,000 was cut to $40,000 but no information is given as to details.

The national government will try to obtain information on this and other cases.

SECOND: The British won the Davis Cup, emblematic of world championship in tennis. They had not done this since 1912, and will attach great importance to the victory.

The French won the cup from the United States in 1927.

THIRD: Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, who saves souls when at home in Los Angeles, having seen Chicago's "Century of Progress Exposition," reports:

"There is everything there, from the wickedness of Satan, to the glory of God."

Millions have gone there, without noticing anything suggesting Satan, except, perhaps, a glass of 3.2 beer. Rufus Dawes, head of the show, might recommend to Mrs A. S. McP. Hutton these verses, author unknown:

Two prisoners looked out,
from behind their bars.
One saw the mud, the other saw the stars.

If, in Chicago, you keep your mind on progress, and on the beautiful star that lent its ray of light to start the exposition, you will not think of Satan, or even believe in him, much.

THE COUNTRY begins to take kidnaping seriously. In Missouri a convicted kidnaper is condemned to death, and Illinois, which also makes kidnaping a capital offense, talks of executing kidnapers that recently captured an old man, and freed him, fearing that he would die on their hands.

Kidnaping, described by a Chicago gangster to one of his victims as "a good, clean business, like any other," would lose its charm, if death always followed conviction.

In any case, the United States Secret Service, and the proposed "United States Police," more difficult to "square" than some local officials, will add considerably to kidnaping perils.

GERMAN EXPERTS have produced a genuine black rose, by long blending and crossing of colors and varieties, and the rose is said to possess a perfume unusually pleasant.

This recalls the tale of "the black tulip" and the mania of collecting and speculating that developed in Holland, later in England and elsewhere, among tulip fanciers.

Tulips were regularly quoted on the stock exchanges in Amsterdam and London, and the final collapse in tulip values ruined thousands. WHY a black tulip or rose, has never been made clear.

DO YOU bet on horses? Did you, perhaps, bet on a horse called Louie Dear? If so, learn that government agents found a hypodermic needle buried in Louie Dear's neck, and one agent testified that he had seen the horse "doped" three times.

Government narcotic agents, making numerous arrests at the Chicago race track, prove that at least 200 horses have been doped recently.

IF YOUR money goes to finance "the sport of kings" you will want to know that it also supports the trade of drug peddlers, and that the "noblest animal, the horse," is often drugged, in addition to having sponges pushed far back into his nose, to prevent breathing.

Under such conditions "picking winners" becomes a complicated science. But the horse doping will make no difference. Men who will drink bathtub gin, with wood alcohol in it, will bet on horses.

MAYOR CARMICHAEL and the citizens of Eastpoint, Ga., have appropriated $135,000 to build a municipally-owned power plant, the city's contract with the privately-owned plant having almost expired.

Mayor Carmichael says citizens will pay no more for light and power than they do now, during the next five years. After that the plant will have paid for itself and the city will save $40,000 a year, which will make the citizens practically tax free.

Other cities might look into that idea.

ALL THE news about factory production, employment increase, and co-operation by big business with the President's plan, is GOOD news, so contribute your unit of optimism to the situation. What everybody thinks, is what happens.

The country, as a whole, and some of its wisest individuals believe that the depression is dying out, of itself, and that the President's efforts will hurry its death.

To believe that and talk it, is to make it come true.

IT WILL be hard at first to establish wages, hours and days of work that will seem fair and wise to everybody. But everything new is hard in the beginning.

BOMB KILLS WIFE, MATE HELD HERE

Seized With Friend, They Tell 2 Stories Of Mystery Blast

A 29-year-old truck driver of aHrmony, Pa., was arrested on the South Side today, 10 hours after his estranged wife had been blown to bits in an automobile near Portersville, Butler County.

The dead woman was Mrs. Demars Sayre, 23, of 111 North Crawford avenue, New Castle. Her head was found 300 feet from the scene of the blast, presumably caused by a dynamite bomb placed in the car, in a secluded road two miles from Portersville.

The husband under arrest is James Rubright.

ARRESTED HERE

Rubright and his friend, William Rossner, 24, a truck helper, were arrested at South Twenty-first and Carson streets by Detectives George Franz and Edward O'Rourke and Constable Thomas B. +uigley, of Zelienople.

Rubright admitted, according to Detective Franz, being with his wife up to within a few minutes before the terrific explosion that blew her to pieces and sent parts of the car hurtling through the air for 400 feet.

HUSBAND'S STORY

According to Rubright's alleged admission to the detectives he called for his wife last night at her rooming house. They took a long ride and were later joined by Rossner and the latter's girl friend.

Early today, Rubright is alleged to have related to detectives he and his wife got into an old Dodge coupe while Rossner and his girl continued in the other car.

It was while in the old car, and apparently only a few minutes after Rubright had alighted from the car and left his wife alone that the explosion occurred.

SOBS DURING QUIZ

What caused the explosion or why he left his wife in the car, Rubright has not explained, detectives said. The young husband was overcome by emotion and sobbed as he told his story.

'Corpse' Much Better As Coroner Arrives

Deputy Coroner W. M. Jackson drove the morgue ambulance to Squirrel Hill police station today for the body of a man reported to have fallen dead on Brown's Bridge.

Upon arriving he found Leo Sears, 39, Negro, employed at the Marine Hospital not only alive but "feeling much better."

He had become ill while returning from visiting friends in Homestead, and fainted.

Buy in August

This Answers the Question "What Can I Do To Help?"

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MANY of us wonder why "somebody" does not "do something" about the depression, lack of employment, and other troubles.

It is easy to suggest that somebody ELSE should do something.

This is written to suggest that every individual make up his mind that HE will do something, and proceed to do it.

The suggestion at this moment is that you BUY IN AUGUST co-operating with merchants, seeking to create employment in stores and factories by creating a demand for goods in August, normally a dull month of the year.

TO SPREAD buying evenly, is to spread work and employment, and increase prosperity.

It is the AVERAGE that tells the story of good times or bad, not the sudden buying at Christmas, or the sluggish trade of August, the "between month."

THE "between seasons" character of August, recognized for a long time by merchants as a cause of small sales, and employes laid off, has been largely overcome by energetic merchandizing, with advance August sales of Fall and Winter merchandise at attractive prices.

But as the slump has progressed the natural tendency to postpone buying has increased, and during the past two years, with costs diminishing, money scarce, and buyers frightened, August has been practically a dead month.

However, that has changed. Thanks to the energy of the President, prices and employment are recovering. The man or woman who would have said in July, 1932, "Prices will be lower in August, still lower in September, and lower yet in October," knows now that we are in a period of RISING PRICES.

HE WHO takes advantage of the August sales at extremely reasonable prices, will save money in addition to helping the general recovery.

The period of rising prices, which has started, will undoubtedly continue for months to come. Manufacturers are

O'CONNELL FREE 3 MEN HELD

ALBANY, N. Y., July 31.—(AP.)—Three men were held today for questioning in connection with the kidnaping of John J. O'Connell, 24, National Guard lieutenant, as the search for the kidnapers was speeded up.

District Attorney John T. Delaney said:

"We are questioning three men. I cannot give you further details."

One suspect was said to be a waiter.

O'Connell, kidnaped July 7 by several men as he alighted from his automobile, was released Sunday morning after a ransom of $40,000 had been paid.

THREE MEN GRILLED

Two men were picked up last night and early today a third was taken into Delaney's office. The District Attorney, shoulders sag-

Strong Wind Delays Balbo on Ocean Hop

SHOAL HARBOR, N. F., July 31.—(AP.)—A strong wind led Gen. Italo Balbo to announce that the departure of his Italian seaplane squadron for Valentia Island, Ireland, was improbable today.

The 24 machines arrived here Wednesday from the United States. Their next hop will be 1,800 miles.

MERCURY AT 90 AND RISING

Boosted by a blazing sun, the thermometer reached the 90-degree mark in mid-afternoon today and threatened to go higher, according to Forecaster W. S. Brotzman.

"Fair and continued warmer" is the forecast for the balance of the day and night, with, however, a prediction of thundershowers for tomorrow. These should result in a drop in the temperature, Brotzman said.

Ten Pennsylvanians lost their lives by drowning while seeking relief from the heat over the week-end, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Allen Wills Rose Smal Estate Share

NORRISTOWN, Pa., July 31.—(INS.)—An estate valued at $1,000 was left by Horace E. Allen, once a wealthy woolen manufacturer and father of Rose and Edward Allen, central figures in a murder trial here, according toa the will, filed for probate today.

The estate was bequeathed in equal shares to three children, Rose, who last Saturday was married to Kenneth Coolbaugh; Edward acquitted by a jury of the slaying of Francis H. Donaldson III, Rose's betrayer, and William.

20 Feared Dead After Boat Upsets

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, July 31.—(AP.)—Fears were expressed today that 20 persons, including seven women, drowned when the motorboat Jesus was lashed by huge waves that caused it to capsize near here in sight of hundreds of persons.

Many onlookers standing on the docks dived into the water without removing their clothes in an attempt to rescue them, and late last night, shortly after the tragedy occurred, seven bodies were recovered.

MILITIAMEN TILT WITH PICKETS

More Troops May Be Sent to Coke Region As Strike Spreads

Developments today in the Fayette County coal strike:

1—Gov. Gifford Pinchot invited representatives of the miners and H. C. Frick Coke Company to a "peace parley" in Harrisburg.

2—National Guardsmen protected miners from pickets as sporadic clashes occurred and the strike spread to Greene, Washington and Westmoreland counties.

3—Maj. Gen. Edward C. Shannon, National Guard commander, arrived in the field and was reported considering calling more troops into the strike area.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 31. — Gov. Gifford Pinchot today asked representatives of striking miners in Fayette County and officials of the H. C. Frick Coke Company to attend a "peace parley" in an attempt to settle the strike which has converted the Connellsville coke region into an armed camp.

The governor sent telegrams to Thomas Moses, Pittsburgh, president of the company, and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America. He invited them to meet with hr here at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in an effort to obtain "permanent peace." He said:

"Failure or refusal to work out a settlement would react against industrial recovery at the very moment when labor and capital throughout America are cooperating heartily with the President in his war on the depression."

He suggested each side restrict its representation to three persons.

This afternoon Thomas Moses, H. C. Frick Coke Company president, said he had not yet received the Governor's telegram and would withhold comment until he did.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 31.—Maj. Gen. Edward G. Shannon, commander of the Pennsylvania National Guard, today was said to be considering throwing more troops into the Fayette County mine strike area as the strike spread further in adjoining counties.

STEEL OFFICIAL PROMOTED

James E. Lose, general superintendent of the Homestead Works, was appointed vice president of the Carnegie Steel Company, it was announced today. He succeeds to the position vacated by Ralph H. Watson, who last week was named a vice president of the United States Steel Corporation.

Lose, with other officials, was host last Friday to Miss Frances Perkins, United States Secretary of Labor.

Malcolm F. McConnell, who has been general superintendent at the Mingo Junction works, succeeds Lose, and in turn, Robert S. Quinn, formerly assistant at Mingo Junction, takes McConnell's post. Hugh B. Conover succeeds Quinn.

Lose, according to company officials, is an expert blast furnace man and came to the Homestead Works in 1910, working his way through various jobs to his present post.

TOKIO, July 31.—(INS.)—Japan's new naval program, by which she is expected soon to build her fleet up to the limits set by the London Naval Treaty, was submitted to the finance ministry tonight.

INDUSTRY YIELDS IN CODE

Leaders Will Attempt To Keep Plan, Lamont Says

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.) — The "company union," perennial source of conflict between organized labor and the great steel makers, was eliminated today from the code proposed by that industry at the insistence of Hugh S. Johnson, Recovery Administrator, but the manufacturers served emphatic notice that they will make every effort to continue this method of dealing with their employes.

At the same time Secretary of Labor Perkins launched energetic opposition to other features of the code.

The woman cabinet member declared that the working hours proposed are too long and the wages too low to accomplish the Recovery Act's broad purpose.

INDUSTRY YIELDS

Hardly had hearings begun in a hall packed with perspiring spectators, than Robert P. Lamont, Secretary of Commerce under President Hoover and now president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, announced that the industry was ready to eliminate the much-disputed section designed for perpetuation of the company union.

Johnson said:

"While it is probably a borer line case, it seems to me that that matter is inappropriate in that particular section of this code, which contains the mandatory provisions of the recovery law."

Lamont said:

"I believe the section can be omitted from the code without materially altering it. I am willing to recommend that it be omitted and I believe that the industry will adopt my recommendation.

"It should be distinctly understood, however, that the omission of the section does not

Priest Tells of Attack On Steel Worker

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—Father Francis J. Haas, of the National Catholic Welfare Board, a member of the Recovery Administration's labor advisory committee, told news men today that at Homestead, Pa., last Friday, Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, was refused permission to speak in the open air and was treated discourteously by local authorities.

Miss Perkins was given permission to speak in the Town Hall. It proved too small and when she received word that men who wished to get in were unable to do so, she asked permission of the Burgess to speak in the open.

Burgess Cavanaugh, Father Haas said, replied:

"You will hold no meeting in the public square or anywhere else."

Nevertheless, Miss Perkins then delivered her address from the steps of the postoffice.

Father Haas said that because union workers charged they were being intimidated by the burgess and the police of the town, a meeting between Miss Perkins and the workers had to be held in the town's Slavic church.

The priest, who had accompanied Miss ePrkins on her swing through thes teel territory, said that at Homestead he also witnessed an attack on a steel worker who was trying to get into the town hall to hear Miss Perkins.

The priest said:

"He was pretty badly mauled."

'COMPANY UNION' PLAN STRICKEN FROM STEEL CODE

SECRETARY PERKINS CALLS HOURS TOO LONG AND WAGES TOO LOW

imply any change in the attitude of the industry on the two points therein referred to; that the industry believes that the employe representation plans now in effect at its plants are desired by its employes; that the members of the industry will naturally do everything in their power to preserve the satisfactory relationships now existing with their employes; and that the section will be omitted for the sole purpose of avoiding the necessity of considering at this hearing any questions that are not fundamental to the code."

ELIMINATION VOTED

Shortly thereafter, leaders in the industry voted in a quick, informal meeting to throw out the controverted matter; and they were congratulated by Secretary of Labor Perkins amid applause.

The company union section of the code had asserted a belief on the part of the manufacturers that this provided the best method of dealing with their employes.

Beyond that it outlined a plan for employe representation in such unions with a stipulation that the final decision in all disputes should rest with the highest officer of the company involved.

With the elimination of these paragraphs, the code contained only what the recovery law specifies as relative to the freedom of the workers to join or form whatever unions they please.

Miss Perkins congratulated the steel industry on its action. Shaking hands with Lamont, she said:

"I cannot refrain from congratulating and thanking the employers' group of the steel industry for their patriotic action in withdrawing this (company union) schedule.

"I feel it is one more step towards unity of the people in continuing the traditions of American democracy."

Miss Perkins, in her testimony, was severely critical of the code. She declared it did not make adequate provision for the abolition of child labor, and she attacked it on the proposed method of apportioning hours.

WAGE ZONES

Instead of numerous wage zones with differing hourly rates, ranging from 25 cents in the South to 40 cents in highly industrialized areas, she proposed that the number of such zones with a differential be determined by a thorough study of living costs.

She said:

"In view of the privileges and the freedom granted to the industry by the government to combine for the purpose of eliminating evils that beset the industry, it is disappointing to find that in framing Section 3 of the proposed code the industry did not rise to the opportunity of ruling out the seven-day week from the steel industry, the 12-hour day and all unduly long working hours.

"The proposal for an average of 40 hours per week within any six-month period not only permits these evils to stand in the face of thousands of unemployed who are begging for work, but it will intensify irregularity of employment by stimulating unduly long hours during some months to be alternated with very little work during other months so that the average may be kept down to 40 hours.

"It is not my purpose to suggest the exact number of hours that the industry ought to set as the maximum. The hours will have to be determined by the number of iron and steel workers now unemployed that have to be reabsorbed, and to a certain extent by the technical processes of the industry.

SHORTER WEEK

"Thirty-six hours per week, which is six hours a day for six days, or 30 hours, which is six hours a day for five days, offer interesting opportunities for re-employment of large numbers of persons."

The proposal to divide the country into 21 separate wage districts with differentials of 2 and 3 cents an hour Miss Perkins found to have "the appearance of an arbitrary fixing of wages that can be hardly justified by differences in costs of living." She said:

"An industry that has been given the privilege of preventing unfair price competition must assume the responsibility also of preventing unfair wage competition.

"The low rates of 25 and 27 cents per hour for the two Southern districts are presumably based on the predominance of Negro labor in those districts. But Negroes are also consumers. Their cost of living is not lower than the living costs of the whites; it is rather that they live differently and on a lower standard.

LIVING COSTS

"A sound, national, industrial system cannot be based on a capitalization of these lower living costs. A way must be found of gradually raising the living standard of the colored laborers, and increased wages that will not unfairly compete with the wages of the white laborers is essential to achieving this end."

Turning to child labor, Miss Perkins said that a probable "oversight" had left a wide loophole in the clause for evasion for the purpose of keeping juveniles out of mills. She declared:

"As it is written, it provides that no member of the code shall 'knowingly' employ any person in the industry under 16 years.

"It has been the experience of all state departments charged with the enforcement of child labor laws that the word 'knowingly' makes it almost impossible to enforce any child labor law.

"It has been necessary, therefore, to change the laws to read that no child under the prescribed age shall be permitted or suffered to work in the place of employment of the employers. This places the responsibility directly on the management and there can be no quibbling about whether it was done knowingly or not."

Referring to the provision in the code against one concern's obtaining business secrets of another without the latter's consent, she said that "a similar provision against labor espionage is perhaps as important."

She said:

"If it is necessary to include in the code a prohibition against business spying, it is no less necessary that a similar prohibition shall be written into the code against labor spying.

LABOR ESPIONAGE

"Espionage, overspreading (the long day and seven-day week) and irregularity of hours and of employment are the sources of the major complaints that have come to me regarding working conditions in the iron and steel industry. These are the unfair practices that working people are concerned with and the labor provisions of a code of fair competition should assure them that both the management of the industry and the government are intent upon eliminating these sources of complaint, so far as is possible.

"Only when they are thus assured can we hope for a wholehearted co-operation of labor with management and the government in working to build a new prosperity for the industry on a permanent basis of friendly relations—even production, steady wages and steady purchasing power."

Defending the steel industry code, Lamont said that 40 hours per week for its workers was as low as the industry could go successfully. In his testimony, Lamont said:

"On less than a 40-hour week, the industry positively could not operate the mills and meet any demands upon them materially in excess of present production, "and such demands could not be met with present available forces on a rate of operation equal to the average 1929-1930.

CITES OBJECTIONS

"In submitting these conclusions we have not overlooked the possible suggestion that the necessary number of men might be drawn from unemployed individuals in a given locality who are not included among those who normally look to the steel companies for employment. The answer to this is two-fold:

"First, persons who were engaged in other industries and who have lost their jobs are not as a rule qualified to fill skilled, or even semi-skilled positions in the steel mills. Second, it is understood that the essence of the industrial recovery plan is that each industry is expected to the extent of its ability to provide a reasonable amount of employment for the individuals who have been attached to it and who normally look to it for work.

"To attempt to go afield and bring into the service of the steel industry those who have been attached to other industries at once creates unsatisfactory conditions in respect of relation between the employer and employes."

raised without argument to fifteen dollars, because the code says:

"Office boys fifteen dollars a week."

THE SAME code provides pay as low as fourteen dollars a week for full-grown men, and even less in small places.

For a father aged fifty to get fourteen dollars with his sixteen-year-old boy getting fifteen dollars would seem strange. But all that will be "ironed out" through collective bargaining, which is not abolished.

Tasks Follow Roosevelt To Summer White House

HYDE PARK, N. Y., July 31.—(AP.)—The national recovery campaign occupied first place in President Roosevelt's thoughts today as he started work at the "summer white house."

Surrounded by the bustle of farm work on his ancestral acres, the President gave every indication that this visit to his home is to be no vacation.

Reports from Washington came thick and fast—chief among them being messages telling of the progress of the drive to increase the people's buying power. Soon the President is expected to receive codes prescribing shorter hours and minimum wages for particular industries, shipbuilding among them.

Soon also there will be a visit from Secretary of State Cordell Hull, chief of the United States delegation to the London Economic Conference.

The President took delight yesterday in motoring over his 1,000-acre estate, inspecting the farm work and the groves of trees, some of them planted by himself. He attended a quiet service at St. James' Episcopal Church and received a call from Capt. and Mrs. James A. Mollison, who recently flew the Atlantic.

Highlights of Testimony By Secretary Perkins

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(INS.)—Highlights from the testimony of Secretary of Labor Perkins today at the hearing on the steel industry code follow:

I suggest a reconsideration of wage rates to approach as quickly as possible the purchasing power of 1929. This means a considerable increase over the present proposal of 40 cents per hour or $16.

The code should provide for the elimination of the seven-day week and for the prohibition of the 12-hour day. It should abolish night work for such few women as are employed.

The clerical workers should be covered by the code.

Forty hours per week will not provide re-employment on the present basis of production.

I suggest the revision of the section providing 21 separate geographical wage areas and propose not more than two.

The Industrial Recovery Act is an experiment in co-operation.

The government will have to answer to the people as to the manner in which this new freedom is used.

The consequences will be serious if it should turn out that industry cannot by its own efforts pull itself out of the depression.

Because steel is so important and so basic to all other industries we are justified in looking to it for pioneering efforts.

The country will be patient with the steel industry, management in its difficulties, so long as the effort is made in the right spirit.

Business men who will spy on their competitors will not have any compunctions about spying upon their employes.

Espionage, overspeeding, the long day, the long week, and irregularity of hours of employment are the sources of major complaints that have come to me in the iron and stel industry.

AUTO DEALERS DRAFTING CODE

Automobile dealers in the in-state area are preparing a code at a meeting in Hotel Schenley today. Five hundred dealers are represented.

Fred L. Rentz, president of the New Castle News, will head the National Recovery Administration committee for Lawrence County, it was announced today.

William McConaghy, of Pittsburgh, is attending a meeting in Harrisburg of the Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association to discuss proposed provisions of a code of fair competition for the association.

Among the provisions are abolition of misleading advertising and the sale of nationally advertised products below cost.

Safe in Meat Shop Blown and Looted

Yeggs blew the safe in the butcher shop of William Scalling, 1704 Beaver avenue, early yesterday, and escaped with its contents, according to a report to police. Entrance was gained by forcing a rear window.

800 Return to Jobs At Hard Coal Plants

SHICKSHINNY, Pa., July 31.—(AP.)—Eight hundred miners return to work at two collieries tomorrow, some of them after several months of idleness.

The West End Coal Company has posted notice calling back 750 men. The Salem Coal Company will put 50 men to work, having resumed operations last week after a long shutdown.

BANK GETS AID IN THEFT CASE

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 31.—(AP.)—The Commercial National Bank was placed under a conservatorship at its own request today subsequent to its purchase, through misunderstanding, of $500,000 in Liberty Bonds stolen from the Continental Bank and Trust Company of New York.

Ernest A. Baetz, vice president, was named conservator. At the same time police forecast startling arrests in connection with the tracing of the bonds which officials said the bank bought in good faith.

Claude V. Birkhead, president, said the bank is in good condition and that the conservator was sought to protect the interests of all depositors.

Five $100,000 Liberty Bonds stolen from the New York bank last November 29, were traced here by operatives of insurers. Two men are held under bond in New York in connection with the theft.

Canada Joins Bloc Against U. S. Dollar

LONDON, July 31.—(INS.)—Breaking with the American dollar, Canada will soon join the sterling bloc against the United States by obtaining a loan of 15,000,000 pounds sterling in the London market, it was announced today.

Announcement of the loan, which amounts to about $67,800,000, follows signature by representatives of the British dominions with the exception of Ireland of a significant declaration stressing the benefits of the Ottawa trade agreements and reinforcing the British empire sterling bloc.

EAVENSON QUITS AS ADVISOR ON COAL CODE

Pittsburgh Coal Co. Director Clashes With Johnson

Howard N. Eavenson, back in his Pittsburgh office where he carries on his duties as a director of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, had nothing to say today about severing his connections as an adviser on coal matters with the National Industrial Recovery Administration.

Eavenson's departure from Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's staff on the recovery front coincided with the submission of a coal code by a group of operators headed by the Pittsburgh Coal Company and barring outside unions. Gen. Johnson didn't like the proposed code, according to a Washington dispatch.

K. M. Simpson, deputy administrator in charge of coal codes, said that Eavenson's work was completed with the administration when the code was presented.

PLEA TO OPERATORS

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—Central Coals Associates, Inc., representing a group of northern bituminous operators, called on all soft coal producers today to assent to the code of competition drawn up with the help of the United Mine Workers of America.

The statement said:

"It is impossible to see how the administration can accept the code presented by the Northern Coal Control and Smokeless and Appalachian associations, for that code is fundamentally defective in that it provides for the open shop and denies to the coal miner the right of representation of his own choosing."

TAPLIN SUPPORT

The organization of Central Coals was fostered by Frank E. Taplin, of Cleveland, who also has been interested in the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad.

The Central Coals statement continued:

"Why the Pittsburgh Coal Company, a Mellon-controlled company, and the Consolidation Coal Company, a Rockefeller-controlled company, have seen fit ostensibly to join in common cause with the southern fields, with economic principles diametrically opposed to their best financial interests, is difficult to understand, because those companies could have joined Central Coals Associates without in any way committing them to union labor."

COAL DEMAND GAINS

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—More work ahead for long idle bituminous coal miners was the story behind Bureau of Mines figures made public yesterday on June stocks and industrial consumption.

In the face of increasing industrial activity, coal piled up at mines and in yards July 1 was sufficient to supply the nation's needs for only 31 days at the June rate of consumption, as compared with 41 days at the same time last year.

The 23,250,000-ton reserve was the smallest on hand any July 1 since 1920. Although production has increased steadily, the stock on hand April 1, was diminished by 543,000 tons.

Amherst Man Heads U. S. Trade Bureau

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—Dr. Willard L. Thorp, of Amherst, Mass., today was appointed director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Commerce Department.

In announcing the appointment, Secretary Roper said particular stress would be laid on assembling economic facts essential in supporting the National Recovery Administration.

U. S. Clarifies Terms of Code

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—To help businessmen anxious for explanations of the blanket code agreement's terms before signing, the administration last night issued several new interpretations:

That the "white collar" wage and hour limits apply (among others to: Barbers, beauty parlor operators, dishwashers, drivers, deliverymen, elevator operators, janitors, watchmen, porters, restaurant workers and filling station attendants.

That there is no maximum limit on the hours of store operation, only a minimum (52 hours unless present practice is below that), and that the minimum may be reduced in accordance to normal seasonal practice such as summertime Saturday closings, so long as pay is not thereby reduced.

That all emergency overtime must be paid time and one-third.

That apprentices under contract August 1 may be paid less than the minimum, but that no one shall be regarded an apprentice who, previously, has served an apprenticeship in the same industry.

Part-time workers need not be paid the minimum weekly wage prescribed, but must be paid at least 40 cents an hour unless their class of work was paid less than that in July, 1929, and in no case shall they receive less than 30 cents.

WHEAT BOARD FORMED HERE

Allegheny County farmers who wish to co-operate with the Federal Agricultural Adjustment Administration in its wheat control program will have that opportunity, according to County Agricultural Agent Henry R. Eby.

The following officers and directors have been elected to a county board of wheat control: Guy McWreath, McDonald, Pa., president; Frank McKinney, Elizabeth, vice president; W. J. King, Bellevue, secretary; Will Abels, Willock; J. H. Johnston, R. D. 1, Pitcairn, and F. E. Monnier, Gibsonia.

Wheat growers desiring literature explaining the provisions of the wheat adjustment program, and the steps which Allegheny farmers have taken to co-operate, should send their names and addresses to any of these officials, Eby says.

General Motors Units Raise Wages

DAYTON, O., July 31.—(AP.)—Effective tomorrow, all hourly workers in the two plants of the Frigidaire Corporation, a subsidiary of General Motors, will receive a 10 per cent increase in salary, E. G. Beichler, president and general manager, announced today.

In addition, all salaried workers in the four General Motors subsidiaries here, Frigidaire, Inland Manufacturing Company, Moraine Products Company and Delco Products Company, receiving less than $1,800 annually will get a 10 per cent wage increase. Twelve thousand persons are now employed in the five plants.

Worker Coming Into Own, Says Noted Pastor

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—The average man, said the Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick yesterday, is just beginning to come into his own. The pastor declared in a sermon at the Riverside Church:

"He is the most important person in the United States today, and all the machinery of government is dedicated to seeing that he becomes an adequate consumer.

"The old doctrine was to pay as little as possible to the workers. But wise men now understand that with our mass production we cannot go on producing without millions of consumers, and that we cannot get millions of consumers without paying the great body of the common people wages high enough so that they can consume."

RETAIL TRADE CODE SPEEDED BY U. S.

Small Stores May Get 'Exemption' From Roosevelt Order

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—Officials of the recovery administration today were whipping together a final draft of a code for the retail industry, under which merchants would operate pending its formal consideration and approval instead of under President Roosevelt's blanket wage and hour agreement.

A premature announcement was given today that all retail stores would be permitted a 48-hour week instead of the 40-hour week specified in the President's agreement.

TEMPORARY CODE

Later, however, A. D. Whiteside, a deputy administrator, said it had not been determined whether this would affect all stores or only those in the smaller cities.

These smaller stores have contended that since they are now working some 60 to 80 hours, cutting to 40 would be financially impossible.

Meanwhile, Hugh S. Johnson, chief administrator, said the plan to permit the retailers to operate temporarily under their own code and use the official "blue eagle" insignia was not an exemption from the President's agreement, but was fulfilling the intent of the agreement to speed up the submission of codes.

NO GROUP EXEMPTION

Johnson emphasized that there would be no big group exemption of any kind.

There were numerous requests for details and texts of the retailers' code as drafted, but no satisfaction on any such points could be obtained at the industrial administration or, indeed, from retail executives themselves.

The only information forthcoming was that work on the draft still was going on, and that even those participating were at a loss to know how the hours, wages and other questions would be settled.

Shoe Trade Remains At Odds on Code

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—Efforts of recovery administrators to settle differences within the boot and shoe industry remained unsuccessful today, with neither faction willing to compromise.

The chief point in controversy was the matter of a wage differential between rural and ruban communities. A national association advocated in its proposed code of fair competition a flat minimum wage, while a second group insisted on a lower wage for shoe factories in small towns.

43 Pct. Wage Raise Announced for 400

HACKENSACK, N. J., July 31.—(AP.)—Harry Gluckin, president of the Chain Store Novelty Company, today announced wage increases averaging 43½ per cent for the 400 men and women the firm employs in the manufacture of neckties and white caps. A 40-hour week basis will necessitate adding 200 employes, Gluckin said.

Prior to the wage increase the average weekly wage of employes was $12.00. The new average pay will be $18.71, and the minimum $14.71.

Today's Pay Day For Forest Army

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—Today is pay day for 300,000 privates in President Roosevelt's Forest Conservation Army. Uncle Sam is to mail checks, ranging from $15 to $25, to each of their 300,000 families back home.

The pay envelopes for the men themselves will contain $5 to $10 each. Robert Fechner, director, estimated more than a million persons would be benefited directly by the pay-off.

John D., Jr., May Head Oil Recovery Move

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—No comment was available here today at the office of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., on the report that he might take an active personal part in lining up the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey behind the administration's oil stabilization program.

Rockefeller was out of town, it was learned, and his associates had nothing to say about the rumor.

Close business friends of Rockefeller in Wall street assert that it would not be surprising if he attempted at least privately, to enlist the oil industry's support of the administration's general recovery campaign.

Such an endeavor would fit in with the Rockefeller philosophy of public service, they explained. At the same time it was pointed out that Rockefeller's policy of non interference with the business conduct of his companies would probably lead him to act informally if he chose to take any action.

Roosevelt has called to service James Moffett, who resigned as vice president of Standard Oil of New Jersey after a dispute with Walter Teagle, president, over participation in the President's industrial organization.

Roosevelt's aides are convinced that he has in mind some drastic new ways for the gigantic and troubled oil industry.

Later in the week, cabinet members and Washington leaders will bring to "Krum Elbow" their problems. Roosevelt is well rested by two days at home and is eagerly looking forward to speeding to the limit the national industrial recovery movement.

BOY CHAINED IN CELLAR

WHEELING, W. Va., July 31.—(AP.)—A 22-year-old junk dealer is held for hearing on accusations of state police that he tied the hands of a 10-year-old boy and secured him to a cellar rafter with a dog chain.

They arrested Charles Robert and said he told them the lad, William Kimmey, was tied up because he stayed out late nights.

His mother, Mrs. Emma Kimmey, in whose house he was found, was not arrested but was ordered to appear at Robert's hearing.

Police said Robert is a cousin of the lad's mother.

Weather Conditions.

High pressure is centered over the southeastern states and over the far Northwest, while low pressure extends from Hudson Bay southwestward over the plains states to the far Southwest. This pressure distribution is producing a rain area over the plains states, but the rains were very light except in the South where some localities received heavy amounts. Dallas, Tex., reported 2.20 inches this morning, and Fort Worth, 5.00 inches last evening. Warm weather prevails over the entire eastern portion of the country, but cool weather now covers the Northwestern states. Maximum temperatures were 90 degrees or higher yesterday over all the states east of the Mississippi except the extreme Northeast, and the high temperature belt extended westward over the central plains to near the Pacific Coast.

P. R. R. LIMITED WRECK KILLS 1

ALTOONA, Pa., July 31.—(AP.)—Plunging from the track into a signal tower, the Pennsylvania Railroad's Liberty Limited carried death to one man last night and injuries to four others.

Carl Linsenbach, of Duncannon, Pa., engineer of the crack Washington-Chicago train, was battered and scalded so badly that he died in a hospital a few hours after the wreck.

Those hurt were Louis Zeidman, Chicago, a passenger; Frank Buck, Harrisburg, fireman; Bruce Miller and Charles Hoover, Altoona, towermen.

Physicians said their injuries were not critical.

The limited ran through a switch, leaped from the track and demolished the signal tower at the entrance to the Altoona station. The train was slowing down for the station, but the locomotive was turned around by the force of the derailment.

Three coaches and two Pullman cars were derailed, while the locomotive ploughed up water, steam, telegraph and telephone lines in conduits under the track. Traffic was rerouted.

GIRL'S DISGUISE AIDS CONVICT

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 31.—(INS.)—Wilbur Underhill, leader of the gang of 10 convicts who escaped from the Kansas state penitentiary at Lansing May 30 is believed to have eluded a raiding force of 75 federal, state, and city officers this morning by disguising himself as a woman.

The officers, who were tipped off that eight men wanted by the law, four of them escaped Kansas state penitentiary convicts, were staying at a home in the residential district here surrounded the house early today. Shortly before daybreak a young man and what appeared to be two women companions, none of whom answered the description of the persons wanted by the raiders, were allowed to leave the house and drive away in a motor car.

When the raiding forces stormed the house behind a tear gas barrage about daybreak they captured Dewey Shipley, 35, and Morris Hersh, 38, both wanted for a bank holdup at Black Rock, Ark., on June 16. There was no one else in the house.

U. S. SIFTS RACE HORSE DOPING

CHICAGO, July 31.—(INS.)—A long procession of race horse owners, trainers and stable men were brought before the federal grand jury today to tell what they know of "doping" horses at Chicago tracks.

Louiss E. Salter, special assistant attorney general in charge of the government's case, said that all the evidence would be in the hands of the jury by nightfall and that he hoped for indictments within the next day or two.

In all 25 witnesses were to appear before the grand jury as the outcome of seven arrests at Arlington Park last Saturday following an eight months' investigation of narcotic law violations at almost every race track in the country.

In the meantime, the investigation of the "doping" of the horses is going on at seven major race tracks throughout the country, it was revealed by Harry J. Anslinger, United States commissioner of narcotics.

DALLAS, Tex., July 31.—(AP.)—Three persons lost their lives and scores were injured Sunday as a tornado swept through Oak Cliff, residential district in Southwestern Dallas, wrecking approximately 100 homes and causing damage estimated in excess of $250,000.

FLORIDA STORM ROUTS 5,000

FORT PIERCE, Fla., July 31.—(AP.)—A tropical storm which swept into Florida from the Bahamas this week-end apparently was blowing itself out across the peninsula today with negligible damage.

The hurricane winds that lashed the islands and endangered shipping dropped to gale force as they struck the Florida east coast and, aside from sectional disruption of power and communication lines and spotted damage to citrus groves, caused comparatively little trouble.

Weather Bureau observers estimated the highest wind velocities here and at Stuart, 25 miles to the south, at 60 miles an hour. A 50-mile wind was reported in the Lake Okeechobee region, where some 5,000 persons were evacuated from the east, south and west shores as a precautionary measure.

SLAYER KILLS SELF IN PRISON

COLUMBUS, July 31.—(AP.)—Abraham Auerbach, 48, of Cleveland, at one time said to have been worth millions, sentenced to Ohio Penitentiary last March 14 for the murder of Sam Crossman, Cleveland poolroom operator, and his wife, committed suicide in the prison barber shop today.

Auerbach, according to Warden Preston E. Thomas, had been despondent for some time.

The Clevelander, according to guards, visited the prison barber shop with several other prisoners this morning to be shaved. Before the guards and other prisoners could interfere, Auerbach wrested a razor from the hands of a barber and slashed his throat. He died a few minutes later.

MOTHER RIDES WITH POSSE SEEKING SON

Scores of Riders Pursue Suspect in Slaying Of Deputy

MOUNTAINAIR, N. M., July 31.—(AP.)—A mother, with love, not malice, in her heart, rode with a posse which sought her son, accused of slaying a deputy sheriff.

Mrs. A. B. Layman told Wallace Crawford, chief of the posse, she could induce her son, Jack Layman, to surrender. She asked that she be permitted to do this to avoid bloodshed. Her request was granted, but the search for the ex-convict was futile.

All day Sunday the posse searched the mountain country of Central New Mexico, which abounds in canyons and abandoned mine shafts in which the alleged slayer of William Meador might hide. The mother tired toward the end of the day and went to the home of a son-in-law here to rest.

BLACK AVENUES OF ESCAPE

Armed with all sorts of weapons, more than 100 determined men today were ready to penetrate into the wild mountain country south of here or were watching avenues of escape from the area where Layman is believed hiding.

Mrs. Layman will not accompany them again. Told that her son apparently was wounded in the calf of the right leg and was limping badly, she averred that he never would be found alive.

Two uncles of the slain deputy, who was fatally wounded as he attempted to arrest Layman on an assault charge Friday, are here to aid in the search. Both are Los Angeles police officers.

Bruce Clark is a captain of the West Los Angeles Detective Bureau and Detective Lieutenant W. J. Clark is attached to the Central Homicide Squad.

SCORES OF RIDERS

Nearly every able bodied man in the little mountain town of Estancia, Meador's home, is riding with the posse. A score of riders were to penetrate the coulees on horseback. Others, transported to strategic points by automobile, were watching possible avenues of escape.

Albuquerque officers took tear gas equipment along with them for use in case Layman is trapped in a mountain cabin. In contrast, were ancient firearms carried by some of the old timers of the mountain country.

John Layman, a brother of the hunted man, was held for questioning.

Dying Heartbroken, Says Gus, Reno-Bound

LOS ANGELES, July 31.—(AP.)—Gus Sonnenberg, wrestler and former Dartmouth football player, says he will fly from here Tuesday morning for Reno to establish residence so his wife, Judith Allen, of the movies, may get a divorce.

He said gloomily:

"And it may be the last big act of my life.

"The doctors have told me I've got only [illegible] months to live.

"I'm through with the ring. I'll never wrestle again, they say.

"I've got a pulse rate of 140 right now and that means curtains.

"I've really got a broken heart.

"I'll stay in Reno six weeks and then let my wife sue and get the divorce.

"She's a great little girl and she's got her career ahead of her.

"Down deep in my heart I know she loves me—and I love her."

Sonnenberg's heart ailment—auricular flutter—sent him to a hospital after a bout with Jim Browning.

The actress said she was happy to hear her husband plans to carry out his part of their agreement to go to Reno. She said:

"I have offered to share his expense of going if he would let me obtain the divorce, but he would not listen to that.

"It is my understanding that his heart ailment will go away. I can't believe that he is through wrestling or that his life will be shortened by his illness. I am terribly sorry about it all, but there seems to be nothing else for us to do."

BRIDE SLAIN, MATE FLEES

CHICAGO, July 31.—(AP.)—Mrs. Ellen Tresize, 19, bride of a few months, was found shot to death today in her apartment.

Police Cap. Martin J. O'Malley said neighbors in formed him they saw her husband, Melvin, run from the building about the time his bride was believed to have been shot.

Mrs. Tresize had been shot in the head. A .38 calibre pistol lay beside her, but police said other evidence convinced them she did not commit suicide.

Eight-Mile Shout Wins Auctioneer Title

CUMBERLAND GAP, Tenn., July 31.—(AP.)—By shouting so loudly that his voice was heard—according to the judges—a distance of eight miles and in three states at the same time, Lee Chrisman, 32, Kentucky farmer living near Danville, early yesterday set what his followers claim is a world record.

In the quiet and stillness of the mountains that mark the junction of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia at this point, Chrisman, an auctioneer, climbed to the top of the pinnacle of Cumberland Gap at 3 a. m. Then he yelled as loudly as he could.

Listeners stationed as judges in each of the three states claimed they heard Chrisman's baritone voice echo through the hills and valleys at least as far as eight miles. Two listeners were stationed in Tennessee and two in Virginia, each eight miles from the starting point of Chrisman's "big bellow."

Faintly at first, then distinctly, they said, the auctioneer's mighty "yee-hoos" came over the mountains. Herman Smith, a Middlesboro youth, took up a listening point in Kentucky to complete the three-state "hookup."

O'CONNELL FREE FROM KIDNAP GANG; 3 HELD

ging and eyes bloodshot, directed the interrogation of the three. He has been constantly on the case since about 1 o'clock Sunday morning when the O'Connell family notified him the boy had been released in New York City.

Thomas F. Cullen, in charge of Department of Justice agents in the New York district is returning to Albany to direct the federal officers on duty here. State police have joined the hunt.

A general cleanup, including the arrest of the kidnapers and recovery of the money, was predicted by one of the officers. He believed it would come in "short order."

THRUST FROM AUTO

Young O'Connell, the nephew of Edward J. and Daniel P. O'Connell, leaders in upstate Democratic circles, was thrust from an automobile by his captors in east Two Hundred and Twentieth street (the Bronx) about 1 a. m Sunday.

Blindfolded, he had been driven around several blocks before he was turned out of the car. A few minutes later he was picked up by Louis Snyder, an Albany attorney, who had been drawn into the negotiations by Manny Strewl, intermediary in the case.

Snyder arrived at the Helderberg Mountain camp of Dan O'Connell, 30 miles from Albany, at 4 a. m. Exhausted and nervous, young O'Connell tumbled into the arms of his uncle and his father, John J., Sr. (Solly). His anguished mother did not reach the camp until daylight.

SUFFERS FROM SHOCK

The young man by that time had shaved off a week's growth of beard and had slept a couple of hours. A physician found him in good health, but suffering from shock and nervous exhaustion. O'Connell said he was well treated by his captors, who secreted him in a well-furnished apartment.

The ransome money which Dan O'Connell turned over to Strewl Friday evening had been cunningly marked. The kidnapers, however, suspicious that such a ruse would be attempted, demanded new money. It is believed that through a bank exchange the same money was returned to the gang. Officials are hopeful the bills can be traced.

Originally the gang demanded $250,000. They reduced that to $175,000 and $100,000. Two notes last week warned that unless the demand was met the prisoner would be starved. Most of the notes carried O'Connell's signature. Dan O'Connell maintained the family could raise only $40,000.

RANSOM PRICE CUT

As federal and state governments sharpened their knives to attack the "snatch racket," the O'Connells had the impression that the gang was worried. Then came the death sentence for the kidnaper of Mary McElroy at Kansas City. Shortly after the negotiations were completed and the $40,000 was accepted.

KIDNAPED O'CONNELL BACK AT HIS HOME

JOHN J. O'CONNELL, JR.

O'Connell's Own Story Of Abduction, Ransom

Blindfolded, Bound, Captive Spent 3 Weeks on Bed

By LIEUT. JOHN J. O'CONNELL, Jr.

(As told to Leo W. O'Brien, International News Service Special Correspondent.)

ALBANY, N. Y., July 31.—I was kidnaped early on the morning of July 7. The time was between 1:10 and 1:20 a. m. I am not certain of the exact time.

I had driven my car to Putnam street (his home) and had turned around at the end of the park in front of house No. 14. There was no warning of what was to happen. At least none of which I was aware.

After I shut off the ignition and was about to step out of the car, several men converged on me. I had an impression that there were four or five of them. One of them pressed a gun into my back. I am not sure, but I think they wore masks.

Before I could turn around or defend myself, in fact before I could make up my mind whether or not it was an attempted holdup, I was hit a heavy blow on the back of my head. Whether I was struck with a blackjack or some other instrument I cannot say.

Then they pushed me into a machine. I was not aware of how long we rode after the attack. In fact, nothing was very clear until I found myself in a bedroom, either in a flat or an apartment. The quarters seemed to be fairly good, at least it was not a basement or cellar.

There was no ill treatment accorded me, except being confined for such a long time. I was not given any chance to escape, my hands and feet being tied.

I spent the entire three weeks in that bedroom on a bed.

I occasionally heard voices in another room, but I do not believe that I could identify any of them.

Because of the blindfold I never had an opportunity to see any of the men who were guarding me. My eyes were not taped, except to hold the edges of the bandage.

On Saturday night, after dark, I was taken from the room and put into an automobile. We rode for perhaps half an hour. I could not say whether this was a waste of time, or because we had to travel a considerable distance.

Finally I was let out of the car and got into one which brought me to Albany.

ABDUCTION CASE WOMAN TARGET

DENVER, Col., July 31.—(AP.)—Police investigation of the mysterious hail of bullets into the home of Mrs. Frances Ellsworth, housewife who aided in the solution of the Charles Boettcher kidnaping case, ran into a blank wall today.

Mrs. Ellsworth and her husband, W. B. Ellsworth, narrowly escaped a fusillade of slugs fired at their home late Saturday by unknown assailants.

Acting Captain of Detectives Charles Burns said he had virtually abandoned a theory that the bullets were fired by Verne Sankey and Gordon Alcorn, fugitives indicted for the kidnaping of the wealthy Denver banker, or by their relatives or henchmen

SENATE INQUIRY OF O'CONNELL CASE LOOMS

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—Senator Royal S. Copeland, chairman of the Senate sub-committee investigating racketeering, said today John J. O'Connell, Jr., of Albany, and his uncles, Dan and Ed O'Connell, would be asked to tell the committee about the youth's kidnaping.

The committee will begin its hearings in New York the middle of August. The Senator said:

"We must find a way to give the federal government power to act on a bigger and broader scale than that to which local police are limited.

"I am not blaming officials at Albany in the O'Connell case. Undoubtedly the kidnapers went outside of Albany, and may even have employed outside men.

Local police of the community to which O'Connell was taken would have no knowledge of the case. We must have a central body, which may shift its forces as do the kidnapers."

Lehman May Ask Life for Kidnapers

ALBANY, July 31.—(INS.)—Aroused by the O'Connell abduction case, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman worked today on a message to the special session of the Legislature in which he will advocate drastic amendments to the state's penal laws in an effort to stamp out kidnapings.

It was reported at the Capitol the Governor would suggest the lawmakers provide mandatory life imprisonment for kidnapers.

$300 Blaze Blamed On Wiring Defect

Defective wiring caused $300 damage when fire broke out in a building owned by the Fengert Junk Company, 624 Fourth avenue, Coraopolis, last night, according to a police report.

Prize Persian Kidnaped! Or Was It Catnaped?

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., July 31.—(AP.)—'Twas in the wee hours of Sunday morn. An orchestra played a dreamy waltz. A prize Persian cat dozed lazily.

Suddenly out of the night came four daring youths. They raced across the crowded floor of the Chatterbox Night Club. They swooped up the cat. They fled.

Mrs. Samuel Stillwell screamed:

"My $125 prize cat's been kidnaped."

The orchestra was stunned to silence. The dancers stopped in their tracks.

Pandemonium reigned.

Sheriff Howard Duff and his deputies came a-running. They detailed watchers to all roads. They questioned drivers by the score.

Someone "tipped" them to a license number. A deputy found its owner at home and asleep. They called:

"Wake up, young man."

Then the pointed query:

"Where's Mrs. Stillwell's pride cat?"

A "confession."

And so today, with the cat back safely in Mrs. Stillwell's arms, the four raiders of the night—"catnapers," if you wish—were called before a bar of justice where lawyers argued the question: "Is 'catnaping' a felony?"

$500 RANSOM CASE PROBED

NEW YORK, July 31.—(INS.)—A ransom demand for only $500 was reported to have been made today for the release of David Kahan, 54, once wealthy Brooklyn real estate operator, believed to have been kidnaped.

The small ransom demand and the amateurish fashion in which it was made puzzled police. While relatives insisted he was in the hands of abductors, detectives today searched Van Cortlandt Park for trace of him.

Irvin H. Kriesnes, son-in-law of the missing man, designated as spokesman for the family, said he would have a statement later today. Other relatives said they received the ransom demand from an unknown man over the telephone. He directed them to watch the newspapers for instructions as to paying the ransom.

Kahan disappeared Thursday. Later his abandoned automobile was found near the entrance to Van Courtlandt Park.

Sugar Heir Guarded From Kidnap Threat

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—(AP.)—The Examiner says Richard Palmer Smart, 20-year-old heir to a Honolulu sugar fortune, has been attended by a bodyguard for several weeks against a possible kidnaping attempt.

MOVIE KIDNAP TALE EXPLODED

LOS ANGELES, July 31.—(AP.)—Officers announced today that a 30-hour grilling had proved untrue the story of an unnamed man that Charles Arthur (Pretty Boy) Floyd, Oklahoma desperado, was plotting an abduction in the Hollywood movie colony.

After the long questioning by federal agents and city police, authorities said the man admitted he told Richard Barthelmess, movie actor, an imaginary tale of the threatened kidnaping of the actor's daughter, Mary Hay Barthelmess, in the hope of obtaining a reward for his warning.

Barthelmess, however, became suspicious and notified agents of the federal Department of Justice.

HOPES STIRRED FOR URSCHEL

OKLAMOMA CITY, July 31.—(AP.)—Heartened by news of the safe return of John J. O'Connell, Jr., after 23 days captivity, the family of Charles F. Urschel, oil millionaire, kidnaped by two machine gunners July 22, were hopeful they would receive word from his captors.

Arthur Seeligson, family spokesman, said today that if a message from Urschel's captors is not received by Wednesday the family may take a new course of action in an effort to establish contact. He declined to say what that course might be.

The family has promised quick payment of "any reasonable demand."

GUNMAN ROBS RESTAURANT

A smartly dressed youth walked into Gammon's restaurant, 954 Liberty avenue, early today, pointed a revolver at Cashier Edward Carey and quietly demanded:

"Open the register."

Carey hesitated and the youth, still covering him, opened the cash box and walked out, joining a companion in a waiting automobile.

Half a dozen diners and two waitresses, Helen Shanks, 24, of 834 North Lincoln avenue, and Josephine Todd, 23, of the South Side, were unaware of the robbery until the robber escaped.

Carey said there was approximately $30 in the cash drawer.

STEAMER SINKS AFTER FIRE

CHESTER, Pa., July 31.—(AP.)—Boarded during a fire by volunteers who scuttled it, a 10,000-ton ship lies on the bottom of the Delaware River today.

Shipyard and Chester fire departments battled in vain to conquer the flames in the craft, built during the World War and being dismantled at the Sun Shipbuilding plant. They succeeded only in cooling it enough for tugs to push it into deep water.

Five firemen were overcome by fumes and taken to a hospital.

PRICE INCREASE ON CLOTHING DUE HERE

One thing's certain in the NIRA epoch: It is going to cost more to dress, in the words of Pittsburgh executives of wearing apparel stores.

Workers are going to receive more pay, and this is certain to increase the cost of production they point out.

Purchasing power will be augmented, but this will create a greater demand for all merchandise and will hasten the time when all present stocks of goods will be exhausted at the present low price levels.

FUR PRICES UP

Fur prices already have jumped from 40 to 75 per cent, on a conservative estimate by the commentators. Shoes are up between 25 and 80 cents a pair.

To protect themselves, many manufacturers are now stamping all orders with a notice that present prices are subject to revision upward without notice.

Higher overhead resulting from the increased pay schedules and shorter working hours will be reflected throughout all industries, observers here agree.

September will be the deadline for purchases at present prices in a majority of merchandise lines, in their opinion.

MERCHANTS' VIEWS

These facts were given in the following statements:

William M. Laird, Jr., president, William M. Laird Company:

"The cost of shoes and hosiery has advanced due to the increases in prices of raw material, factory wages and increased production costs caused partly by the recovery act.

"Merchandise on hand or ordered for early delivery will soon be exhausted by the increased purchasing power made possible by higher wages. Thus, all merchandise on the shelves of merchants will cost more when replaced. It will pay to make retail purchases as soon as possible."

W. A. Miller, general manager, Meyer-Jonasson & Company:

"We are receiving daily notifications from manufacturers that prices are advancing considerably. The advance is particularly noticeable in furs and textiles. The rise in fur prices has been between 40 and 75 per cent in a recent period.

"However, merchandise bought before these rises took effect can be sold, as long as it lasts, on the old basis. After September 1, many lines will have to be replaced and the replacement costs are going to be higher.

Also, the higher overhead made necessary under the recovery program will carry down right to the point of distribution—the store."

W. E. Morgan, general manager, C. A. Verner Company:

"Prices already have gone up in many lines of shoe materials, reflecting the increases in labor costs already in effect in some factories. The costs of new shoes from the wholesaler is up 25 to 80 cents a pair.

"Some stores were able to 'cover' under the low prices in effect until recently. These stocks will be disposed of on the lower price basis. After these supplies are exhausted, it will be necessary to increase retail prices in line with the wholesale price advance."

L. A. Schoen, president, Wise Shoe Co., Inc.:

"Every article of wearing apparel, particularly shoes, will certainly cost more in the fall. Two savings are possible now. First, prices generally have been reduced in July and August; and second, prices for such quality will be much more in the fall.

Labor at the shoe factories is to be paid much more. Leather already has risen more than 50 per cent.

"Never again, probably, will such good shoes be sold at such low prices."

John Grabowsky of Grabowsky's:

"I have no hesitation in saying that all furs in demand will be up between 25 and 40 per cent in a very few weeks.

"Certain raw furs now are up 100 per cent and by the time they have passed through the manufacturing process, the finished garment will be much higher than it is today.

"There is this to point out, too, that all furs were too cheap during the past year.

"Available stocks will be consumed within the next month; then the new furs will come through the manufacturers and they will cost more."

U. S. Flier's Death In War Confirmed

ASUNCION, Paraguay, July 31.—(AP.)—Army officials today had confirmed the death last June in an aerial battle in the Gran Chaco of Walter Guyhn, identified at that time as an American aviator.

The Army, however, listed him as a Paraguayan saying that his father was an American and his mother a citizen of this country.

Missing Man Found Clad in Bathing Suit

WHEELING, W. Va., July 31.—(AP.)—Garbed only in a bathing suit, and wearing a pair of rubber boots, Earnest Fink, 32, a structural engineer, missing for 24 hours, was found wandering last night in a vehicular subway.

Fink, who had been feared drowned while swimming Saturday night, was suffering from a head wound. Physicians said he apparently was an amnesia victim.

FIGHT ON MINE FIRE URGED

Action to check a fire in an abandoned coal mine in the Thirty-first Ward, formerly Mifflin Township, is asked in a petition to City Council today by hundreds of residents of the district.

Two deaths have resulted directly from the fire during the past three year, it is alleged in a letter accompanying the petition and written by Frank L. Hill, of Mifflin road. Hill cites the fatal fall of a child into a pit and the suffocation of an older resident.

Homes in the vicinity of the mine are beginning to crack and residents are unable to sleep some nights because of the fumes from the underground fire. The petition will be considered by the Finance Committee of Council tomorrow.

HARRIMAN TRIAL HEARS EXPERT

NEW YORK, July 31.—(INS.)—Dr. A. A. Brill, noted neurologist, was the chief witness today at the inquiry into the mental fitness of Joseph W. Harriman to stand trial on a charge of falsifying the books of the closed Harriman National Bank and Trust Company.

The neurologist gave a detailed, technical explanation of his findings after the several examinations of Harriman which he had made. He said the internal causes of Harriman's condition were diabetes for many years and coronary thrombosis.

Psychological factors affecting the banker's condition, he added, were the death of Harriman's son, his wife's illness and financial difficulties.

Dr. Brill was asked if he believed Harriman is able to give rational aid to counsel in preparation of his defense. The doctor replied that he did not.

KILLS HIS BABY WITH HAMMER

IOGAN, Ia., July 31.—(AP.)—W. E. Kelly, 25-year-old farmer and rural school teacher, was held in the county jail today for the slaying of his 2-year-old son with a hammer and the attempted slaying of his wife.

Kelly drove from his home, 12 miles southeast of here, and surrendered to Sheriff C. F. Cross. The officer said Kelly told him:

"You had better call a doctor. I've just murdered my wife and baby."

Sheriff Cross found the baby and 23-year-old mother lying in a pool of blood just outside the bedroom door of the Kelly home. The baby, beaten about the head, was dead. Mrs. Kelly, also badly beaten, was unconscious. She was taken to a Council Bluffs hospital, where her condition was termed critical.

THRONGS PAY COUNTY TAX

Thousands crowded the County Treasurer's office today to take advantage of the last opportunity to pay their county taxes at a 5 per cent discount.

Beginning tomorrow and continuing through August, taxes will be payable at face according to Treasurer Robert S. Cain. After September 1, they will be delinquent and one-half of 1 per cent will be added.

To assist persons to obtain poll tax receipts making them eligible to vote at the September primaries and the general election in November, 30 deputy assessors will sit in various parts of the county, beginning tomorrow. They will make assessments for poll taxes only, receive affidavits from tax payers and forward them to the county bureau of investigations to be checked and certified on the treasurer's books.

Buy in August

This Answers the Question "What Can I Do To Help?"

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

sincere in their belief that each month will find prices higher. The writer knows a number of the country's important merchants and all not only agree that prices must go up, but state that they are unable to get options on any deliveries in advance and, furthermore, they cannot get any agreement to deliver goods at a future date AT PRESENT PRICES even by paying the money now.

JOIN the movement to "BUY IN AUGUST" and you will be doing your part to improve conditions, and thus improve yourselves.

Enterprising merchants know well what a change has come over the general situation, and those that in August, 1932, made little effort to stimulate "August buying" will take an opposite stand this year.

You will be able to judge a merchant's energy, courage and appreciation of the changed conditions by his attitude toward August business.

And merchants will be able to judge the intelligence and co-operative good will of the buying public by its response to the "Buy in August" campaign.

IF YOU buy in August, you will buy more cheaply than you could buy later, in September, October, November or December.

To buy in August what you would be compelled to buy in some later month, means to co-operate with those who are seeking to improve conditions throughout the nation.

And an active August, instead of a dull August, with goods moving, manufacturers, merchants and their employes encouraged, will have great psychological value.

And you who read this can co-operate by promoting "buy in August" in talks with friends.

August is the time to buy coal, for prices are then lower.

August is the month to buy supplies for school children, clothes, shoes, etc.

August, as the housewife knows, is "canning time," buy fruits and vegetables now, prices are low.

Building materials have already gone up 10 per cent. If you expect to have use for such materials, buy them now, and save money.

August is a month for buying furniture, rugs, men's clothing, women's fur and cloth coats, musical instruments and automobiles. Far more important than saving money is the fact that co operating in an August buying campaign by helping others you help yourself and the general situation in the country.

SLAIN DIAMOND WIDOW'S GUARD MURDERED

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—James J. Dolan can't make good that promise now.

When Mrs. Alice Shiffer Diamond, widow of the notorious "Legs" Diamond, was murdered a few weeks ago, Jimmy Dolan said:

"I'll get the guys who did this. I'll get 'em."

But he never will. They got him first—got him through the back last night in a Brooklyn beer garden and then ran away into the night.

DIES IN THE STREET

Dolan, mortally wounded, staggered in pursuit, fumbling for his gun. At the curb he fell. When police arrived he was dead.

A year ago he was struck down from behind. That time the weapon was a knife. He was in a hospital for weeks.

Dolan didn't do much talking about that. A fellow in his business—he was acting as bodyguard to Mrs. Diamond up to the time of her murder—has got to expect that sort of thing—a knife in the back, hot lead in the spine.

VOWED VENGEANCE

Mrs. Diamond was found murdered in her apartment a short time after she had remarked to friends that she was "getting tired of covering up for a lot of lugs," by which she apparently meant that she might start talking, to the discomfiture of whatever "lugs" she had in mind.

They got her first; and Dolan swore his oath of vengeance, and they got him.

He was seated with another man in the beer garden when two others entered. Dolan appeared to know them, for he spoke. The men stopped at Dolan's table and a conversation started. It was short-lived. The two men suddenly backed away from the Dolan table. Dolan's back was turned. One of them drew a gun.

Into that back poured the killer's lead.

France Building Huge Sea Depot

CHERBOURG, France, July 31.—(AP.)—A $2,500,000 maritime station 920 feet long and 138 feet wide, in which Paris-bound travelers will be transferred from ships to special trains, was inaugurated yesterday by President Albert Lebrun.

It is part of an $8,000,000 port development project, which included dredging 6,500,000 cubic yards of sea bed.

$10,000,000 Spent By Fair Visitors

CHICAGO, July 31.—(AP.)—M. M. Tveter, controller of A Century of Progress, said yesterday that visitors to the world exposition have put about $10,000,000 into circulation since the fair opened May 27.

The sum represents both paid admissions and money spent in concessions. The report showed that $7,371,505.48 had been spent at concessions up to last Friday.

Girl Drowns After Prank on Fiance

ALLENTOWN, Pa., July 31.—(AP.)—Esther Polgar, 28, drowned yesterday trying to save her fiance, whom she had playfully pushed into a water-filled mine hole.

Albert Bieber, of New York, was rescued by the young woman's brother, Stephen, who realized too late that his sister had sunk. Bieber and Miss Polgar were to have been married in September.

Troops 'Rent' Land For Pipes, Plugs And Music

INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa., July 31.—(AP.)—Tonight three tenants on a Moonshine Valley farm smoke gift tobacco from gift corncob pipes and perhaps take a "chaw" from gift plugs while listening to a private concert by a 60-piece band—their price for letting National Guardsmen swelter through maneuvers on the farm today.

Maj. Theodore Paul wanted the 1st Battalion of the 108th Field Artillery to carry out tactical maneuvers on John Kohr's land, so he held a barnyard conference with Kohr, his brother and Mrs. Kohr.

The bargain was struck. Today the soldiers have the exclusive use of the farm to repel an imaginary enemy. Tonight the regimental band will attack marches and melodies of famous composers while the three Kohrs enjoy their pipes.

FILM STRIKERS SET FOR SIEGE

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 31.—(AP.)—Striking movie studio technicians have announced plans for settling down to a long siege in their efforts to obtain higher wages and shorter hours.

They expect to carry their case to the public through the medium of advertising. The campaign will include the purchase of space in newspapers.

Opening of the second week of the strike found producers as adamant as employes and no immediate prospect of closing the breach.

At a mass meeting last night the sound section of the striking thousands—one of five groups of technicians who walked out—authorized the dispatch of a letter to William Green, head of the American Federation of Labor, saying union members did not wish to affiliate with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

PINCHOT CALLS PARLEY TO END MINE WAR

checked pickets in an attack on working miners this morning.

Sporadic clashes occurred in the coke region as thousands more quit work in Fayette, Greene, Washington and Westmoreland counties.

Pittsburgh Coal Company mines were among those affected by the new walkouts.

Maj. Gen. Shannon flew here this morning from Harrisburg. Upon his arrival at Burgess Field, he was met by Maj. Kenneth Momeyer and escorted into Uniontown for a conference. He said:

"I have nothing to say yet. I have just arrived and know practically nothing of the situation."

Later, it was reliably reported Shannon considered bringing in more guardsmen to join the four companies of the 112th regiment already here.

STRIKE SPREADS

The strike spread to Greene County with men picketing halting operations of the Buckeye mine of oYungstown Sheet and Tube Company at Nemacolin, one of the largest in the country.

More than 3,000 additional miners joined the walkout in Fayette County. Among them were employes of the Republic Iron and Steel operations at Republic and Searight, and miners at the Lemont mine, an independent operation north of Uniontown.

The Pittsburgh Coal Company's Banning mines Nos. 1 and 2 in Fayette County were affected. Eight hundred men quit at No. 1 mine. The number at the No. 2 mine was not determined. The Blythesdale, Eureka, Pricedale, Warden and Smithdale mines also were reported on strike.

1,600 MEN QUIT

Sixteen hundred men struck at the Crescent mine of the Vesta Coal Company at Daisytown and the Lilley mine of the Lilley Coal and Coke Company at West Brownsville. Both are in Washington County.

Wage increases brought an end to strikes at the McClane Mining Company and the Youghiogheny and Ohio Coal Company operations in Washington County. Four hundred and seventy-five men agreed to return to work.

The Frick company was reported preparing to open its standard mine at Mt. Pleasant, Westmoreland County, on full time. It has been closed for a year.

Five hundred pickets and 150 miners battled at the Edenborn mine of the H. C. Frick Coke Company with fists, clubs and missiles. Strikers said two men were injured. Many were nursing black eyes and bruised bodies.

Company officials said 150 men got through the picket lines and went to work.

STONER CAUGHT

At Colonial No. 3 mine of the Frick company, a guardsman caught a man and woman in the act of stoning men returning to work. The man was taken into custody, but later released. His name was not divulged.

Sergt. Isadore Catapano took the offender to his superior, Lieut. Clarence Urban, who immediately issued an order for the pickets to move back. The guardsmen with bayonets fixed, advanced into the crowd. The pickets fell back in orderly fashion to the side of the highway.

The trouble was over almost as soon as it started.

When the road was clear, about 50 miners in working clothes went down to the mine. The pickets continued to yell, but attempted no further interference.

TWO MEN HURT

Strikers at the Edenborn mine said James Hart, 31, a bookkeeper employed at the workings, and James Doyle, a motorman, suffered severe head injuries in the melee there.

Police reported Sam Buffalo, a picket who was mistaken for a miner returning to work, was beaten by other pickets at the Frick company's Footdale mine. Several stitches were needed to close a wound in his head.

Heavy picket lines were at all entrances to Frick mines. There were no other disorders. Militia details were stationed at most of the entrances and others cruised about the district in automobiles.

Details of guardsmen were stationed also at railroad crossings and other vantage points leading to company property.

Mines of W. J. Rainey, Inc., remained closed with a 100 per cent strike in effect. No attempt was made to resume operations.

The Thompson No. 2 mine of the Hillman Coal and Coke Company, near Republic, joined the Fayette County walkout. Two hundred men struck this morning.

MARCH CALLED OFF

A Greene County demonstration was organized shortly after midnight when miners began gathering on roads leading to Nemacolin, and Sheriff James M. White hurriedly called together a small force of deputies. The march was scheduled on the Crucible mine of the Crucible Steel Corporation, about 10 miles distant, but plans were changed at the last minute.

The Crucible mine is operating under an agreement with the United Mine Workers of America, a strike having been settled three weeks ago.

Five thousand men and women lined the highway leading into Nemacolin. At the entrance to the Buckeye Coal Company property, they were met by Supt. George Lingle, who forbade them to enter. A large truck had been maneuvered cross-wise on the highway. Large signs forbade trespassing and a chain had been stretched across the road between iron posts.

DEMAND ADMITTANCE

The pickets demanded they be admitted, saying they wished to traverse the road to a company-owned ferry, across the Monongahela River at the foot of the mine property.

Strikers and officials debated for nearly half an hour. Finally Sheriff White and half a dozen deputies arrived. The sheriff pushing his way through the crowd, asked for a conference with Supt. Lingle. The two withdrew a short distance down the road, and it was agreed to permit the pickets on the road.

The barrier was removed and the strikers, 5,000 strong swarmed to the mine tipple. They were joined by nearly 700 workers who refused to go to work, and a demonstration lasted for three hours. Singing songs and cheering, the strikers waved an American flag and paraded in front of the company houses and mine office.

Buckeye officials declared a road leading through their property to the ferry is owned by them. A state road marker is posted inside the property line where company officials set up their barrier. The Nemacolin postoffice is located in a company-owned building in the center of the town, the only entrance to which is this road.

HAIL SHERIFF

Sheriff White and his deputies stepped down on a flight of steps leading into the company office, the center of an admiring group of pickets. They gave him a promise that there would be no disorder and that they would obey instructions to stay on the road.

Sheriff White declared he had been urged to have a large force of deputies on hand at the mine this morning to guard against disorders, but said he felt his present force was entirely competent to handle the situation.

State Labor Department Investigator Joseph Washington visited the mine at the height of the demonstration and talked with a number of the strike leaders. They told him their object was to strike every mine in the district to force recognition of their union. They reiterated their promises of peace and expressed a willingness to open negotiations with the operators any time the operators were ready.

Strike Leader Beaten By Own Mine Pickets

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 31.—(INS.)—Sam Buffalo, 36, one of the leaders of the striking miners in Fayette County, learned today at his own expense the "efficiency" of his men in persuading miners not to go to work.

Informed that a group of men were taking back roads to get into the pit at the Filbert mine of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, Buffalo and a squad of pickets scurried away to head them off.

En route, Buffalo was separated from his men and ran into another group of pickets bent on the same mission.

Buffalo was wearing his miner's clothes, so the pickets jumped him first and asked questions afterward.

A doctor took eight stitches in a cut on Buffalo's face, and a tailor will have quite a job putting his clothes back the way they belong.

COMPANY TOWN UNDER FIRE AT MEETING

Redoubled energies today were bent in behalf of miners as representatives of social agencies planned to hear reports on conditions in the strike area tomorrow.

A meeting is scheduled at the Association for the Blind, Craig street.

At 9:45 tomorrow morning miners will tell their own stories of conditions.

Miss Elizabeth Wight, Philadelphia, representative of the Pennsylvania Security League, who has toured the strike area, will tell the gathering of her experiences and urge abolition of company towns.

Stephen Raushenbaush, investigator for the State Department of Labor and Industry, will preside at an afternoon session at 2 o'clock, which will decide on recommendations which will be carried to President Roosevelt.

Judge Michael A. Musmanno, enemy of the coal and iron police, has been asked to speak at the meeting on a plan to replace the company towns.

Organizations which will send representatives include the United Mine Workers of America, the American Civil Liberties Union, the Consumers' League, the League for Social Justice, the Community Councils and others.

COSTELLO JURY HEARS 'EXPERT'

SALEM, Mass., July 31.—(INS.)—Fire Capt. William J. Costello, of Peabody, poison victim, did not die in the position in which he was found, in the opinion of Dr. George Burgess Magrath, famous criminologist and for 26 years medical examiner of Suffolk County.

The testimony of the "Sherlock Holmes of New England" was the "master mind" in the state's efforts to convict Mrs. Jessie B. Costello of the poison murder of her husband.

Following completion of Dr. Magrath's testimony, Chief Defense Counsel Francis E. Rafter will move for a directed verdict of not guilty, he announced. Failing in this, he plans to deliver his opening argument and immediately put Mrs. Costello on the stand to tell her own story, declare her innocence, and give "the lie" to the illicit love story of Edward J. McMahon, "kiss-and-tell" ex-policeman.

Silk Mills Strike Order Withheld

EASTON, Pa., July 31.—(AP.)—The strike order effecting 70,000 workers in the silk industry scheduled for tomorrow has not been issued, Russell W. Wood, president of the American Federation of Silk Workers, said today, and indicated it may be modified to apply only to certain plants where workers are not receiving fair treatment.

HUEY LONG MUM ON MASSING OF GUARDSMEN

NEW ORLEANS, July 31.—(AP.)—The mysterious mobilization of two companies of state militia was ended today with the mystery as deep as ever.

The troops were mobilized, armed and told to stand by for orders shortly after Senator Huey P. Long returned to New Orleans from Washington Sunday.

While the troops rested on their arms at Jackson barracks, Senator Long held closeted conferences with his political leaders, including Gov. O. K. Allen and Robert Maestri, head of the department of conservation.

These conferences continued into Sunday night, and early today the soldiers were disbanded.

QUERIES IGNORED

Senator Long referred all inquirers to Gov. Allen and the Governor would reply with only:

"No statement to make."

Col. James E. Edmonds, commanding officer of the 108th Cavalry, said it was a test mobilization and he did not know from where orders to assemble had come.

After the troops had been called out, Brig. Gen. Raymond A. Fleming, adjutant general of Louisiana, rushed from Shreveport to New Orleans to take command. He, too, declined to say anything.

This morning Col. Edmonds said he received orders from the executive department to demobilize the troops. He said:

"The emergency inspection is over. The mobilization was a success."

MURRAY PROTESTS

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—Gov. William H. Murray, of Oklahoma, called on Secretary Ickes today to advocate the building of dams in Northeastern Oklahoma at the sources of the Cimarron, Arkansas, and other rivers to facilitate flood control and aid irrigation.

The work would require federal grants of about $10,000,000 to Kansas, Colorado and Oklahoma, he said, adding that he had the support of the Kansas and Colorado governors.

Murray expected to file a protest against the proposed building of a dam in the Washita River Valley in Texas, saying:

"You can't stop floods by damming the mouth of a river. You have to stop them at the source."

Turtle in Pants Causes Autoist To Crash

VENICE PARK, N. J., July 31.—(AP.)—Costanzo Zucco, of Philadelphia, stopped his car along the White Horse pike and picked up a turtle.

Zucco placed the turtle at his feet and resumed his journey back home from the shore. A few minutes later it started to climb up his pants leg. In his struggle to discourage the turtle, he lost control of his car, which crashed into a telephone pole. Zucco and his wife were injured.

Representatives of miners who have been employed in the Union Colleries mines at Newfield and Renton today complained to Sheriff Frank I. Gollman that their efforts to organize a union local of the United Mine Workers were being interfered with.

STRIKE PERILS STEEL MILLS

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 31.—(AP.)—Officials of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company and the Republic Steel Corporation said today that the companies have sufficient coal on hand to operate for "some time," but that if mine strikes in Pennsylvania should tie up their coal output there for any length of time, serious curtailment of steel mill operations here would result. Sheet and Tube operates mines at Brier Hill and Nemacolin, Pa., through the Buckeye Coal Company, a subsidiary. Republic Steel has mines at Republic, Martin, Smithfield and Russelton, Pa. Dispatches today said labor trouble was threatened at Nemacolin and Republic.

Pinchot Won't Visit Coal Strike Region

MILFORD, Pa., July 31.—(AP.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot, spending the week-end at his home, said yesterday rumors current in Western Pennsylvania that he intended visiting the soft coal strike region there were "all wrong." He said:

"I see no reason for such a visit when everything is going along quietly."

Fagan Sees 'Unrest' In Coal Strike Area

P. T. Fagan, district president of the United Mine Workers of America, today reported "a lot of unrest" in the Fayette County strike area. Fagan yesterday explained the miners' recovery code to a mass meeting of miners at Smithton.

TRUCE LOOMS IN MILK WAR

HARRISBURG, July 31.—(INS.)—A truce in the "milk war" between Harrisburg dealers and Cumberland County dairy farmers loomed today with new overtures coming from the dealers.

In a letter to John A. McSparran, State Secretary of Agriculture, they offered the producers $1.70 per 100 pounds for all milk sold or $1.60 for 100 pounds for all milk produced. Four per cent butterfat milk was specified.

A condition was the check-off of 2 cents of the price per hundredweight, the money to be placed in a fund in the custody of Secretary McSparran. The fund would be given to the Capitol City Milk Producers' Association if that association is recognized by the federal milk marketing agreement covering the Philadelphia milk shed; if the capitol city association is not recognized the fund would go to the producers' organization that is recognized.

Strikers Set Police On Girl Communist

PAWTUCKET, R. I., July 31.—(AP.)—Striking silk workers picketing the plant of the Royal Weaving Company today called police to remove from their lines Ann Burlak, young Communist labor agitator, who attempted to join the pickets. Leaders of the 1,200 strikers told police that Miss Burlak, who has figured in many strikes in New England, was not wanted.

Wage Raise Spurned By Hosiery Strikers

READING, Pa., July 31.—(INS.)—Remaining steadfast in their demand for union recognition, 10,000 Berks County hosiery mill strikers today refused to return to their jobs despite a pay raise which operators claim is 25 per cent higher than the union scale.

GOVERNMENT ACTION!

Fintex Craftsmen are Celebrating a 20% Raise in Wages!

Several weeks ago, the great Fintex tailoring plant went on a new wage scale—20% higher than formerly. The Fintex wage scale has been consistently maintained at a high standard and in taking this step, we merely anticipated President Roosevelt's request to all industries.

This wage increase to Fintex Craftsmen and the greatly increased cost of woolens, trimmings and other material indicate higher retail prices when our present stocks are depleted.

That's why we join Pittsburgh merchants in suggesting that you fill your clothing requirements during August. You'll be glad you did, when you see the smart new models in our two stores; every garment to go at the Fintex all-time low price of $15.

Fintex Clothes are made in our own tailoring plant, sold only through our own stores.

MATTERN BACK IN N. Y., SCARED AND PUZZLED

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—Grinning Jimmie Mattern did not look today like a man back from the dead but he was still a bit scared (he was brave enough to say so himself) and more than a bit puzzled.

Puzzled over those five lost days that dropped right out of his life without leaving a trace—scared over a little book he is carrying around in his pocket.

The book is a diary, recording what happened to him when he was lost 19 days in the Siberian wilds after the plane in which he was trying to break the 'round-the-world record smashed itself into junk June 14. Mattern said:

"I get scared every time I read some of the notes I put down in that diary. I haven't scratched the surface yet on telling about my experiences."

FIVE DAYS 'LOST'

As for those lost days, he guesses they never will be recovered. Nineteen days he was lost in the wilderness, injured and facing starvation, while the world believed him dead. He kept notes carefully, but when Eskimos rescued him only 14 days were recorded in the diary. The flier declared:

"I don't know what happened to those other five days. But then, the sun just rose and set around your head and you never knew where you were at."

Perhaps he "passed out," he said, but he couldn't be sure.

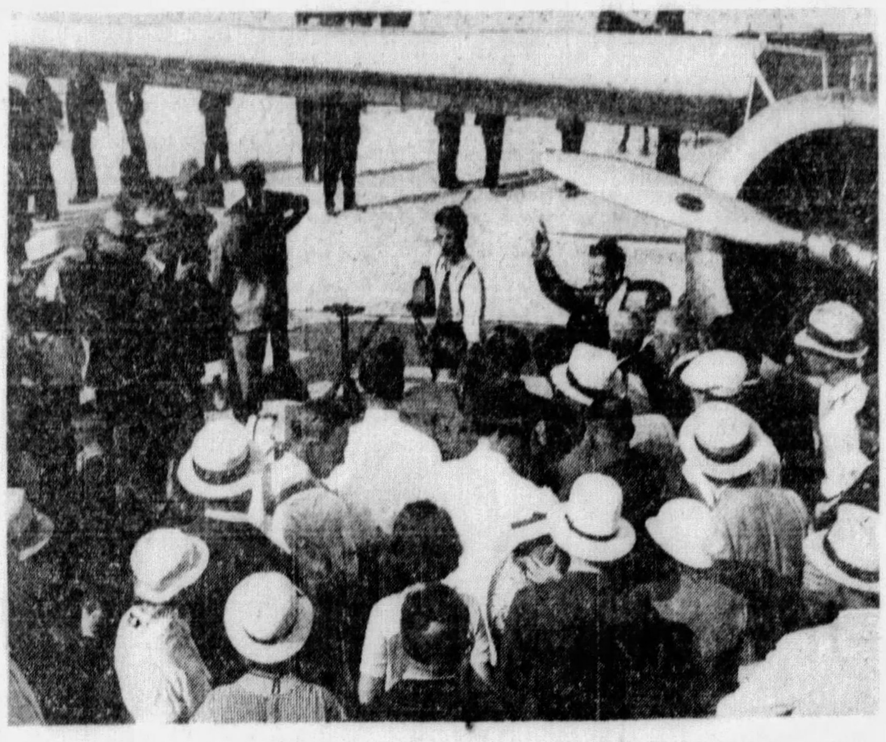
Mattern, who set out to fly around the world in less than eight days, came home yesterday, 57 days after the takeoff, but glad to be back. He arrived in a plane that was offered him in Alaska after a Soviet plane flew him from Anadyr to Nome.

PLANS FAIR TRIP

He wore high Russian boots and limped from a leg injury he suffered when he crashed in Siberia. After the official city reception today, he will make plans to fly to the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago and to his home town, San Angelo, Tex.

He said poor "Russian oil" that wouldn't flow was to blame for his smashup. From the scene of the crash, Mattern, with only a small supply of biscuits and chocolate, started to hobble the few miles to the Anadyr River. It took him eight days. At the river, he built himself a hut and waited until June 29, when native fishermen found him.

HERE'S JIMMY MATTERN BACK HOME



JIMMY MATTERN (WAVING) AS CROWD GREETED HIM AT THE END OF HIS LONG FLIGHT

The return of Flier Mattern, whose 'round-the-world solo flight ended in a Siberian crack-up, as a 'rescue' plane landed him at New York. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

GANDHI STARTS NEW PROTEST

AHMEDABAD, India, July 31.—(AP.)—With the dissolution of his college of devotees at Sabarmati tomorrow, the Mahatma Gandhi will embark on a new civil disobedience movement in which individual acts will supplant a mass campaign for independence.

Thirty-two members of the seminary will begin a march to Ras Village in Kaira district to invite villagers to participate in the movement.

Among the marchers will be Mme. Gandhi and 15 other women.

The Mahatma said discontinuance of the ahram, or college, was necessary because it was the most precious thing on earth to him and since hundreds of thousands had lost everything in their struggle for independence, it devolved on him and members of the ashram to make a sacrifice before starting a new "sacred mission."

British Planes Ready To Bomb Indians

SIMLA, India, July 31.—(AP.)—Four squadrons of British bombing planes today were standing by, ready to bomb certain villages of the Bajauri tribe on the northwest frontier at dawn tomorrow if the tribesmen have not by then complied with a demand to surrender three agitators accused of fomenting unrest in the Bajauri and Mohmand tribes.

The leader of the trio is known to the British as the "Mad Fakir" and is regarded as mainly responsible for the situation.

W. VA. MURDER PROBE PUSHED

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 31.—(AP.)—While officers carry on their search for two wanted men, plans have been laid to seek indictments next Monday in the slaying last week of Deputy Sheriff Roy Shamblin and his prisoner, Ralph Harper.

There have been no formal charges lodged, but Assistant Prosecutor S. Collett said investigation has proceeded to the point where "we hope to have evidence for indictments."

Leo Frazier, of Charleston, and Charles Harper, Huntington, brother of the slain prisoner, are sought. Circulars state they are "wanted for the murder of an officer." Federal warrants charge them with theft of an automobile.

Coast Guard Guns Sink Rum Vessel

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 31.—(INS.)—Captured for the third time within two months, the 55-foot speedboat Lady Hamilton, of Newport, R. I., sank in Long Island Sound today as she was being towed ashore with a $20,000 liquor cargo by a Coast Guard patrol boat.

A Coast Guard one-pound shot, one of 14 fired to halt the notorious rum ship, pierced her hull.

2 Found Drowned, Third Still Missing

DENTON, Tex., July 31.—(AP.)—Bodies of Bobbie Dowell, 16, and Ruby Lynn Hendricks, 20, cousins, who went swimming together in Lake Dallas Saturday were found floating on the lake yesterday near an island six miles east of Denton.

WIFE SLAYER BLAMES SLUMP

Jacob C. Thompson, 36, candy salesman who, police say, chloroformed and fatally slashed his wife in his room at 302 River avenue, July 24, was turned over to the Coroner today charged with murder.

In a statement to Lieut. Frank Ferris, of the homicide squad, Thompson said he lost his head through jealousy. Expressing sorrow for his act, he blamed the depression, through which he lost a job and ability to support his wife, for his trouble.

Thompson's hands are still bandaged as a result of what police say was an attempt to commit suicide with the razor with which he had cut his wife.

RYE, N. Y., July 31.—(AP.)—Aviators who have crossed the North Atlantic alone are going to form a club.

Plans for the organization—the North Atlantic Solo Flight Club—were discussed last night by Amelia Earhart Putnam and her house guest, Capt. James A. Mollison.

They broached the idea to Wiley Post, world solo flier, who expressed approval.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Jimmy Mattern, the other eligibles, also will be invited to join.

Culbertson's Team Vanquishes British

LONDON, July 31.—(AP.)—Ely Culbertson's American contract bridge team counted among its laurels today a 10,370-point victory over a British team captained by Lindsay Mundy.

Before the final match started Mundy was forced to withdraw because of illness and his place was taken by Norman Hart. In the last 50 boards the Americans extended their advantage by 3,250 points, giving them a total of 62,260 against 51,890 for the Britons.

Radio Tenor Hurt in Fall From Horse

Ed. Harvey, WCAE program director, didn't enjoy the sights at the Century of Progress Exposition during a recent visit.

All his clothes were stolen when burglars ransacked the home of his in-laws in Chicago, where he and Mrs. Harvey were visiting.

Howard Price, tenor, featured on WCAE, did an imperial Prince of Wales yesterday. Thrown from his horse in Schenley Park, Price hit the turf and sprained his ankle.

Jim Hughes, WJAS program manager, returned today from a week in the surf at Atlantic City.

One on Rudy

One of the most engaging practices of Rudy Vallee is his informal little compliments to composers between musical numbers.

Last Thursday night he was particularly gracious after the orchestra had played "Till I Wake," one of the several opuses, whose lyrics were written by Lawrence Hope, whose "Pale Hands" is conceded immortal. Rudy crooned:

"I hope Mr. Hope is listening, and if he is, I sincerely wish that he would get in touch with me, as I'd enjoy telling him how much I have admired his work."

Rudy will enjoy the laugh on himself, I'm sure, when he discovers that Lawrence Hope was a lady, a Mrs. Malcolm Nicholson, who committed suicide on her husband's grave back in 1904.

Going Network

"Salt and Peanuts," for more than a year KDKA broadcasters, go on a thrice-weekly network schedule over NBC-WCAE beginning today, drawing the noontime spot on Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays. The song-and-chatter outfit's actual network bow was one of last Saturday's events.

"Salt," the man in the act, incidentally, is Frank Salt, of the Salt and Pepper combination, featured on Broadway in "The Passing Show of 1926" and "Gay Paree." And "Peanuts?" Well—she's just "Peanuts."

Frank Novak plays 30-odd instruments, one at a time, of course, but is looking for new fields to conquer, and if you ever run across a rare or ancient, or even a newly-invented musical device, get in touch with him at the NBC and he'll buy it from you, if it suits.

Thrills Plus

Sondra Kostner (Mrs. Ed. Harvey), who with her WCAE program director-husband got more thrills than she bargained for in Chicago recently. They met with burglars!

Globe-Trotting

—By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN—

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

The greatest piece of globetrotting, even excelling Wiley Post's feat, according to her father, was accomplished by Shirley Belle Jeffrey, 3-year-old wanderer of Corliss Station.

First to the grocery to ask for candy, then to the hair dresser's to request a finger wave, and being turned down both places, but still undaunted, she ended her pilgrimage at the playground some distance away from home, where her proud but anxious parent found her negotiating the slides.

"Hollyhocks? Huh? Take a look at these pictures," says C. Hathaway, 1652 Westmoreland street. His snapshot show them over 100 feet high and still standing. The corn looks "purty" good, too.

Do you remember those zinnia seeds we raved about sometime ago?

I've been vindicated. They did grow into lovely flowers. Florence Milton, Brentwood, brought in a bouquet.

Mrs. C. M. Myers, Jeannette—Pittsburgh has no municipal dog pound or dog catcher. The caring of stray animals is handled by the Animal Rescue League. Their refuge farm is on the Verona road.

* * *

Father Cox, after visiting Nice on his European pilgrimage, isn't so sure but that it was the location of the Garden of Eden. His postcard pictures a heavenly spot.

Stewards Outing At Farm Wednesday

A corn roast and chicken dinner will feature the stag outing of the Pittsburgh Stewards' Club Wednesday at Daniels' Farm according to Harry Dipple, chairman of the refreshment committee.

Mr. Dipple

In addition to a musical program, swimming, sports and games are included in the plans for the outing. A cold buffet luncheon will be served throughout the day. Albert, president of the club, is general chairman.

FORD OBSERVES 70TH BIRTHDAY

DETROIT, July 31.—(AP.)—Henry Ford has passed his seventieth milestone in excellent health and so engrossed with many interests that he has no time to think of such things as retiring.

Once every seven years—when his birthday falls on Sunday—he observes the occasion in some manner other than usual work-a-day routine. That was the case yesterday, but there was no particular observance of the day, which was spent quietly with his family and a few close friends at the Ford home, "Fairlane."

Associates said he had recovered fully from the illness which sent him to a hospital last year and that, except for a cold, or slight throat irritation, his health was unusually good.

The code adopted by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce under the National Recovery Act was expected to get some of Ford's attention today. Although not a member of the N. A. C. C., the Ford company was represented at the code conferences but has not signed the document.

$100,000 GEMS BANDITS' LOOT

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 31—(AP.)—Mrs. Philip Glemby, of New York City, reported to police she was held up by a bandit early yesterday while preparing to retire at a local hotel, and robbed of jewelry she said was worth $100,000.

The bandit, described as being about 22 years old, pushed open the door of her suite, Mrs. Glemby said, leveled a revolver at her and demanded the jewelry. She said he bound her hands with a towel, locked her in the bathroom and departed with the loot.

The jewelry, she said, was insured. Louis W. Grieve, assistant manager of the hotel, said none of the hotel employes saw the bandit and that detectives whom he summoned could not find the towel with which she said she was tied.

The loot, Mrs. Glemby said, consisted of three pearl necklaces, three pearl and diamond rings, a pair of pearl and diamond earrings and a pearl and platinum brooch.

Mrs. Glemby is a sister-in-law of Mrs. Harry Glemby whose New York home was invaded by three bandits in January, 1932, who escaped with jewelry valued at $300,000.

COLEMAN RUNS FOR JUDGE

Attorney William H. Coleman, Republican county chairman, formally announcing his candidacy for a place on Common Pleas bench, today said he had withheld action until assured that all three sitting judges did not intend to run. Decision of President Judge James R. Macfarlane to retire, he said, had influenced him to become a candidate.

In his announcement Coleman said:

"To establish ourselves on principles that make for justice is the work of the public servant of the future in whatever capacity he serves and whatever his political affiliations.

"Equal justice to all of whatever state or persuasion, religious or political, is my plea—justice that is akin to equity or fair and impartial dealing with human kind.

"A fearless and independent judiciary is essential to the preservation of the liberties of the American people. The duty of a judge demands that he maintain a courageous and independent attitude, and deal fairly with all classes of people. This I pledge myself to do. No candidate for this high office dare pledge more."

Rare 'Fishing' Fish Among Catch Of Scientists

PHILADELPHIA, July 31.—(AP.)—A fish which goes fishing, dangling before its mouth the tip of a long tentacle as a lure for smaller fry, is among the rare specimens which have been brought from the tropics by Dr. William Beebe.

Fish which venture within striking distance to investigate the waving wand are gobbled up even though half the size of the finney fisherman, said Col. Edwin M. Chance, with whom Dr. Beebe made the trip. He described the creature as a heretofore unclassified species of antenarius.

Forty previously unknown varieties of fish were discovered and classified in the sixweek expedition into Central American waters.

Cuban Teachers Protest Violence

HAVANA, July 31.—(AP.)—Several teachers from Santa Clara province planned to present to United States Ambassador Sumner Welles today a protest against what they called the unnecessary brutality with which Maj. Luis Perez Arovha suppressed a teachers' parade demanding payment of back salaries.

With them were three women who were injured in the reported attack by police and civil guards.

PATRIARCH 'FOX' SAYS BISHOP

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., July 31.—(AP.)—Quoting the Scriptures, Archbishop Aftimios Ofiesh, claimant to the leadership of the Eastern Orthodox Catholic Church in North America, today had challenged authority of Alexander Tahman patriarch of Antioch, to rule his marriage a violation of church rule. The church of which Archbishop Aftimios for years was the leader has been divided over his contract marriage here on April 29 to Miss Marion Namey, 22-year-old church worker, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. A recent letter by the patriarch declared the archbishop had severed his connection with the church as a result of the marriage.

In his reply today Archbishop Aftimios referred to the patriarch of Antioch as a fox. The letter begins:

"Go ye, and tell that fox . . ." (Luke 13:32).

3 GUARDSMEN OVERCOME BY CAMP HEAT

Pittsburgher, Other Victims Recover; Visitors Swelter

MT. GRETNA, July 31.—(AP.)—Five thousand visitors sweltered with National Guardsmen yesterday at Mt. Gretna and Indiantown Gap.

Three Guardsmen were prostrated by the heat, but all recovered in infirmaries by nightfall. Thermometers reached 98 at Indiantown Gap and 93 at Mt. Gretna. No visitors were affected seriously by the heat as they watched perspiring Guardsmen parade.

Those overcome were Pvts. William Pierce, Battery 8, 108th Field Artillery, Philadelphia; Leonard Bentley, Medical Detachment, 107th Field Artillery, Pittsburgh, and David Richards, Battery A, 107th Field Artillery, Harrisburg.

Leon Deassi, Headquarters Battery, 107th Field Artillery, Pittsburgh, was injured seriously in the abdomen by the kick of a horse he was grooming. His condition is not critical.

Maj. Gen. Edward C. Shannon, commander of the 28th Division, P. N. G., presented Capt. James Madda, Butler, with a silver cup, for the championship basketball team of Company D, 112th Infantry. The team has won the trophy seven successive years. The presentation was made at a dinner Saturday night.

Five Philadelphians, members of Battery D, 108th Field Artillery, were hurt in an automobile accident. All were treated at the infirmary. Corp. Harold Block, driver, said his car upset as he swung to avoid striking another machine near Collegeville.

The 2nd Battalion, 111th Infantry, goes on the regular war problem to defend Indiantown Gap from an invading enemy today. Battery A, 107th Field Artillery, Harrisburg, will reinforce the 2nd Battalion in the defense, while a company of the 103rd Engineers maps bridges and roads in defiance of the imaginary enemy.

'Iolanthe' Given For Audience of 1

SOUTHAMPTON. — With an audience of one person, and a small bedroom for a stage, Gilbert and Sullivan's "Iolanthe" was produced here. The audience was the wife of the producer. Previously the comic opera had been performed on a pier here, but the producer's wife had been ill, and unable to attend.

Nation Says It To Gen. Johnson With Many Flags

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Have you seen the national recovery flags flying from the factories and the foundries?

Each one means the boss has stamped the government seal on the dinner pail where it belongs.

If you see a smaller flag with crossed anchors it indicates the boss is tied up with an insurance agent he can't get rid of.

An eagle on a blue pennant means the boss is gone to the country. When it flies a half staff he is back again.

When the wife hangs a tablecloth on the chimney you know supper is ready. A skull and crossbones on the garage is warning that your boy has taken the family car without your permission.

A collection of battle flags on the front gate with two green lanterns on the porch means sister is in the hammock with her sweety. Papa will please come in the back door.

MISSIONARIES HIT IN REPORT

NEW YORK, July 31.—An extensive leakage of membership from churches in China every year is noted in a supplementary report of the Laymen's Foreign Missions inquiry.

The usual way of filling up these losses, the report said, is "the holding of an intensive series of revival meetings instead of a genuine reconstruction of the type of church service and the adoption of a more adequate pastoral method of intercourse and fellowship with the members." It added:

"Speaking generally, the pastors are not equal to their task, and through lack of adequate preparation, they have allowed their talk itself to sink to a pretty low level.

"In other words, they are not expectant of much and naturally their people are not expectant. Salaries are pitifully small.

"There is a dearth of trained laymen to bear responsibility, and the work drags and becomes dull."

REPEAL LISTS CLOSE IN WASH.

OLYMPIA, Wash., July 31.—(AP.) — The filing period for Washington's special election August 29 to pass upon repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment closed yesterday with the names of 396 candidates on file in Secretary of State E. N. Hutchinson's office.

Twenty candidates for delegates to the state convention October 3 made up the last minute filings.

Since leaving the Treasurer's office he had been an appraiser in the State's Inheritance Tax office.

For 27 years he was treasurer of Syria Temple. He was a member of the Episcopal Church and the Keystone Club.

HERRON RIVALS TO CONFER

The Republican mayoralty tangle marked time today, awaiting the outcome of a conference late this afternoon in the Keystone Club between James F. Malone, Councilman P. J. McArdle and Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, three anti-administration candidates for the nomination.

Called by Malone, the meeting was designed to concentrate opposition to Mayor John S. Herron through withdrawal of two or all of the anti-administration entries, a man heretofore not in the picture to be backed if the second plan should be adopted.

In advance of the meeting there seemed little chance that anything harmonious would result, certainly not immediately. Malone has consistently declared he would retire in the interests of unity in an anti-Herron campaign, but McArdle and Mackrell both indicated they were in the fight to the finish.

Mackrell said he would enter the conference as "a definite candidate for Mayor," and McArdle contented himself with the announcement that he would attend. At the same time he was proceeding with the formation of a councilmanic slate, acting with the Citizens' League, which last week indorsed him.

LINDY TO OWN ESKIMO KAYAK

HOLSTENBORG, Greenland, July 31. — (Universal.) — Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is going to take a speedy Eskimo kayak back to the United States with him.

Held to the ground by fogs over Greenland, the Colonel bought a kayak to practice rowing it. He and Mrs. Lindbergh learned the first principles of mastering the kayak from natives.

Lindbergh also spent some time mastering the art of mushing dogs drawing sledges.

When the weather clears, he will fly over the ice cap, make a second flight to Baffinland and a third northward to Godthaven.

DAPPER DEATH ARREST NEAR

The first arrest in the five-year-old mystery of the slaying of young Dr. Harry R. Dapper, Carrick physician, was promised within 10 days by county detectives today.

The suspect, said by sleuths to be living in a mountain hideout, is alleged to be the trigger man who lured Dr. Dapper into the Lebanon Church road. A patient of Dr. Dapper, the suspect is said to have disappeared shortly after he was questioned by detectives after the slaying.

KILLER TELLS AFTER 14 YEARS

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 31.—(INS.)—After 14 years of remorse, William J. Barendson surrendered to police and confessed he killed a man with his automobile in 1919.

He was a boy of 18, he said, when a man stepped into the path of his car one night. Terrified, he failed to stop.

Under the statute of limitations, he was released shortly after his confession. As he left police headquarters he said:

"Now I can sleep nights."

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., July 31.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Roger Babson, who savvies a lot about things before they happen, says people are going back to the old-fashioned investments, that they are starting in to raise children, figuring on the children raising them in their older years. It was becoming a kind of lost art.

Will Rogers

Babson figures that if we will just deprive ourselves and furnish the children gas now, that they will do the same for us in our old days. That's about all there is to supporting anybody nowadays, you never hear, "Why will board me, who will room me," it's always, "Who will furnish the gas."

If we could get the state to furnish the gas instead of the school and the teacher, we could really put on a child-raising campaign.

Yours, WILL.

Jobless Man Hires Out Turtles as Lure

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 31.—(AP.) — A cheerful individual known only as Manoel lost his job as a porter, but put his pet turtle to work, and everything's fine.

Manoel has a customer for each day of the week.

FIRM SAYS MAE DONE US WRONG

LOS ANGELES, July 31.—(Universal.)—"She done us wrong."

That was the burden of a complaint on file today against Mae West in Municipal Court by the First National Bank of Chicago, as assignee of the firm of Downing & Downing.

The bank wants Mae to hand over $206.50 for furs she assertedly bought from the Downing establishment—and for which she was represented as having "failed and refused" to pay.

And the actress still stands pat, and even to this day "fails and refuses" to hand over the money, according to the complaint. The $206.50 bill, represented as the balance due on a fur purchase, assertedly became due on July 30 of last year.

The furious furriers said that Miss West promised to "come on up some time," and come across—but never did.

FATAL CRASH LAID TO TONG

MINNEAPOLIS, July 31.—(AP.)—Death of two Chinese and injury of two others in an automomile mishap last night was studied by police today for possible connection with tong trouble and the slaying of an unidentified Chinese whose body was found near Anoka, Minn., Saturday.

Seoo Foo, of Chicago, and Fong Wong, of Minneapolis, were killed as the car turned over three miles from here.

Joe Sin and Lee Hong, of Minneapolis, were in critical condition today.

NEW HOME LOAN OFFICE OPENS TOMORROW

The Pittsburgh offices of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation were ready today for tomorrow's opening in the Benedum-Trees Building.

The first day of official business will commence at 9 a. m. tomorrow when the doors of the branch on the first floor of the building will be thrown open to home owners applying for relief from foreclosure proceedings.

Only home owners in distress and in danger of losing their homes will be aided.

SPEEDY RELIEF

L. G. Lichliter, manager for Western Pennsylvania, will be in charge of the district office. The work for Allegheny County in the same suites will be handled through J. S. Baughman, manager of the Pittsburgh branch.

Applications will take from two weeks to two months for action, depending on when they are submitted and the state of the emergency from which the home owner seeks relief.

Loans will be made in bonds of the corporation. Congress authorized the issuance of $2,000,000,000 of these securities to pay 4 per cent interest and mature at the end of 18 years. Loans will be for terms of 15 years at 5 per cent interest.

RUSH EXPECTED

The corporation can loan up to 80 per cent of the present day value of a property. It will be necessary to receive the consent of the holder of the mortgage, however, before a loan can be completed.

A rush of home owners from this county is expected to swamp the offices with work for the first several weeks. A full staff will be on hand to aid applicants in all details of the transactions.

BROKER SLAIN ON HIGH SEAS, PAL BLAMED

International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Carl Werner Heye, wealthy 26-year-old Rochester (N. Y.) broker, was shot and killed accidentally by his traveling companion, Charles Manger, while both were "playing with a revolver" in a cabin aboard the liner Bremen, according to the cabled report of the tragedy received at the offices here of the North German Lloyd Line.

The radio message received from Capt. Leopold Ziegenbein, of the liner, declared that although negligence was the cause of the shooting, "the matter must be referred to the German court."

The radio report, freely translated from the German, was as follows:

"Karl Werner Heye, passenger, first class, destination Bremerhaven (Bremen), has been shot by First Class Passenger Manger on July 30, through negligence.

"Result of the investigation revealed that passengers played in first-class cabin with revolver. However, matter must be referred to German court. Police in Bremen have been informed.

"CAPT. ZIEGENBEIN."

Charles Manger, friend and traveling companion of young Heye, is the son of the partner in a national hotel chain. Ralph Revillo, of New York City, friend of both youths, received a cable from Manger which said:

"Will probably return with Karl aboard this ship."

The message gave no other information about the shooting at sea.

Heye lived at 46 Washington Square, South, the same place where Revillo resides.

BEST OF FRIENDS

Revillo said there was no doubt in the minds of the friends of Heye and Manger that the shooting was an accident. He added:

"We knew both men intimately, and they were the best of friends. As soon as Charlie (Manger) gets home, the whole affair will be cleared up."

Mrs. E. Mercedes Richards and James H. O'Brien, of the Washington Square address, agreed.

Whether or not Manger will be permitted to return on the Bremen immediately with the body of his friend remained in doubt.

Heye and Manger had not planned to make the trip to Germany together, Revillo said. It was the outcome of a pre-sailing party at a New York hotel, tendered by Heye, at which he invited Manger to accompany him abroad. Both had passports, which were obtained some time ago, after they had made plane for a round-the-world cruise.

'LIFE OF THE PARTY'

Revillo said:

"Manger did not decide to go until a few minutes before sailing, and the Bremen was held 15 minutes to give him time to get his clothes. He bought the ticket at the pier.

"Both of the boys had permits to carry pistols, which they obtained when they planned the world cruise. I think, however, the gun that killed Heye belonged to him.

"Manger is of a mechanical turn of mind and is familiar with weapons. He must have been cleaning or adjusting the revolver when it was discharged.

"Heye had a reputation here in the apartment, where he was well-known and liked, of being the 'life of the party.' With Manger, he made frequent visits to night clubs and enjoyed entertaining. Manger was a more sedate and quiet sort of chap. Both took great interest in music, poetry and art."

Heye was the adopted son of K. Werner Heye, of Rochester, N. Y., who left him $200,000 when he was killed in an auto accident a year ago.

SUICIDE HINTED

BREMEN, Germany, July 31.—(INS.)—The possibility of suicide in connection with the fatal shooting of Karl Heye, of Rochester, N. Y., aboard the liner Bremen at sea is being investigated by local police, it was said this afternoon.

Police merely stated they had received information indicating a man had committed suicide aboard the liner and that he was "believed to be an American."

Wireless messages from Capt. Leopold Ziegenbein, master of the Bremen, had attributed Heye's death to an accident.

Bees Stop Auto By Making Its Radiator Boil

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS.)—A swarm of bees made it hot for an automobile near Amity but almost ruined their colony in bringing the car to a halt.

John Bockes, driver, noticed the buzzing cloud of insects as he drove along. The next moment his car was surrounded. They pelted against his radiator with such force as to pack the openings, bring the water to a boil and forcing Bockes to stop.

Fortunately for Bockes his car windows were closed and by the time his motor became overheated the remainder of the swarm was far behind.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

There was a revue in Asbury Park this past week-end in which a former Pittsburgh girl appeared in a costume dance, the former Sara Louise Gwinner, now Mrs. Frederick Eaton Crispin of New York.

The revue, "Skipping Stones," was given for the benefit of the Deal-Allenhurst Alliance of Fitkin Memorial Hospital Friday and Saturay nights.

Mrs. Crispin is summering at Spring Lake, N. J. with her parents, the Edward William Gwinners. The Frederick Gwinners III, will leave Friday to join the Gwinners at Spring Lake.

Mrs. Harvey Childs III, will spend the remainder of the summer in Norfolk, Conn., where her sons, James Mabon Childs and Harvey Childs II have been with Mrs. Childs' mother.

The W. Eugene Garys, who are summering at Saranac Inn, in the Adirondacks, have as their guests two popular members of the younger set—Joan Diehl, now of San Francisco, though we always think of her as still belonging to Pittsburgh, and Jane Sloan.

Guests At Inn

Joan has been the guest of Jane and her parents, the A. E. Sloans, for some time. And this past winter, Jane visited the Diehls in their new home in San Francisco.

The junior James Verner Scaifes have been in New York—and they stopped at the Beverly.

Catherine Bauer Married to E. J. Groff

Miss Catherine Marie Bauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bauer, of Ridgewood avenue, North Side, became the bride of Edward Joseph Groff, son of Mrs. Charles Joseph Groff, of Luray street, North Side, at the Church of the Annunciation this morning at 9 o'clock.

The ceremony was performed at a nuptial high mass by the Very Rev. John J. Greaney, pastor of the church, before an altar banked with cibotium ferns and white gladioli.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory lace fashioned in princess style, and having puffed sleeves of tulle. Her veil of tulle cascaded from a cap of rose point lace having three bands of pearls and clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white orchids showered with lilies of the valley.

Miss Mary Groff, sister of the bridegroom, who was maid of honor, wore yellow organza with a maline hat to match, and carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses.

Nile green organza with a maline hat to match was worn by the bridesmaid, Miss Florence Karcher, cousin of the bride. She had an arm bouquet of Briarcliff roses.

Albert A. Bauer, brother of the bride, was best man, and William J. Groff and Frank J. Dillon were ushers.

A wedding breakfast at the Pines followed, with the bridal table arranged in the form of a horseshoe. Following a Bermuda honeymoon, Mr. Groff and his bride will be at home after August 14 in Luray street, North Side.

CUT DOWN RUNS FROM Ordinary STRAINS!

"HIGH STEPS—up and down the bus every night and morning—what strains my stockings get!" says this business girl. "But I know that Lux keeps the silk elastic, so it will give under strain without breaking; stretch—then spring right back again."

"STOOPING is what strains my stockings," reports a society girl. "Before I used Lux, I'd stoop—and pop would go a run. That's what wrong washing can do. Lux saves me money!"

"HOW MANY TIMES a day we strain stockings," says a busy mother. "The Lux way of washing stockings has saved me many a costly run because it preserves elasticity. I won't use soaps that have harmful alkali or rub with cake soap. They weaken elasticity and even ordinary strains are apt to start a run."

A YOUNG WIFE says—"Garter strain happens all the time when I'm doing housework. Lucky for me Lux keeps the silk 'live' so it can stand strains day after day. And it's so easy to Lux stockings. It's foolish—and expensive—to rub with cake soap. With Lux there's no rubbing and Lux has no harmful alkali."

EVEN PUTTING ON stockings will often burst a run if you've weakened elasticity by wrong washing. Clever girls won't risk it. Stockings washed in Lux wear so much longer, keep their fit better, too.

RUNS . . . RUNS . . . RUNS! Usually stockings aren't to blame. When new, they have an elasticity—a live "spring" that lets them give under strain without breaking.

But washing with soaps containing harmful alkali or rubbing with cake soap weakens elasticity. Then even the best stockings are apt to snap under everyday strains. Lux saves elasticity. It has no harmful alkali and there's no rubbing. Lux stockings every night—it takes only 2 minutes. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

Should Man Continue to Take His Wife Back?

This is the story of a bad wife—a wife who was a nagger, a waster and a quitter since the day she married.

Time and again she broke up her home, and her husband's heart. Then, when the mood seized her, back she came again.

Now she's in another comeback mood, and threatens to stage the most tragic tantrum of all unless she has her way.

If she were your wife—what would you do?

Dear Elsie Robinson—

You have helped so many people with their troubles that I am wondering if you can spare a few moments for mine. I am in a terrible quandary.

When I married three years ago I did it with the intention of being everything a husband should be; but I soon discovered that my wife's ideas of marriage were far different from mine.

I didn't have a lot of money, which she knew when we married, and she was so extravagant that in a few months I was terribly in debt. She nagged me to desperation, always complaining about what other people had, and all the good times the Smiths or the Browns were having, while we had to go to the parks, or to cheap shows, for our fun.

She wanted a pretty home and pretty furniture, and she spent most of my salary on those things and ran up huge bills besides. I told her that we would have to sacrifice everything until we could pay off our debts—and that made her wild.

Things went from bad to worse, until she left me. After a few weeks she came back, said she was sorry, and that she would try to be good and do better.

THREATENS SUICIDE

This time, things got so bad that I lost my health from worrying, and when my health went, so did my job. And as soon as the job went, so did she.

This time I was determined to have nothing more to do with her, so I came away from our home town. I have many wonderful friends here now, and I am beginning to get over feeling so dreadful about being away from my baby.

Well, now my wife writes and again says that she is sorry—that she realizes now that she loves me, and that if I don't take her back she will commit suicide.

I don't know what to do. Sometimes I feel that I should take her back, for the baby's sake. Yet I am not sure that I love her any more, and I hate to think of going through the same thing again. But if she carried out her threat, it would mar my baby girl's chance for happiness.

Please help me. What shall I do? JOE.

WHAT WAS REASON?

There's the story. Now what's your answer?

Let's get back to causes, first. What's your idea of the reason for the trouble?

Was Joe too good to his wife?

Should he have tied up his money so she couldn't use it wastefully—controlled her nagging by force, if necessary? Did she wreck his life because she came to despise him for his weakness? Would she have loved him and managed their home better, if he had been a Cave-Man and asserted his rights?

Or wasn't Joe good enough to his wife?

Should he have been more patient? More generous?

Should he take her back, no matter how often she leaves him? Take her back even though she has killed his love?

What do you think? If you're a man, you'll probably think one thing. If you're a woman, it's a fair bet you'll think the opposite. Very well, let's hear both sides.

Grab your pen and tell Joe what to do with the missis.

Home Girl Has Best Chance of Marrying, Fay King Observes

By FAY KING

The Summer Girl is trim, energetic, wind-blown and sunbrowned. She swims, she hikes, she drives, and climbs. The spontaniety, enthusiasm and smile of her is joyous indeed.

The Winter Girl, is pale, gracious and languid. She floats upon the scene a vision of calm femininity enhanced by the glow of soft lights, and the strains of entrancing music. Quiet, restful charm is the keynote of attraction.

But the Home Girl is the all-year-around girl. She has not the vibrant enthusiasm of the Summer Girl, nor the languid charm of the Winter Girl. But she has that sweet, unchanging cheer and, brightest, that gift of understanding and sympathy that makes a real home the shrine of shrines.

And men marry for homes!

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Noel Assumes the Role of a 'Cave Man'

My heart gave a little leap of triumph as Mary came into the room asking if Noel had come back yet.

"If he dares stand me up," she said truculently—and I saw that in Dicky's parlance she still "had her fangs all out." "I'll make him wish he had never been born."

"Oh, I'm sure he will be here, Mary," I said sweetly. "Noel's the soul of punctuality, you know."

"He'd better be, if he knows what's good for him," she said, with a vicious little snap of her teeth, and, as if her words had summoned him. Noel's knock sounded on the door.

I fairly held my breath as Mary opened it.

"Just on time," she caroled. "Good boy! Ready to tackle the window shopping for hats?"

I raised myself on one elbow as I saw the expression on Noel's face. It was time for innocent bystanders to take themselves out of the way, I told myself, and I spoke quickly to both of them.

"Would you mind helping me into the bedroom?" I asked. "I think I'd like to lie down for a little while if you'll excuse me."

Ordinarily such a plaint from me, or even a suggestion that I needed aid, would have brought either of them on the run to my side. But neither of them heard me; Noel, because he was so intent upon what he was saying and doing; Mary, because of sheer bewilderment at his sudden onslaught.

NOEL'S NEW ROLE

For Noel, with a tense cry of "Oh, Mary!" had swept her into his arms before she could protest, or indeed before she could guess what he meant to do.

"Oh, Mary, little sweetheart! I can't stand it!" he said. "I've been pacing the streets ever since I left, thinking, thinking, about your leaving me, until I thought I'd go mad. I tried to be calm, darling. I thought I could let you go if it were best for you, and you wanted to. But I knew before I'd been away five minutes that I couldn't do it. Mary, it will kill me if you go, unless—you'll let me go with you. I won't let you go. You hear!"

His embrace of her had somewhat the effect of a sound shaking, but Mary did not appear to mind; and although her voice was defiant, there was a curiously satisfied note in it as she answered him.

"Have you gone crazy Noel?" she asked. "What on earth will Auntie Madge think?"

I am sure it was the first second she had remembered my presence. But Noel did not turn a hair.

"I don't care what anybody thinks," he said. "But your aunt won't mind. She's the best friend either of us ever had. You've said that yourself, times without number."

SUGGESTS MARRIAGE

"And meant it," Mary assented. "But that doesn't give you any license to stage anything like this cave man performance. What do you think you're doing anyway, kidnaping me?"

"I'll do that, if I can't get you any other way," Noel said stoutly. "I've only one idea in my mind now, and that is that you're not going to Paris, or anywhere else, unless I go too. I don't care if you would rather go than stay here with me. I'm not going to let you."

"Will you answer me one question?" Mary demanded.

"A dozen, if you like, as long as you stay right here."

"One will do," Mary answered, ignoring the last part of the sentence. "How in the name of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob can you go with me to Paris? You say you won't let me go without you."

"We can get married, can't we?" he answered. "Mary, I've got my mother's money. Let's both of us throw up everything, and go away right today and get married. Then nothing ever can separate us again!"

For a second Mary wavered, her face luminous and soft. Then it hardened, and with an adroit twist she flung herself free of his arms.

"Answer me this, Noel Veritzen," she cried. "Did you think of this yourself, or did Mrs. Underwood put you up to it?"

Household Hints

Rhubarb and other fruits which need so much sugar when stewed will need only about half the usual quantity if a flat teaspoon of bicarbonate of soda is stirred in when cooking.

Fruit stains on linen can be removed by spreading cream of tartar thickly over the stain, then tying up like a bag, and boiling in soapy water for 10 minutes.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

The body should rest upon the ball and heel of each foot, then there is proper balance. Coming down first on the toes tilts the upper part of the body forward, contracts the chest. Coming down on the heel is a habit that makes for a plodding ungraceful walk, sends the head backward. Regard these rules and "walk in beauty like the night."

Those little pink shells that grace and protect finger tips are ambitious growers. Within a week after the filing, they're ready and waiting for another trimming. The new nail pushes out in overlapping scales of marvelous delicacy, emerging from the matrix, a soft substance just below the nail base which must be protected from injury; pressure there will produce ridged talon.

Liver spots belong to the freckle family. They often result from an exposure to strong sunlight. It is possible to free the hands of them by wearing gloves in the summer time, avoiding contact with the burning rays of the sun. Treatment: Apply peroxide and lemon juice, equal parts, every night, letting it dry on, then massage lightly with ointment of zinc oxide.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

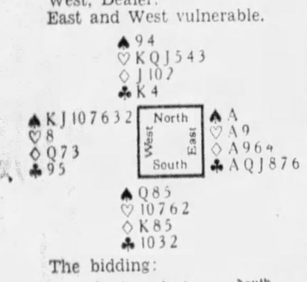
The Need of Entries

Most Bridge players realize that it is often a matter of vital importance which of the two hands becomes the closed hand because of the fact that at one declaration one of the hands may be void of entries and thus cannot be utilized by the partnership, while the other, regardless of the declaration, has a wealth of entries and established cards, upon which losers in the hand may be discarded.

An interesting example of this situation occurred in the Contract Championship team-of-four match played at the American Whist League annual congress at Hanover, N. H., recently. The hand was:

West, Dealer.

East and West vulnerable.



The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	3 ♡ (1)	Double (2)	4 ♡ (3)
4 ♠ (4)	Pass	5 ♣ (5)	Pass
5 ♠ (6)	Pass	6 ♠ (7)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—This bid is designed as a semi-preemptive bid to prevent a vulnerable opponent with a passing partner from entering the contracting.

2—East refuses to be shut out.

3—South seconds North's effort to "steal the contract.' As a matter of fact, if doubled at this contract, North and South have achieved a real victory.

4—This gives a very fair picture of West's hand. He must have a long suit, indeed, to justify the bid of four.

5—East offers an alternative road to game.

6—West still believes that his hand should play the contract. East, on the bidding, is marked with at least one honor in spades; otherwise he would not continue in the face of adverse bidding beyond the same limit.

7—East decodes the message and decides that his singleton spade is a very important card. He therefore bids for the Slam.

Against the heart Opening, the hand, of course, is made easily. However, North, for some reason, decided not to open a heart, but chose instead to lead the only unbid suit—namely, diamonds. Obviously, should West now finesse, his contract must be defeated. However, he decided upon another line of play. He won the trick with the Ace, laid down the Ace of spades, then followed with the Ace of hearts and ruffed a small heart in the closed hand. The King of spades was then led, followed by a finesse in clubs.

Fortunately for the Declarer, it was one of those hands where everything went. Not only did the finesse hold, but the King dropped on the next round, and South, who held the third club and the remaining trump, was forced to follow helplessly, while West discarded one of his losing diamonds. South ruffed the fourth club, but it was too late as West then discarded his remaining diamond loser, thus making his Slam contract.

As the cards actually lie, a Slam can also be made in clubs because of the fortunate position of the honors in the diamond suit. It will be noticed that although East holds a count of 150 for honors in no-trump, neither East nor West bid notrump at any stage of the contracting.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding:

South	North
1 ◇	2 ♣
2 ♡	2 NT
Pass

How many diamonds and hearts are in the South hand?

Answer: South has six diamonds and five hearts. The fact that South rebid the heart suit shows that that suit must be five cards in length, as otherwise it could not have been rebid; and the diamond suit must be longer than the heart suit or it would not have been bid first

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Plan Schedule for Baby, Young Mothers Are Told

"Planning the Schedule for the Baby" is the name of a splendid article I recently read in the Parent's Magazine. I earnestly recommend all young mothers to read this article. I have jotted down for your consideration some of the outstanding points.

Dr. Copeland

"The easiest way to learn just how to go about the baby's schedule is to get it down before you in black and white . what has to be done and when? One of the best things about it is that every baby of the same age has practically the same schedule and taking care of the baby can actually be, and should be, like clockwork."

I can hear many mothers say, "It is easy to advise but more difficult to accomplish." I agree with you. But I am sure you will agree with me that when work is planned and systematized it is less difficult.

No doubt you are familiar with the young mother who never seems to find time for herself. She is always busy, working all day long, and at the end of the day is exhausted. I do not mean to criticize her, but I am confident that a regular planned schedule for the baby will minimize mother's work and allow time for relaxation.

Bottle-fed babies should be placed upon a four-hour schedule. The first feeding should be given at 6 a. m. At 9:30, baby should be bathed and dressed. He is now ready for another feeding which should be given at 10 o'clock.

The young infant usually sleeps until it is time for his next feeding at 2 o'clock and then sleeps most of the afternoon. If he does not sleep he should be allowed to play in his crib until his 6 o'clock feeding, after which he slumbers.

"But how can I keep to a schedule if baby cries?" is the question usually asked by the worried young mother. Too often schedules are spoiled by mother's alarm over the baby's crying. If you are sure that baby is not cold, or too warm; thirsty, or hungry; do not worry about baby.

There are various kinds of cries which the young mother is soon able to interpret. When baby cries because he is hungry the cry is an angry one. He usually cries around meal time.

The cry of pain is quite different from the cry of hunger. A baby who cries because of pain, as in the case of colic, has a high-pitched shriek. He will not be quited with his bottle. A baby may also cry because he is tired of lying in a cramped and awkward position. Make sure blankets or pins are not pressing into him. Occasionally change his position or place him on his stomach and you will be delighted to see him gurgle with joy.

I cannot overemphasize the importance of refraining from picking up a child who is crying. Bear in mind that holding a baby or playing with him spoils him. If he knows you will pick him up when he cries you have taught him a bad habit. It spoils your schedule and prolongs your work.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Birth Announcements

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Will you please tell me the correct form and type of birth announcements to send and how soon after the baby's birth they should be sent?

2—Is it correct for the family to send announcements to all the members of a club to which the father belongs? C.

1—Birth announcements are of two kinds, formal and informal. The formal kind are always correct, and always in the best taste. For these the Mr and Mrs. card, with the names engraved, and usually the address in the right hand lower corner. But it is not necessary, of course, to have the address on these cards. To this large card is attached the small baby-card, attached with a narrow white ribbon-bow. The name on the small card is usually engraved but may be written, if you wish. On the lower left corner of the card is the date of the birth. If the baby hasn't been named when the cards are sent out, you may write "Son" or "Daughter" on the card.

Informal cards are of great variety. The point to keep in mind when you are choosing one is not to get a bizarre one, or a "stunt" one. The all-white card is considered far better taste than the "blue for boys, and pink for girls." Also try to get one with not too many spaces to be filled out. The only two facts about the baby that should be on the card are the name, and the date of birth. Don't get one with a space for the name of the hospital, and the weight of the baby. Have the card incline toward formality.

2—If the father knows very well all of the members of the club, it will be quite proper to send these announcements to all the members. The cards sent to the married members should be addressed both to husband and wife.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Notes to a Columnist's Girl Friday

HOLLYWOOD: Dear Ruth: Inasmuch as I devoted great space to the case of the Musicians' Union vs. Isham Jones orchestra fracas some months ago, let it be recorded now that the international executive board of that union reversed the decision and found Isham not guilty of those ridiculous charges. His huge fine was returned to him and his reputation is clear . . . Got a loud laugh at the Olympic Fight Club. Dempsey was introduced in the ring and then I was. I threw a "sneak" sock at Dempsey and he did a great "straight"—he toppled over and stayed down—and the house roared.

Did anything break yet on Jimmy McLarnin, the champ, being seen incessantly with Janice Hilton? . . . The heat wave finally struck here. It's been 90 for several days and plenty stifling . . . The only ache of that brawl was the wire from my mother, who naturally thought the worst. Be sure and comfort her that I got no black orb as inaccurately reported by one of the news services. Photos taken by the rags the following morning are testimony enough.

Funny part of the picture I wrote is that no one gets a rap in it—but me—four times—but how! . . . Frixample, that gag about "Someday Somebody's going to kill that Winchell!" The retort being: "Oh, I'm so fed up with all the people who are always GOING to kill him!" . . . Of course, the best part of the whole thing was that it gives a guy a great opportunity to find out which of his friends are! . . . Heard a pair of amusing gags about Groucho Marx . . . Groucho had to find someone to double up with in the only room left in a hotel during a convention in a small town. The man with whom he was to sleep said: "I talk in my sleep, you'd better find another partner" . . . Groucho said he didn't care . . . So during the night Groucho woke up the guy and the disturbed one said: "What's the matter?" . . . "Your English is lousy. You said 'ain't'" said Groucho . . . Groucho and his brothers will never forget this advice given by an old trouper, when the Marxes got temperamental once and threatened to quit a show . . . "Listen," counselled the veteran, "it took you guys eight years to come from Syracuse to New York . . . It only takes that many hours to go from N. Y. to Syracuse."

I hear Mrs. Floyd Bennett, widow of the flier, is learning to fly, the gas and oil being contributed by Al Williams, whose mechanic once was Floyd . . . Orchids to Alice Poole, who was Ziegfeld's sec'y. It was Alice who arranged tests for those former Ziegfeld girls who got Goldwyn jobs out here . . . Now if someone will remember Alice Poole when she needs a job, it'll be big news—or is Alice working? . . . When I get back I will spellbind you with some of the most fantastic yarns about the candidates for the "All American Heels" out here . . . It's taught me a terrific lesson . . . I softened up some time ago like a chump—when my racket is swinging rights and lefts . . . And the usual thing was the result—All the trouble came from the ones who never got the worst of it . . . You can't be a Pollyanna in this racket—as I've kept yelling since I started . . . In short—a director was the one who insisted I use his seats to make sure I'd be there . . . It was to happen on the way out, but because I happened to be standing for a moment right in front of him—he had to make good his boasts, etc. . . . That's the story now making the rounds, at any rate.

The Hollywood stuff will come easier now—tied up more contacts than there are columnists imitating . . . Say, I see imitator number 114 is making up fables—just to give himself a thrill . . . Imitator 115 is turning out the worst of the stuff, though . . . He doesn't get any salary by the way, and even pays for his own air mail stamps . . . Told me so himself . . . I didn't know that you weren't going to Europe with your husband, you could have, you know . . . If you still want to join him there go ahead—you certainly rate a long holiday, kid.

Had a swelegant tan until the other day—but with trying to be affable to interviewers in person and via the phone and pounding out copy and working on the script I was kept indoors, and now I'm fading . . . The healthy looking tan is important—because when I look well I feel well . . . Wish I could take a plane back—but besides worrying about air sickness—I cannot invite unnecessary risks with so many depending on their weekly checks . . . People without children can take planes—people with dependents who ride them are giving their families the worst of it . . . That's my story and I'm stuck on it . . . Tell Mark I straightened out that other thing over the phone. It was done. I learned, because somebody had put in the wrong rap. When the man checked up and learned that such was not the fact, he sent me a nice wire . . . I notice, too, that some of the paragraphers find it easier to fill space by making denials of stuff appearing in N. Y. pillars . . . That's a much easier way to fill space than getting news.

Nothing else much . . . June and Walda will stay on until the following month . . . I still can't figure Broun—he was the one who once warned me never to promise anybody I wouldn't print things. He advised that I tell people I wouldn't print anything until I heard it from two other sources. "Then," he said with a wink, "tell them you heard it from three!" . . . Meaning, don't let anyone stop you from printing the news . . . Or "cross" them and print it, anyway . . . This happened at Alice Duer Miller's several years ago. I've never forgotten it . . . No matter what happens—it is good having a guy like Broun snapping back—it'll be the first "important" enemy I've ever had . . . He probably decided a long time ago I didn't carry much weight, for when I kept saying in print: "Vote for Broun!" (when he ran for office) nobody voted for him—and he lost his respect for my "power"—heheheh. — See you soon.—W. W.

Lad in Hospital Selected For Cripple-Boy Part In Harding Film

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 31.—What glamorous visions must rise today before the eyes of Arliss Parrish, 8-year-old crippled youth of this city.

A film director saw him in the Los Angeles Orthopedic Hospital and, like a modern Jinnee, will open up the fabled world of the studios and make the boy an actor with a big part in Ann Harding's new picture.

Miss Harding

For small Arliss the event comes as an unbelievable climax to seven years of treatments to bring life back into a limp arm and leg—reminders of the dread infantile paralysis.

For the RKO studio, it means the end of a search through many orphanages and hospitals for a crippled boy whose face carries a hint of youthful suffering but whose smile has remained bright and cheerful.

Such a boy is needed to play one of the principal characters with Ann Harding in "Beauty." After looking at many children, Casting Director Fred Schuessler and Director Al Santell say Arliss is the boy.

For the youngster, and for his parents, who are of modest means, the job is of real importance. It will bring money for more treatments—maybe for an eventual cure.

On a closed set at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Greta Garbo went before the camera for the first time in 18 months—and made her first screen test in years. She broke her rules because "Queen Christina" is a coustume picture and they needed the test for the gowns.

Jean Harlow and Mary Astor took a portable projection machine up to Clark Gable's house the other evening and ran off some film for the recuperating invalid.

It was an air trip to New York after all for June Knight. Paramount has taken over the releasing of "Take a Chance," and the musical production will begin right away . . . Poor Charles Butterworth. Holdup men recently broke into his home and robbed him and his wife of $15,000 worth of valuables. Believe Sale Is Aged

Fan mail—and there are bags of it—that comes to Chic Sale, America's foremost "rural" character actor, who has the lead in "Dangerous Crossroads," differs from that of any other star. It comes from aged folk who want to congratulate him upon being so spry for his years. One recent missive from an admirer aged 85 stated:

"Good for you, Chic. You're showing them that there are still some of us old fellers that can keep up with the youngsters."

As a matter of fact, Chic is just out of his 30s, and in street dress, without makeup looks even younger than that.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The Stage Guild, summer theater group at the Willows, will resume its activities tonight after omitting public appearance for a week, which, of course, is part of its plan of two nights every alternate week. The attraction tonight, to be repeated Thursday, is the John Van Druten comedy, "There's Always Juliet." In the cast will be Elizabeth Drake, Harold Daniels, Madeleine Skelly Foust and Alexander Kann. Chester B. Story directed.

Brian Hooker, who made the best translation of Rostand's "Cyrane De Bergerac," that used by Walter Hampden, wrote the libretto of a new musical production, made from a new play by Justin Huntley McCarthy, whose "If I Were King," was the basis of "The Vagabond King." Russell Janney, producer of the latter, will bring the new one to light in September. He seems to have settled everything except the title, having engaged Winnie Melville, who was the London prima donna of "The Vagabond King," for the leading feminine role. She is now in America for the first time although she has sung leading roles in many popular productions in London.

Camera work has begun on the Yiddish movie, "The Wandering Jew," being shot in a Long Island studio with Jacob Ben-Ami, Jewish-American stage star, in the leading role, which will mark his screen debut. The cast includes Natalie Browning, M. B. Sumuylow, Abraham Teitelbaum and Benjamin Adler.

Charles King and Smith and Dale, vaudeville and musical comedy veterans, who also have been seen in motion pictures, will be featured in a condensed version of Billy Rose's "Crazy Quilt," that will play variety houses. Anita Page has been recruited from Hollywood for the piece.

Philip Merivale, who has been eating his heart out (under salary, to be sure) while waiting in Hollywood for the film company that hired him to give him something to do, has written two plays in the three months in which he has been a titular movie actor without a part. Just now he is on the Hollywood stage in "A Tale of Two Cities."

Peggy Joyce has departed from New York for Chicago and personal appearances en route to Hollywood to resume movie-acting . . . When Philip Faversham, son of William, makes his debut in the Ruth Chatterton starring picture, "Female," he will be in a cast which includes George Brent, Marjorie Lytell and George Blackwood . . . Lillian Bond has arrived in New York, and June Knight, who only recently reached Hollywood, is back in the big town, both gals being cast for the film version of the musical comedy, "Take a Chance," to be made on Long Island . . . Ramon Novarro will be co-starred with Jeannette MacDonald in the movietuner, "The Cat and the Fiddle" . . . Robert Young, reporting at 9 a. m., as ordered, stepped before the camera, spoke one line for "Tugboat Annie," the Marie Dressler-Wallace Berry film, and was dismissed for the day.

"I WOULDN'T DRIVE A CAR WITHOUT Hydraulic Brakes!"

A CERTIFIED INTERVIEW WITH CAPT. FRANK DOUGHTY, 91 VESPER STREET, PORTLAND, MAINE

Look at the Difference in Braking—when you "look at All Three"

FOR 17 years, Capt. Doughty has sailed out of Portland harbor. Nowadays, you'll see him sailing around Portland streets in the Plymouth sedan that's pictured at the right.

Why a Plymouth? "Out at sea, a man has room to maneuver out of trouble," says the Captain. "On land . . . you have to stop in your tracks!"

So hydraulic brakes win another friend. Because they "stop you on a dime." They are self-equalizing. They are smooth and cushiony.

No other low-priced car offers you the combination of hydraulic brakes, Floating Power engine mountings, safety-steel bodies, rigid-X frame.

In short . . . no other low-priced car offers you the balance of comfort, safety, style and performance . . . and you have only to "look at all three" to find this out. Do that . . . before you buy.

"The dealer took off the wheel, showed me why brake pressure on a Plymouth is always equal on all four wheels, how they equalize themselves!"

"Then we looked at brake drums. Those on my Plymouth are called 'centrifuse' . . . a special kind that make brake linings last twice as long."

"I know something about mechanics. And I'm proud to show my new Plymouth . . . because it's not only trim-looking and shipshape, but sturdy and dependable down underneath. I'm glad I looked around before I bought . . . and got the best buy."

ALL IN A DAY By MARK HELLINGER

In Which the Customers Do the Work

"SHUFFLE over, Mark," writes George Held, of the Long Island Press, "and meet Frankie Jordan, one of the lads covering Queens Police Headquarters. He's been covering station houses so long that he believes he's a cop.

"Frankie packs a gun. Some day he'll probably shoot himself, but he carries it anyway. I guess he thinks it makes him plenty tough . . .

"The other night, our hero dropped into one of the local dining emporiums to get some grub. It was in the small hours of the morning, and matters were pretty quiet all around.

"Suddenly, the calm Jamaica ozone was ruffled by the sound of running men. Someone started to shout, 'Help! Help! Burglars!'

"Frankie dashed out, leaving behind him a perfectly good bowl of pot cheese soup. Here, he thought, was a chance to show his fellow scribes that he really knew his business.

"An excited little man darted into an alley and Frankie promptly gave chase. Catching up with the chap, the reporter lunged, grabbed the fugitive by the collar, and tossed him against a wall.

"'Well, you little rat!' yipped Frankie. 'Stick-up mug, eh? Honest citizens can't rest in peace with guys like you.'

"Wham! He socked the bird directly under the nose and then proceeded to frisk his prisoner. A couple of cops, awakened by the commotion, roamed around in time to find Frankie tugging his catch to the station house.

"The reporter-cop dragged the captive into the precinct, and dumped him into a chair. Modestly he turned to the desk lieutenant. He explained the entire matter in detail.

"Then he turned to the prisoner. He leered at the little man who cringed in the chair.

"'Well, he bellowed, 'what've ya got to say for y'self, hah? What've ya got to say?'

"The little man turned to the lieutenant.

"'Please, officer,' he begged. 'Please——'

"'None a that stuff,' yipped Frankie. 'Tell yer story.'

"'Well,' replied the little man, 'I will, if you give me a chance. I just happen to be the man who was held up!' " . . .

"DEAR MARK," writes Sol Bernard Elman, "I don't know how old it is, but it struck me as being very funny. Perhaps you'll agree.

"A fur salesman struck a small town for a night or two and was dying for excitement. A group of hicks offered him a poker game and, having nothing better to do, he accepted. He was a Broadway guy and he figured to take the hicks over without much trouble

"After an hour's play, he wound up with a royal flush, the highest hand in the game. He got a great play on the hand, one hick raising and reraising for quite a tidy sum. When the hand was finally called, the salesman exposed his hand and started to rake in the pot. But the hick stopped him.

"'You lose,' he was told. 'I have a lolapaloosa.'

"The salesman looked at the hick's hand in amazement. The other man held absolutely nothing.

Not even a small pair. It was as low a poker hand as it is possible to get.

"'That's the way we play,' explained the hick as he raked in the pot. 'A lolapaloosa is low hand in any deal. And by our rules you can't beat a lolapaloosa.'

"All the other players nodded agreement, so the salesman let it go at that. He had never heard of such a ridiculous rule, but, after all, he was a stranger in the town. So he played along—and in about twenty minutes he found himself holding the same hand as the other man had previously held. In other words, he had been dealt a lolapaloosa.

"Then there was no holding him. He plunged heavily on the deal, and raised them all out of the pot except the player who had previously beaten him. He was finally called and he slapped down the cards with an exclamation of triumph.

"'There you are, boys,' he cried. 'Now I've got the lolapaloosa.'

"The hick shook his head, turned up his cards and began to take the pot.

"'You lose,' he said unsmilingly. 'Only one lolapaloosa allowed in a night!' " . . .

KAISER'S HEIR TO VISIT U. S.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 31.—(AP.)—The Portland Oregonian yesterday published a dispatch from Berlin by its staff writer, David W. Hazen, quoting Crown Prince Wilhelm as saying he intends to visit America "soon."

Hazen, who interviewed the prince at his Berlin residence July 12, said the prince stated:

"When I go there I will want to see so many things and so many people that I could not get away for several months. But I am planning on coming, and perhaps can be there soon."

Asked his opinion as to the decisive factor in ending the World War, Prince Wilhelm replied, Hazen said:

"The coming in of the Americans' nothing else. And it was such a silly thing to have permitted them to enter."

TRIBE REJECTS WORKS LOAN

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—The public works administration has been all but swept off its feet. An offer of $30,000 from its work relief fund was turned down.

Through a good part of a long, sweltering hot day, officials at the administration had been besieged with hordes of Mayors and City Engineers, Congressmen and state officials. Each wanted a cut from the $3,300,000,000 fund. Each was interested in a project he thought would conform to all the rules and regulations.

Then in the midst of the explaining, discussing and advising, walked two delegates from the Menominee Indian Reservation in Wisconsin. They said:

"We don't want the $30,000 for new roads. We'll build them with our own money."

Said Secretary Ickes, the public works administrator and supervisor of Indian affairs:

"With thousands of people using every artifice to seek allotments from the public works fund—many with utterly unqualified projects—the Menominees show the way with true public spirit."

Irate Elephant Shakes Noisy Auto Party

LIMA, Peru, July 31.—(AP.)—Santiago, the only elephant in the old Lima Zoo, has his own idea how to discipline noisy merrymakers.

He became annoyed with the antics of several seated in an automobile parked near his grounds, pushed his trunk under the top of the machine, lifted one end from the ground and gave car and occupants a stiff shaking.

Then he placed the car gently back on the ground, whereupon the panicky driver and his passengers departed amidst much laughter from the onlookers.

The object of the association is to seek street improvements and a playground, police and fire protection and sewage. The ward long has been known as "the forgotten district."

LINDSAY FILING JUDGE PAPERS

Indorsed by more than 53,000 voters of Allegheny County, Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay had petitions in Harrisburg today to place his name on the primary ballot for the Republican and Democratic nominations for judge of Common Pleas Court.

The indorsements included signatures of more than 51,000 Republican and 1,600 Democratic citizens to the petitions circulated on behalf of Attorney Lindsay by voluntary workers since June 15.

In addition to these petitioners, Mr. Lindsay has the indorsement of more than 800 active, practicing attorneys of the Allegheny County bar who offered their support when he announced his candidacy for the bench several weeks ago.

August 1st, 1933 is an Historic Day

That date marks the first day of a great National Program—new and untried—full of great possibilities. The Program has been devised and initiated by the President of the United States.

MONTHS AGO
THE KROGER GROCERY AND BAKING COMPANY

offered the Government its full cooperation and the use of Kroger's personnel in helping to organize and gear up the machinery to carry through this great Program. For weeks actual use has been made of this offer.

The entire Kroger organization — 18,981 of us—will throw itself and its best efforts, with all its enthusiasm, into an endeavor to make this Program successful.

THE KROGER GROCERY AND BAKING COMPANY

accepts the challenge of the Nation and the World to make this Program a success under the leadership of the President.

We will go on a new wage scale, conforming wages in the future to whatever scale may be agreed upon between the President and the industry of which we are a part. As rapidly as humanly possible, hours will be made to conform to the standards agreed upon. This will mean the employment of thousands of additional men.

A great retail organization, scattered throughout seventeen states can not make over in a day its standards and methods built through half a century. It can and will make a determined and courageous effort to make them over in the shortest possible time.

Of all our customers; our loyal, efficient and capable employees, we ask patience, cooperation, courage and confidence while all of us—united and loyal--give everything we have to make the President's Program successful.

President
The Kroger Grocery & Baking Co.

TUNICS WILL PLAY IMPORTANT PART IN AUTUMN FASHIONS

LOOK AT the sketch—three women were caught by our artist against a sporty race track background. The woman at the left is the wife of the head-officio of the track, next to her is a woman owner of a famous stable and her young daughter, all dressed in beautiful taste. You might follow their example if you're headed for Saratoga this month.

THESE WOMEN chose the somewhat dressy fashion that women on the continent are noted for. At all famed foreign tracks, women wear their finest, most frivolous clothes. Coutouriers exhibit elaborate creations. In general, the air is festive and even a shade theatrical.

HERE IN America most women prefer tailored things, although a few allow themselves slight doses of frills, like the two older women in the sketch. One, a tunic frock of white chiffon with black polka dots, is cut on extremely simple lines, but is girdled by a most unusual belt . . . of red rope. In the hand, it looks exactly like those five-and-ten-cent store cleaners for combs—just lengths of string gathered together at each end. Childish streamers that hang below the grim of the black straw cartwheel remind us of pigtail days, when we wore such hats (not with these abbreviated shallow crowns) to Sunday school with stiffly starched white dresses. Just another revival to make us young.

BESIDE HER is an intriguing tunic arrangement. An electric blue sheer crepe over-dress is posed over a delicately printed dress, springled with tiny pastel flowers. There is no opening, save the neck, on this tunic. You slip it on overhead like an old-fashioned nightshirt. The panama hat is dyed a soft pastel to match a predominating flower in the print of the dress.

IN THE foreground you see a very new looking beret. This one of white linen to match the little white linen miltary cape is worn over a dark shantung dress. This tam-o-shanter, beret and cap all in one, either in velvet or satin, will be autumn's most popular hat.

* * *

VELVET accessories are the thing to look for to bring your early summer clothes up to date. Sets of hats, bags and gloves were stunning with pastels seen here. Particularly beautiful were the pinks, with black velvet accents.

TWO COYNE JOB PLEAS DROPPED

Attorney Howard Neely, representing the Coyne faction in the Fourth Ward, today withdrew applications for the appointment of M. J. McDonald for judge of elections and R. L. Henderson for minority inspector in the Sixth District of the ward.

At a hearing before Common Pleas Judge William H. McNaugher, McDonald was shown to be a bartender and Henderson to have been pardoned after pleading guilty to a second-degree murder charge.

Judge McNaugher permitted the withdrawals and set August 10 for a hearing on new applications to be presented. Attorney Garfield Houston, counsel for the independent Republican faction in the ward, consented to withhold his applications for appointments until that time.

Runaway Girl, 13, Held After Raid

A 13-year-old runaway girl from Westmoreland County, arrested when police raided an alleged disorderly house in Walnut street, McKeesport, was turned over to Juvenile Court today at a hearing in McKeesport Police Court.

FRESH AIR HOME HOST AT CAMP

The Lillian Fresh Air Home at Valencia, Pa., which is conducted under the supervision of the Kingsley Association, is running at full capacity in its thirty-first year.

Each 12 days there arrives approximately 275 boys and girls, mothers and their malnourished babies, some underweight, some underfed, and the majority of them from families on public relief.

The camp was established to give the children of Pittsburgh fresh air and experience in the country. The recreational camp is centered on a 90-acre farm.

According to Miss Emma Griest, the youthful camp director, who has been associated with the home for the last six years, the average gain in the 12-day stay for the girls is 2.13 pounds and the boys 2.51 pounds.

Each child is examined by doctors daily, and in addition, the mothers are instructed by dieticians how to prepare wholesome meals at little cost for their children after they leave camp.

Auto Runs Twice Over Two Women Sunbathers

PALO ALTO, Cal., July 31.—(AP.)—Two women sunbathers, stretched on the grass of a park, were run over twice by the same automobile Sunday.

Ormando Ferdinani, the driver, told police he did not see the women, clad in bathing suit, lying behind his automobile. He backed the car over them. Their screams frightened and confused him and he drove forward—over them again.

The women, Mrs. Ona Ritter, 22, and Miss Elsie Korrell, 45, were taken to the Palo Alto Hospital, where physicians said they had received severe injuries.

GIRL LETS BALM SUIT LAPSE

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—Miss Ruth Jayne Cranmer's $25,000 breach of promise suit against Prof. Merle Hoover, of Columbia University, has been dismissed by Supreme Court Justice Louis A. Valente on the ground she failed to prosecute it, the American said today.

Miss Cranmer, who was exonerated in connection with the shooting of State Senator Roy T. Yates, of New Jersey, two years ago, charged the professor promised to send her through college and find her a job in return for her destruction of certain papers.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hoover, examined before trial, denied the allegations.

EMPLOYE HELD IN ROBBERY

A trusted employe today was held for court on charges of breaking and entering a building and larceny in connection with the disappearance of thousands of thousands of dollars worth of brass from Barrett Machine Company during the past year.

Arthur Barrett, owner of the company, testified before Magistrate J. J. Sweeney in North Side Police Court that he saw Herman Weiss, 42, employed by him for the past five years, climb into the building early this morning and gather up $400 worth of brass.

Barrett, lying in wait inside the factory building, declares he saw a man climb through a second-story window about 6 a. m., gather up the brass and throw it through another window into the street, where an accomplice was waiting in a machine.

Convinced the intruder was Weiss, Barrett testified, he permitted him to escape into the street after firing three shots at him. When Weiss was arrested by police at his home, 30 Woessner street, he denied having been out of the house all night. His story was substantiated by his wife and three children.

I feel closer to my cigarette each time I smoke

I really can't help it. After all, one does develop a personal regard for a thing that comes in such intimate contact with one's lips. And since I am a woman, I do appreciate the fact that my Lucky Strike never offends my fastidious sense of daintiness. Men smile at my feminine reasoning. To them the character of Luckies' fine tobaccos seems more important. But my woman's intuition tells me that the purity of "Toasting" is never to be forgotten. And so, the more I smoke, the closer I feel to my cigarette.

HARPSTER AS TECH GRID COACH "WHAT TO DO? SHALL I PLAN A GRID PLAY, OR SHALL I GOLF?" HE DECIDES HE'LL GOLF, BUT FINDS THE OLD PIGSKIN NO PAL ON THE LINKS WHEN HE NOW PLAYS A SHOT, IT'S PLAYED BY AN EXPERT

These pictures portray the evolution of Harpster from a man whose only claim to sports fame was football to a man who can take his football in season, and his golf in any season of the year. Not far advanced beyond the "dub" class as a golfer last spring, Howard has developed with such a rush that he has kept the St. Clair Country Club officials busy paring his handicap, and last Friday, at Oakmont, he won the Pennsylvania Golf Association tourney low net prize with a 70. Recently he negotiated his home course in 73, and his consistently fine scoring has won for him recognition as one of the district's top-flight amateurs. Brilliant as a Tartan football player, and unusually successful as coach at Shady Side Academy and Geneva College, Harpster is to get his "big chance" as head coach of the Tech eleven next fall. He will find the going tough, however, as the Skibos face a difficult schedule, meeting, among others, Pitt, Temple, New York University, Purdue and Notre Dame. These are Sun-Telegraph pictures.

PIRATE ATTACK OFFSETS SLAB FLAWS

THE MOST ENCOURAGING feature of the Pirates' sensational drive, in which a series of hair-raising finishes have carried them to seven consecutive drives and lifted them to within three and a half games of first place, is that the hitters are coming through in a fashion to make up for anything that may be lacking in the pitching department. A change of pitchers was necessary in five of the seven games, including all four of the victories over the Reds, but the power of the Buc attack more than balanced things.

Tony Piet

And there is nothing fluky about the rampage of the Pirate batters. Tony Piet has just set a mark for the rest of the major leaguers to shoot at by making 12 hits in two days, and all of the others are going right along in the big rampage. They're not picking their spots, but on the contrary have done their hardest hitting against the league's best pitchers, with the single exception of Carl Hubbell. With that terrific offensive, perhaps the club won't need the best pitching in the league to get by.

The big brace comes at an opportune time, for there's a tough stretch ahead in the next 10 games, as the four tilts with the reawakened Cards starting here tomorrow will be followed by six with the Cubs. The Bucs will have to keep going at a fast pace to avert a loss of ground to the leaders during that period while the Giants are taking on the Phillies, Dodgers and Braves.

DIZZY DEAN contributed the high spot of the Cardinals' rush of six straight wins by fanning 17 Cubs for the greatest strike-out record of modern times. The high mark for the present pitching distance was 16 whiffs in a game, shared by Noodles Hahn, Christy Mathewson, Rube Waddell and Nap Rucker. Charley Sweeny and One-Arm Dailey struck out 19. Fred Shaw and Charley Buffington fanned 18, and Toad Ramsey whiffed 17, but in those days the pitching distance was only 50 feet.

Speaking of records, while local fans were sorry to see Freddie Lindstrom's great sequential hitting streak stopped in a pinch-hitting appearance after 25 straight games, one game short of Heinie Manush's mark for 1933, it is nothing to be worried about. Manager Gibson did the right thing in using Lindstrom when he was needed. Records don't win ball games, and the main thing to be considered is not the streak of Lindstrom or any other individual player, but the success of the Pirates. Besides, it may be better for Lindstrom himself that his run has been stopped. Streaks involve a mental strain that does a player no good.

WHILE THAT SIDE of the case doesn't interest the Red Sox, who are concerned only about his baseball ability, the Boston American League club got one of the best all-around athletes in scholastic circles on the coast when they bought Outfielder Melo Almada from Seattle.

At Los Angeles High School Almada was a fair ball carrier and a star forward passer on the football team, a broad jumper of better than 23 feet on the track team, and the crack pitcher of the baseball nine.

THE YOUNGER ALMADA is one of the few Mexican players ever to get a chance in the major leagues. Though reared in Los Angeles, Melo was born in Sonora, Mexico. Only three other natives of Mexico ever broke into the big baseball show. They were Charley Hall, whose proper name was Carlos Clolo, and who pitched for the Red Sox from 1909 to 1915; Frank Arellanes, also a hurler, who went up to the Tigers several years ago, and Louie Almada, Melo's brother, now with the Missions, who had a short

BRITISH GAIN POSSESSION OF DAVIS CUP

AUTEUIL, France, July 31.—(AP.)—The Davis Cup, most famous of all international sport trophies, had returned to Great Britain today for the first time in 21 years.

France's six-year custody of the tennis trophy Wight W. Davis donated in 1900 came to an end on the red clay courts of Roland Garros Stadium yesterday as Frederick J. Perry, first-ranking British player, whipped young Andre Merlin, French newcomer to cup competition, in the fifth and decisive match of the challenge round.

Only an hour or so earlier, Henri Cochet, the tennis Atlas who had carried the French through five successful defenses of the cup they won from the United States in 1927, had beaten back Father Time long enough to conquer H. W. (Bunny) Austin in a bitterly-fought five-set duel, 5-7, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, and squared the series at two victories apiece.

That shifted the burden of French hopes to Merlin's inexperienced shoulders, but the youngster, despite a valiant fight against an obviously superior rival, went down with colors flying before Perry's brilliant attack, 4-6, 8-6, 6-2, 7-5.

Thus did the British, who already had shocked the experts with their decisive victory over the United States in the interzone finals, climax a sensational Davis Cup campaign, winning the cup for the first time since 1912 and definitely ending French domination of world tennis after the tricolor had reigned unchallenged for a half dozen years.

Believe It Or Not (Reg. by U. S. Patent Office) By Ripley

(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF LAST SATURDAY: DAVY JONES, THE POSTMAN—A group of American engineers bound for Stalingrad, Russia, on the Olympic, addressed a message to Ripley Believe It or Not and tossed it overboard in a bottle. The bottle was fished out in the shore waters of the Baltic Sea by Janis Preedens, a native of Pilsberg, Latvia, who, in accordance with instructions, forwarded it to America. The message was dropped overboard on May 20 and retrieved on July 7. A STRANGE ACCIDENT—Mr. Louis Thiercelin, of Milly, France, was hunting when his ferret took refuge in a deep hole. Bending down, he stumbled and fell into the hole head downward, in such a way that it was impossible for him to extricate himself. He had to remain with his feet in the air for 23 hours before a rescue party of sappers and firemen found him.

TOMORROW—THE CHAMPION OF PROFANITY.

BUCCOS WIN DOUBLE BILL FROM REDS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The Pirates should feel like conquering heroes today, but its a far cry from heroics and a night game in Dayton, so perhaps the Buccos, as they loosen up for the owl exhibition at the Ohio City are unable to hear the strains of bands and the shouts of welcoming home fans.

The first-string pitchers who went to Cincinnati yesterday returned home this morning, but the main body of the club jumped off for Dayton and, therefore, will not reach town until tomorrow when they will find Frank Frisch's high-flying Redbirds ready to issue a four-game challenge.

The set of games starting tomorrow should be a dandy inasmuch as it brings together two flag contenders, both of which are nursing fine winning streaks. The smashing ninth-inning crescendoes the Buccos put on their two battles against the Reds yesterday sent their winning streak to seven games, while Frisch's team has copped all six of the battle in which they have engaged since Frank succeeded Gabby Street.

CLOSE IN ON GIANTS

The Pirates, moreover, made a substantial gain as they took two more from the hapless Reds. Gibson's club gained a game and one half, the Braves subduing the Giants in a single contest. The Oaklanders are three and one-half games below the league leaders.

Tony Piet's marvelous batting gave the Pirates the victory tallies after two were out in the ninth in each game of the Bucs' doubleheader with the Reds yesterday. The Polish infielder rang up five more hits to make it an even dozen in the four games at Forbes Field and Redland Field. His single won the first clash of yesterday and his triple decided the nightcap. The scores were 5-4 and 8-6.

Two ninth-inning finishes in keeping with the Saturday exploits of the Buccos marked their latest two successes. The Gibson clan was trailing by three runs in the ninth inning of the matinee. They went out and got four runs to win. They entered the ninth round of the nightcap with another three-run deficit and this time they piled up five tallies to cop the prize.

LINDY FINALLY FLAGGED

Fred Lindstrom's consecutive batting streak of 25 games was stopped in the first game when Jim Bottomley grabbed his bid for a pinch hit and turned it into a double play.

The lame outfielder was used in the pinch role in both contests. His work was almost a companion-piece to his chore of Saturday when he made two emergency singles. Fred was flagged by Sunny Jim in his first attempt in Cincy, but he came through with a pinch single in the second contest.

But maybe the stopping of Lindstrom is all for the best. Baseball being a team-work game, this element of action should not be subordinated to the exploitation of the individual effort. Lindy is a team-worker pure and simple, and while his countless admirers would like to see him break records, they and he would rather see him win ball games as he has been doing. The snapping of t

Three in Deadlock For Horseshoe Lead

CHICAGO, July 31.—(AP.)—Allen, Allamb[illegible] and Charles Davis [illegible] tossed their w[illegible]ue with Blair Nunamaker, Cleveland, for first place in the national horseshoe pitching tournament, in the second round of match play yesterday.

Allen won his eight games to tie Nunamaker and Davis, with 14 victories and two defeats. Davis won seven to displace Jim Risk, Montpelier, from the tie which existed after Saturday's pitching. Risk dropped to fourth place with 13 victories and three defeats.

Aknusti Poloists Victors in Final

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y., August 31.—(AP.)—Staving off a brilliant closing rally, Aknusti's polo team defeated Seymour Knox's Aurora outfit, 11-9, in the final round of the national junior championship for 20-goal teams at the Sands Point Club yesterday.

Aknusti rode out with three youngsters, Jimmy Mills and the Gerry brothers, E. T. and R. L., but it was the veteran W. Averill Harriman who dominated the play. Harriman played a splendid game all afternoon and scored five of Aknusti's goals, the last, coming in the final second of play, definitely clinching the game.

DEAN, WILSON SET MAJOR LEAGUE RECORDS

CARDINAL SLAB ACE FANS 17 CHICAGO CUBS

It was a busy week-end in baseball, the most eventful and exciting the major leagues have gone through this year.

Dizzy Dean, of the St. Louis Cardinals, shattered the modern mapor league strikeout record with the greatest feat in that line recorded in more than 40 years, whiffing 17 of the Chicago Cubs as he won the opener of yesterday's doubleheader 8 to 2.

The New York Yankees came back to trim Washington and cut the Senators' American League lead to two games.

Pittsburgh's Pirates tore past the floundering Cubs into second place in the National Saturday, then went on to reduce the New York Giants lead to 3½ games. The Cardinals, by winning both games yesterday, also passed the Cubs, taking third by one point.

BRUINS LOSE PAIR

Rogers Hornsby took active charge as manager of the St. Louis Browns and saw his team run into the end of the Chicago White Sox losing streak and take a double drubbing. The Sox, who had dropped nine straight games, broke loose with a 34-hit attack, won the first game 8 to 7 in 10 innings, then blasted out a 15-2 victory in the nightcap.

Dean's feat was by far the outstanding individual feat of the past two days. Not only did he record 17 strikeouts in a major league game for the first time since Tom Ramsey did it for Louisville in 1887, but he helped his catcher, Jimmy Wilson, establish a new modern mark of 18 putouts.

Washington, after winning Saturday, found the southpaw pitching of Russell Van Atta a bit too much and went down 7 to 2. Van Atta gave only eight hits.

The Pirates had a couple of narrow escapes against Cincinnati, but came through with a pair of ninth-inning rallies to extend their winning streak to seven games.

BRAVES BEAT GIANTS

The Boston Braves, meanwhile, cut down the league-leading New York Giants by a 5-3 count as Ben Cantwell pitched steady ball and Randy Moore hit a homer to break a tie score. The Phillies beat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3-1.

The Boston Red Sox walloped the Philadelphia Athletics for the third time, 8 to 3.

The A's remained in a third-place tie with the Cleveland Indians, whose hitting streak was checked by Tommy Bridges after five victories. With Bridges pitching eight-hit ball, the Detroit Tigers hammered out a 6-to-1 victory.

Between Rounds

NatLiftin, Hill district Jewish featherweight, is quitting the fight game until conditions and the purses get a little bigger. Nat, in his last three fights, collected a total of $80. He defeated $25 for defeating Jimmy Thomas at the North Braddock Bowl; for winning over Charley Burns, at Johnstown, in an eight-round main bout his end was $30, and for decisively whipping Young Dixon in a four-rounder at Hickey Park a few weeks ago, he pulled down $25.

Liftin does not think this is sufficient reward for his efforts, and he will not box Thomas in a return bout at Hickey Park, Millvale, next Monday night. In the main bout of next week's show at Hickey Park, Charley Baxter boxes Harry Dubinsky. Three other 10-round bouts will complete the card.

The annual diamond-studded gold belt amateur boxing tournament gets under way tonight at Uniontown, with bouts being listed in the 118-pound class and the heavyweight division. Al Sands, manager of the club bearing his name, is the tourney director.

Maxie Rosenbloom, light-heavyweight champion, battles John Henry Lewis, Negro contender, in a 10-round non-title return bout at San Francisco tonight. Maxie won a close decision in their last meeting.

Seven rattling good amateur bouts are scheduled for the Pittsburgh Lyceum's show tomorrow night on the grounds of the Epiphany Church, Washington street.

Vince Dundee, who boxes Teddy Yarosz at Forbes Field on August 21, opened training headquarters today at Oakland Chalet, Oakland, N. J., according to word received here from Dundee and his manager, Max Waxman.

CABOT VICTOR

HERALD HARBOR, Md., July 31.—(AP.)—Charley Cabot, of New Haven, made a clean sweep of the free-for-all outboard class in the tri-outs regatta on the Severn River by winning the two final heats yesterday after taking the first two in Saturday's opener.

BURLEIGH GRIMES

Grimes, last of the spitball hurlers of the National League, was a free agent today, having been given his release by the Chicago Cubs. He is a former Pirate. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

GRIMES GIVEN RELEASE

ST. LOUIS, July 31.—(INS.)—Burleigh Grimes, last of the spitball hurlers in the National League, was a free agent today, having been given an unconditional release by the Chicago Cubs.

Being classified as a "10-year man," Grimes can sign with any club that wishes his services. He had been a colorful pitcher for six National League teams since 1916.

Manager Charley Grimm announced Grimes' release yesterday following the Cubs' doubleheader with the Cardinals in which Grimes worked as a relief hurler in the first game.

Grimes went to the Cubs in 1931 after two years of good work with the Cardinals. In 1932 he won only six games while losing 11. This year his record stands at two victories and six defeats.

U. S. Track Stars Win in Germany

DUESSELDORF, Germany, July 31.—(AP.)—America's picked track and field athletes scored a clean sweep in an international meet here yesterday as Glenn Cunningham, Kansas middle distance ace, defeated Dr. Otto Peltzer over the 800-meter route.

Cunningham was clocked in the fast time of 1:51.4 as he defeated Peltzer by 2.4 seconds.

Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette Negro sprint ace, won the 100 meters in 10.3 seconds and had a walkover in the 200 meters which he ran in 22.1 seconds.

KING BATTLES SLAUGHTER IN BOWL BOUT

By JAMES MILLER

David Jewell King, aged 21, formerly of El Dorado, Ark., now residing here, is fighting at the North Braddock Bowl tonight, but you probably will know him better as just plain Jack King, the middleweight.

King, who boxes Sammy Slaughter, Terre Haute Negro, of great punching ability, in the main bout at the Bowl, participated in various sports as a schoolboy back in his home town before taking to boxing.

One thing that Jack boasts about is the fact that he played on the same school baseball team as did Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, a member of the Detroit Tigers.

Tonight's show will be the only professional bill of the week, locally, as Hickey Park, Millvale, which usually runs on this date, is dark, being unable to procure a presentable attraction.

The battle between King and Slaughter, postponed from last Thursday, has all the ear marks of a good scrap. Both battlers are good punchers and very aggressive.

The Alabama Kid, Negro, of Dover, O., takes on Bruno Sala, of Donora, in the six-round semi-final. Harry Jacoby, of Monaca, a stablemate of Teddy Yarosz, meets Bearcat Jones, East Liberty Negro welterweight, in the second number of six rounds, and Tony Di Piero, of East Liberty, tangles with Lee Peer, of Turtle Creek, in the opening bout. The show gets under way at 8:45 daylight saving time.

BRAVES GET SMITH

CINCINNATI, July 31.—The Cincinnati Reds have sent Bob Smith, veteran right hander, to the Boston Braves for the waiver price. Smith started his major league career with the Braves as an infielder.

BELMONT WINS LOCAL TENNIS LOOP TITLE

INTER-CLUB LEAGUE
STANDING OF THE TEAMS

The crack Belmont net host, cavorting in its first campaign of organized competition, yesterday blanked Jimmy MacKay's Minnetonka crew, 9-0, on the Verona lot to annex top honors of Division II of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League. Washington Heights, runner-up to the Ingramites, made a gallant bid for laurels Saturday by whitewashing the strong Westinghouse Reserves as Allegheny Valley showers rendered necessary the postponement of the Belmont-Minnetonka fray. Had the Belmonters downed the Canoeists by as scant a margin as 5-4, the Heights array would have edged through to the title.

Minnetonka staged a better battle against the champions than the score would indicate, the singles jousts, with two exceptions, being well contested and all of the dual encounters proving quite hard fought.

By landing the lower sector crown, Belmont wins right to challenge the last-place outfit of Division I for berth in the upper loop next season. Playoff of several postponed fracases during the current week will determine whether College Avenue or University Club will be the first-section tailender.

Meanwhile, in long-deferred final contest of the second annual Fox Chapel Golf Club invitation men's double turf court tournament, Dr. Dave and Dr. John O'Loughlin, P. A. A. aces and holders of the Western Pennsylvania and Allegheny County championships, downed Frank Broida and Irvin Goodman, brilliant Harvard-Pitt duo, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5, 6-3, before a large gallery.

Goodman and Broida, Fox Chapel victors in 1932 and first rated team of the Pittsburgh area for the same season, started well against the lately re-aligned O'Loughlin combine. Dr. Dave found difficulty in controlling his forehand returns, while Dr. John lacked power overhead and failed to repel a lobbing onslaught that ultimately defeated itself as the Winged Headers warmed up, uncorked more pace, and forced Goodman into numerous sky-high outs.

PARKS TENNIS FAVORITE HAS CLOSE CALL

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Milton King, former Kiski star and top-seeded entrant in the fourth renewal of the Pittsburgh Public Parks tennis championships, barely escaped elimination in a torrid first round match as 64 men's singles entrants began battling in the annual event on the Frick Park courts today.

Meeting Arthur Gallick in the initial round, King dropped the first set at 7-9, pulled out the second at 6-4, and was down at 0-3 in the third and deciding frame before he rallied to pull out thee set and match, 7-5.

Other favorites survived their first tests without great difficulty.

Women's singles play will not begin until tomorrow. Aspirants to feminine laurels have until 6 o'clock this evening to file names with Chairman Andy Smeaton at Churchill 3834. Results of today's men's singles matches:

First round, upper half—Don C. Borland defeated Gerald Barr, 5-7, 6-3, 6-2. Jack Manning defeated David Ludwig, 6-2, 6-2.

Lower half—Milton King defeated Arthur Gallick, 7-9, 6-4, 7-5; Joe Tucker defeated Jack Lloyd, 6-3, 6-3; Joseph O'Neill defeated Jerome Goodman, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4; Irwin Solow defeated William B. McKenna, Jr., 6-2, 6-4; Edwin Millen defeated William J. Purcell, 6-1, 5-7, 6-0; Albert D. Wassel defeated William J. Bliss, 6-2, 10-8; Charles Vukovich defeated Stanley Buttenber, 6-0, 6-1.

The man-to-man crown is without a defender at the current time, Frank Broida having aligned himself as a club player with Edgewood after retiring the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Public Parks Cup permanently in 1932. Mrs. Jean Artzberger, Mount Lebanon mainstay and holder of municipal women's singles honors since revival of the tourney in 1930, is still in the reckoning, however, and reigns distinct favorite over a strong feminine field. The survivors of the Parks jousting are expected to journey to New York next week as Steel City representatives in the National Public Parks championships.

The lone tournament aside from the Parks affair, slated for tri-state territory this week is the DuBois Country Club invitation conclave at DuBois.

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

WASHINGTON, July 31.—About every industry now has a code except the flagpole sitters and us ball players. Of course, if a flagpole sitter had a 40-hour week he would be working only 50 per cent of capacity, or flagpole sitting at half-mast. So a code would ruin them.

Nick Altrock

But when doubleheaders pile up and dog days come around, us big league folks often wish we had a 40-hour week. Naturally, we don't play 40 hours of baseball in any week, but the public don't realize we got to get out to the park right after lunch and then get into our uniforms and practice a long time before the game starts.

And when the game's over we have to take compulsory shower baths, and then dress and ride down to the hotel and have supper. If the public only knew how much we suffer, there would be riots and uprisings all over the land, not only demanding shorter hours for ball players, but a rainy day at least twice a week and overtime for extra innings. I almost choke up myself when I think of my fellow wage serfs.

WESTLAND COPS WESTERN GOLF LAURELS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 31.—(AP.)—Jack Westland, slim Chicago expert, yesterday defeated one of the country's best college players, Rodney Bliss, of Omaha, to win the Western amateur golf championship, 3 and 2.

Twenty-nine-year-old Westland had too much experience, strategy and steadiness for the young Cornell University star, who was runner-up for the National intercollegiate a month ago.

It was anybody's victory through the thirtieth hole. Westland was 1 up, but had lost two consecutive holes. Then Bliss three-putted to lose the thirty-first and took as many putts on the next hole, after slicing his approach into deep grass, to lose that hole.

With a three-hole advantage, Westland, who was runner-up to Francis Ouimet in the 1931 national amateur championship, played the closing two holes in perfect figures to win as Bliss was unable to better par.

Jacobs Brothers Lose to Texans

HOT SPRINGS, Va., July 31.—(AP.)—A Texas doubles team of Wilbur Hess, Houston, and Doo Barr, of Dallas, seeded second, overwhelmed the favorite Jacobs brothers, Eddie and Billy of Baltimore, in the finals of the Virginia state tennis championships yesterday.

The Texans won in straight sets, 10-8, 6-2, 6-1.

Eddie Jacobs won the singles crown Saturday for the third time to take permanent possession of the challenge bowl. Miss Louise Hofmeister, of Chicago, routed Miss Reba Kirson, Baltimore, in straight sets to win the women's singles title.

The cars rolled up with the ANSWER!

ON July 7th, The American Oil Company made a startling announcement—the premium on AMOCO-GAS was reduced 2¢!

Public response was instant and emphatic!

From the north—the south—the east—the west—the same news poured in: lines of cars rolling up to the AMOCO pump! Old users congratulating themselves on new savings; new users congratulating themselves on this long-awaited opportunity to enjoy the new power, performance and low-cost-per-mile of AMOCO-GAS. For now there was no reason for any motorist to deprive himself of the finest motor fuel on earth!

Even when AMOCO-GAS sold at the higher premium thousands of motorists had positively made up their minds that they could not afford to buy imitations or inferior motor fuels at a lower price. Nothing less than AMOCO-GAS would ever do!

Here's a specific example of how AMOCO-GAS performs. In the recent official A. A. A. Ford V-8 Economy Run conducted in Washington, D. C., AMOCO-GAS averaged 22.5 miles to the gallon. The Ford Factory considers 18.8 miles per gallon good Ford V-8 performance.

The mileage on AMOCO-GAS was 20% greater! AMOCO-GAS at today's average price does not cost motorists that much more per gallon. That means AMOCO-GAS costs even less on a mileage basis alone. The greater riding ease ... greater driving ease ... greater freedom from repairs cost you nothing.

Fill up on AMOCO-GAS. Always the best buy—now a better buy than ever.

STARS COMPETE

A large delegation of professionals from the tri-state district arrived yesterday to play in the pro-amateur tourney. The delegation of easterners, headed by Freddie McLeod, of the Chevy Chase Country Club, former National open champion, out-numbered the tri-state group.

Sam Parks Jr., of South Hills, Toots Erath, of Edgewood, Emil Loeffler, of Oakmont, and Ted Luther, of Valley Heights, are representing the Pittsburgh district.

FOUR TEAMS TIE

A hot day found a record field starting in the pro-amateur tourney yesterday and it was nightfall before Jock Kennedy, of Fox Chapel, dropped his ball on the eighteenth green.

Tristate combinations showed to good advantage. A four-way tie developed for the prize money, Johnny Capebianco and Herb Miller, Jr., of Aliquippa, had a 36-32—68; Sam Parks and Jack Benson, of South Hills, had an identical score. Erath and Dr. W. I. Thunhurst, of Edgewood, had a 35-33—68, and Maurice Gravatt and Sam Shaffer, of Lewistown, had a 34-34—68.

Vincent Eldred found the lightning greens too much for him, and three-putt greens gave him and F. Unkefer a 74.

Panama Canal Nine 'Broke,' Stranded

SISTERSVILLE, W. Va., July 31.—(INS.)—Seven members of the Panama Canal junior all-star baseball team are stranded at the Tyler Hotel here, awaiting funds from relatives to pay their hotel bills, it was learned today.

Other members of the team already have received funds, and have gone to the homes of relatives or friends in this country.

According to the hotel management, the team arrived here on a tour of this country and then learned their money, which had been entrusted to the manager of the team, was gone. One story was the manager had been robbed in New York. He was not here to comment.

The team arrived here about three weeks ago. Until recently the boys played local teams and took up offerings to obtain money for food.

Harmsworth Race Decision Thursday

DETROIT, July 31.—(INS.)—Detroit will know this week whether it is to have a Harmsworth Trophy race in September.

The English challenger, Sir Hubert Scott-Paine, who desires to pit his speedboat against the veteran American racer Gar Wood, cabled the Gold Cup committee today he would have a definite answer on Thursday. His cable read:

"Have made arrangements to go to Detroit. Will cable definite decision August 3.

Truesdale Wins In Sharon Race

SHARON, Pa., July 31.—Owen Truesdale, of Pittsburgh, captured the 50-mile feature automobile race at the local speedway yesterday afternoon. The 25-mile event was won by Jerry Berry, of Akron.

outfield trial with the Giants after he graduated from Los Angeles High School. Melo was given a big day in Los Angeles when Seattle played there a few days ago. He received a wrist watch, from the Seattle club, a gold baseball from Mexican clubs and societies, and, to celebrate the rise of their countryman to the majors, among those taking part in the ceremonies were Alejandro V. Martinez, Mexican consul; Rosita Morena and Raul Roulien, Mexican film stars, and Kid Azteca and Baby Face Casanova, Mexican boxers.

Rick Ferrell

ATTRIBUTING THE IMPROVEMENT in the Red Sox largely to the catching of Rick Ferrell, Detroit fans took Frank Navin to task for the failure of the Tiger owner to buy the backstop when the Browns put the latter on the market. Navin explains that his hands were tied because of a ruling by Commissioner K. M. Landis.

In 1928 the Tigers had Ferrell under contract and farmed him to Columbus, then owned by the Reds. The Detroit and Cincinnati clubs got into a wrangle as to which outfit owned the catcher, and in deciding the matter Landis declared Ferrell a free agent, stipulating further that under no circumstances should Rick ever play for either the Tigers or Reds. So Navin wants it understood that he was helpless, and he couldn't buy Ferrell even now if the Red Sox were willing to sell him for a nickel.

IT IS NOT only because it left America's record of seven straight years of permanent possession still standing that tennis fans in this country feel no disappointment at England's victory over France, which takes the trophy back to the British Isles for the first time since 1912.

The outcome may help this country's chances for regaining the cup next year. With the challenge round being staged in England, it will be played on grass instead of composition courts, and with a harder ball than is used in France, and those are conditions to which American players are more accustomed.

IN REFUSING TO permit the holding of the Petrolle-Van Klaveren bout on the scheduled date, because Van Klaveren's injured eye had not healed, the New York Athletic Commission was aiming to protect the public. But Tim Mara, the promoter, also has been given a break. His request for another examination 10 days hence has been granted, and if the Dutchman's eye is in shape Mara can go ahead with the show. He may hold it before the Ross-Canzoneri match, but at any rate he has been given all the protection possible, and if the bout cannot be staged before the close of the outdoor season Mara's contract will hold and the welterweight rivals cannot be signed by any indoor club. Mara is now dickering for a site for indoor operations.

HARNESS RACING CONTINUES to enjoy a boom season. The legalizing of pari-mutuel betting in several states not only has resulted in a greatly increased attendance at meets in those sectors, but has caused a general revival of interest that is helping the game even where open betting is not permitted.

Big jumps in attendance and receipts were reported from Toledo, O., Salem, N. H., and other points, and the Trotting Horse Club of America announces that the 20,000 seats at Goshen, N. Y., have been virtually sold out for the Hambletonian Stake on August 16. That's the richest trotting stake in the world, and it's the first time the advance sale has reached such proportions.

ADVANCE INFORMATION IS that the football guide for 1933 will have a new feature, designed to help both coaches and officials. It is a questions-and-answers section, with the questions applying specifically to the rules.

Ted Phelps

The guide has had something of this sort in the past, but the questions in other years were confined to unusual plays and special problems. The new guide not only will have these unusual plays, but also questions such as arise in every game.

OPEN GOLF TOURNAMENTS present about the only occasions of general interest on which the best amateurs are tested against the best professionals, but another chance to see how an amateur (until now) star compares with a pro king will be offered in the coming world championship sculling match between Ted Phelps, of England, the professional titleholder, and Bobby Pearce, the great Australian oarsman now residing in Hamilton, Ontario. Pearce is turning pro to meet Phelps for the crown in a three-mile race at Toronto on September 1, and many followers of rowing are picking the former amateur king to win. Certainly Pearce looked as good as any professional while sweeping the amateur realm. He was a double winner of the Olympic singles championship, at Amsterdam in 1928 and at Los Angeles last year, and the decisive manner in which he defeated the world's best simon pures during his brilliant career caused him to be recognized as the foremost amateur sculler of the last decade and one of the greatest of all time.

PIRATES GAIN ON GIANTS

TOUGH DAY ON PITCHERS

Both Larry French and Hal Smith, the starting pitchers of yesterday, were relieved and the two victories were credited to Leon Chagnon and Bill Harris. French came out for Lindstrom in the eighth round of the opener while Smith was relieved by Harris in the eighth inning of the second game.

Paul Derringer had the Pirates eating out of his hand until he blew up in the ninth inning of the opener. Bob Smith went to his rescue, Kolp, Bob Smith, Benton and Frey were in action for the Rhinelanders in the second struggle.

PIET IN HERO ROLE

Lloyd Waner opened the ninth-inning victory drive of the first contest with a single. Comorosky, Vaughan and Piet also singled in the four-run round.

Lindstrom's pinch single inaugurated the march of triumph in the last chapter of the nightcap. L. Waner's double, P. Waner's single and triples by Vaughan and Piet, aided by a fumble in the outfield, paved the way for five big counters.

The Buccos were held to seven safeties in the first slight, but they splattered 17 blows all over the greensward of Redland Field in the closing clash.

Philadelphia Bids For All-Star Game

PHILADELPHIA, July 31.—(AP.)—An invitation to hold an all-star inter-league baseball game in Philadelphia next year was wired today to the presidents of the American and National Leagues by the Philadelphia Sporting Writers' Association.

The association announced that if the invitation is accepted, the proceeds would go to charity.

S. Park, Chartiers, Charleroi Victors

South Park, Chartiers Heights and Charleroi turned in polo victories in district games yesterday.

South Park defeated Monongahela, 8 to 2; Chartiers Heights nosed out the Old Furnace riders, 4 to 2, and Charleroi walloped Fox Chapel, 7 to 1.

READING SOLD TO RED SOX

READING, Pa., July 31.—(AP.)—J. Robert Quinn, owner of the Reading New York-Pennsylvania League baseball franchise, announced today the sale of his fourth-place club to Tom Yawkey and Eddie Collins, owners of the Boston Red Sox, effective tomorrow.

Quinn, former president of the Boston club, bought the Hazleton (Pa.) franchise and moved it to Reading this year. Terms of the sale were not disclosed.

Quinn said the new owners contemplate no immediate changes in the club's personnel.

Public Links Title Tourney Tomorrow

PORTLAND, Ore., July 31.—(AP.)—Public links golfing stars from all sections of the United States, and one from Hawaii, tour the Eastmoreland golf course today on their final practice rounds, before the opening of the 1933 national public links tourney tomorrow.

Several days of practice has enabled a majority of the 169 players entered to be confident they can conquer the tricky greens that have been remodeled for the championship test, and a few have equalled or gone below the par of 72.

RACE MEET OPENS

CHICAGO, July 31.—(AP.)—For the first time in seven years, the gates were thrown open today at the Coney Island track here for a 42-day race meeting. More than 600 horses are stabled at the track awaiting the call to the barrier for the race program which offers purses of more than $200,000.

ALICE MARBLE MEETS BETTY NUTHALL

EASTHAMPTON, N. Y., July 31.—(AP.)—Alice Marble, of Sacramento, Cal., eliminated Mrs. Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, in the semi-final round of the Maidstone women's invitation tennis tournament today, and qualified to meet Betty Nuthall, of England, in an international final this afternoon. The scores were 6-3, 6-8, 6-1.

Mrs. Van Ryn, a previous winner of the William H. Woodin gold cup that goes with victory in the annual play, gave the seventh ranked girl from California a rugged battle under a broiling sun for two sets before fading out of contention.

Miss Marble's deep court driving accounted for many of her points, but both players were weak on the defensive and games frequently went to deuce on errors. The pace slowed considerably as the match went on, due to the terrific heat.

Former Cardinal Pitcher Killed

LEHIGHTON, Pa., July 31.—(AP.)—Wallace Nick Gombert, 45-year-old trainman for the Lehigh Valley Railroad and a former member of the St. Louis Nationals, was killed yesterday by Jersey Central passenger train.

Gombert, father of eight children, starred as a pitcher for the Lehighton team in the days before the World War and joined the St. Louis Nationals in 1912.

SHACOSKI WINS NORTH PARK GOLF TITLE

Van Horn was able to win but one of the 24 holes played. He managed to get an even break on nine. He won the ninth hole during the morning round.

Shacoski now will face Carl Kauffmann, who won the South Park title last week, for the county parks crown.

Jack Freund, southpaw star won the Westmoreland Country Club yesterday, defeating Dick Morganstern, 1 up, after 38 holes of play.

BERLIN, N. H., July 31.—(AP.)—Lawrence J. Kelly, 26, of Hartford, Conn., walked into police headquarters today and surrendered in connection with the slaying of Dr. E. Warren Sylla, wealthy New York dentist, last Monday.

Chief of Police Walter Hynes said Kelly told him he had been trying to summon courage for four days to surrender. A talk with a Berlin clergyman made him decide.

Dr. Sylla, 65, was attacked in his New York apartment. His body, a sheet twisted about the throat, was found in his drawing room last Tuesday morning. Kelly said, according to Chief Hynes, he and a companion obtained only $100 loot.

The police chief said Kelly told him of entering the doctor's apartment with another man, while two companions waited outside in an automobile. The police official said Kelly declared three men, now in custody in connection with the case, had no part in it.

PITTSBURGH BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

BANK SURVEY FINDS TRADE INCREASE

Swift expansion in business activity has continued in recent weeks, together with further advances in commodity and security prices, states the Guaranty Trust Company of New York in the current issue of The Guaranty Survey, its monthly review of business and financial conditions in the United States and abroad, published today.

A sharp setback, however, was experienced in speculative markets during the third week of July, the Survey continues. The recession was greeted with relief by certain public authorities who had become somewhat alarmed at the rapidity of the speculative advance. But nothing has yet occurred to alter the view that the general business trend is distinctly upward, while the government continues to press forward vigorously in its recovery campaign.

STEEL GAINS

The upward movement apparently covers almost every important field of American business. The steel industry, always a sensitive indicator of the general trend, has expanded its operations rapidly and continuously since last March, with only a slight seasonal recession in recent weeks. The automobile industry is producing and selling many more cars than it was at this time last year. Coal output has felt the stimulating influence of the general advance. Railway freight loadings have regularly surpassed the 1932 totals since last May. Electric power production has risen sharply since the middle of March and, with adjustment for seasonal variation, is now at the highest level since the early part of 1931. Factory employment and foreign trade continued to increase last month.

As for the advance in commodity prices, the relative unimportance of the recession in speculative markets in the third week of July is indicated by the wholesale price index of the Department of Labor, which, for the week ended July 22, shows an increase in every price group, including farm products.

Superficially, at least, the revival has many of the aspects of a true economic recovery. It has included most of the country's leading industries; it has apparently come about in response to a genuine improvement in business sentiment and a sharp increase in demand, and it has resulted in an advance in purchasing power released through wage payments. It is evident that substantial increases in employment and numerous advances in wage ratios have been made possible by the expansion in industrial operations, and that these, in turn, have broadened the market for consumers' goods, the survey says.

DOLLAR INFLATION

Nevertheless, the question arises as to how much of the recovery may be due to the prospect of currency debasement and other drastic experiments in governmental control, and, in particular, how much of the active buying of commodities and securities may be due to a "flight from the dollar" in domestic trade similar to the flight that has clearly taken place in international transactions. The fact that no appreciable inflation of currency or credit has yet taken place does not answer the question. An increase in the velocity of circulation of money and bank deposits has the same effect on prices as an increase in their amount, and it is obviously such an increase in velocity that has been going on in this country in the last few months.

Whether or not there has been "inflation" depends on the definition that is given to the term. Certainly there is nothing necessarily unsound in an increase in velocity of circulation, and the fact that the amount of currency and credit in use has not yet been artificially expanded is encouraging as far as it goes. But it is difficult to escape the conclusion that the increase in velocity and the accompanying price advance have been prompted by doubts concerning the future value of the dollar.

EARLY WORK ON THE 109-ACRE WILDWOOD SITE FOR THE ACACIA MEMORIAL PARK . . . MEMORIAL TO MASONS, FAMILIES

BREAK GROUND FOR ACACIA MEMORIAL

Ground has been broken for the Acacia Memorial Park of Western Pennsylvania at Wildwood, in Hampton Township, to be dedicated as a perpetual memorial to Masons and their families. Consisting of 109 acres, the lawn-type park will be similar to other Masonic projects which have been developed during the last decade in Detroit, Kansas City, Omaha, Los Angeles and Indianapolis.

The $2,000,000 project will put more than 500 men to work spading, landscaping, constructing roadways and buildings, over a period of more than a year. A mausoleum in Greek architectural style is to be constructed under the personal supervision of John Cyrus Distler, president, and Edward Crump, western divisional manager of Riggs, Distler Company, Inc., of Baltimore, Md.

TOWER OF CHIMES

Plans will include a Tower of Chimes, which will combine visual and auditory beauty with the additional utilitarian value of a water tower, according to W. R. F. Whaley, secretary of the newly organized park corporation. He said:

"We propose to follow the natural land curves wherever possible, transplanting many of the natural trees now on the property and adding others, along with shrubbery, in harmony with the landscape. The chapel in the Mausoleum will be abailable without cost for funeral and memorial services and no charge will be made for sealing and inscribing crypts, or for use of the chapel tent for services at the grave where below-ground entombment is preferred."

The right of burial will be restricted to members of duly chartered lodges of Masons and chapters of the Eastern Star and their families. A liberal interpretation will be given the term "family," with clauses restricting the burial of relatives of remote degree.

EQUALITY IN DEATH

Acacia Memorial Park will be symbolical of the modern trend of thought concerning the sublime idea of equality in death. Bronze grave markers of common size will supplant the expensive private monuments or mausoleums of yesterday, while the entire park is dedicated in beauty to the memory of those interred therein, Mr. Whaley said.

The idea for the Masonic park in Pittsburgh, which originated in May, 1930, recently received new impetus under a reorganized management which has established trust funds for perpetual maintenance without future anxiety or expense accruing to the purchaser after the initial purchase, and for his complete assurance of protection to preclude the dissipation of any part of the funds by any officer or individual of the corporation, Mr. Whaley said.

JOBS INCREASE IN JUNE

The current bulletin of the Alexander Hamilton Institute, which makes a monthly survey of employment, reveals that the number of persons employed in the United States rose from 33,824,000 in May to 34,605,000 in June, a gain of 781,000. In the two previous months, 1,118,000 persons obtained work, so that the total increase during the past three months of business recovery amounted to 1,899,000 persons. The number of persons employed in March when employment reached the lowest level of the depression was 32,706,000.

The Institute points out, however, that due to the increase in population, the number of unemployed persons showed a somewhat smaller decrease than that indicated by the expansion of employment. The number of unemployed persons was reduced by 752,000 from May to June and by 1,182,000 from March to June. Persons unemployed in June totaled 15,357,000, as compared with 16,109,000 in May and with 17,169,000 in March. Of the total number of persons available for employment, 30.7 per cent were idle in June as compared with 32.3 per cent in May and with 34.4 per cent in March.

Steel Men in Dilemma Over New Law On Unions.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

AS STEEL MEN gathered in Washington today to attend the opening hearing on the code of business practices which they recently submitted to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the Industrial Recovery Act, many admitted that they were in a delemma over their future relationships with labor.

In view of recent emphatic declarations by Gen. Johnson and Donald Richberg, general counsel of the Recovery Administration, the clause in their code aimed at the forcing of company unions on the workers was withdrawn.

This development was hailed as a victory by leaders of organized labor. But steel men assert that the outcome would not be a simple matter of signing up with a union where labor organizers have been successful in securing enough members.

Recovery Law Works Two Ways

THE INDUSTRIAL Recovery Act works two ways on the labor question. It provides for collective bargaining. It makes it illegal for a plant operator to discharge a man for belonging to a union or to make the fact that he is a member of a union a reason for refusing to hire him.

The act also makes it illegal for an employer to discharge a man because he does not belong to a union or to refuse to hire a man because he does not belong to a particular union.

While the act appears to open the door for organized labor, it also appears to make a closed shop policy illegal.

Workers to Choose Own Representatives

IN PROVIDING FOR collective bargaining the act expressly permits workers to choose their own representatives. In the steel industry this would mean that men might either join the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers or they might go along with the company union idea and elect representatives at each plant.

One steel executive raises the question:

"Suppose half the workers in a mill want to be represented by the Amalgamated and half want to be represented by their own local association. What's the answer? Will the management have to do business with two or more groups? Certainly those men who do not want to join the Amalgamated have their rights of representation under the act and those rights must be observed. In other words, an Amalgamated mill would be a closed shop which would be as bad as a complete company union forced upon the men which also would be a closed shop in effect. The act provides against a closed shop unless a plan of representation is accepted by the men."

An attorney who has had wide experience in the relations of labor and capital in the steel industry, has expressed the opinion that it would be illegal and contrary to the spirit of the recovery act for any steel manufacturer to sign up with the Amalgamated for a closed shop unless he were requested to do so by his entire force of workmen.

Even if the union would permit non-union men to work with union men in the same mill, the non-union workers would be without representation despite the fact that they might conceivably constitute more than half the working forces of the plant.

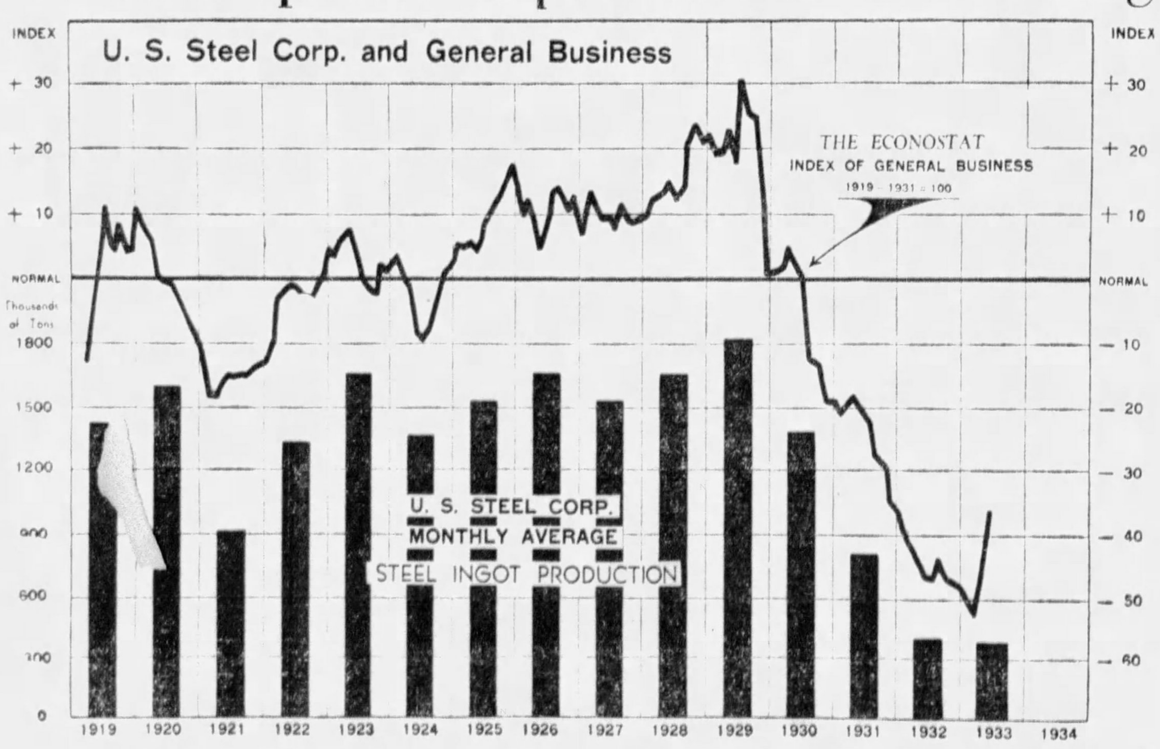
Price Movement of U. S. Steel Common Anticipated Improvement in Earnings



By JOSEPH STAGG LAWRENCE
Editor of The Econostat

As the dominant unit in the country's most important basic industry, excepting only agriculture, any item affecting the United States Steel Corporation is always news. This is particularly true of the quarterly earnings statements which are regarded as the barometric life line of American business. All private business is judged by the volume of its profits and since the business of this country proverbially goes as does the Steel Corporation the news value of the corporation's earnings statement requires no explanation. Moreover, the income account for the second quarter of 1933 is invested with peculiar interest.

It is the end of the first quarter of the new deal in which operations in the steel industry rose from a low of 14 per cent of capacity in March to a present level of 59 per cent. What effect will this rise in activity have upon the earnings of the corporation? The first quarter of 1933 showed a deficit of $14,711,411 and was the seventh successive quarter in which the cost of operations exceed income.

The present statement just released showing a net loss of $8,627,367 marks the end of eight lean quarters and possibly the beginning of a new lease on prosperity. It may be compared with the poorest quarter in the history of the corporation, i. e. the third in 1932 showing a deficit before dividends of $15,155,072 and the best quarter, i. e. the fourth in 1916 which showed net income of $90,586,454.

The chart shows the monthly high and low of common stock prices after adjustment to present capitalization and quarterly net earnings before dividends. In theory a share of stock is simply the right to participate fractionally in the distributed earnings of a corporation. Over a long period of time the ratio of price to earnings is perhaps the best gauge of a stock's value. With the exception of the boom and depression cycle from 1928 to 1933 this relationship between price and earnings in the case of United States Steel is not pronounced.

In those six years the stock distinctly obeys the rules. The July price range is approximately the same as that for November, 1931, and clearly anticipate an improvement in the earnings record for the second quarter of the current year.

B. & O. Makes Fine Showing for June

NEW YORK, July 31.—The report of Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for June shows net income of $1,030,274, comparing with net loss of $34,884 in June, 1932. For six months ended June 30 last, net loss amounted to $3,641,292, against $4,752,299 in the first half of 1932.

PITTSBURGH BANK CLEARINGS

Following are the comparative figures issued by the Pittsburgh Clearing House for the month of July, 1933:

	Exchanges	Balances
July, 1933	$360,678,833.74	$188,039,345.16
June, 1933	352,753,151.78	178,633,515.43
July, 1932	330,351,401.80	163,871,022.50

STOCKS FALL AS TRADING PACE SLOWS

NEW YORK CLOSE WITH NET CHANGES

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—Security markets stumbled over the expected "secondary reaction" today, but the trading volume dwindled appreciably on the downside and bids and offers were far apart in many instances.

While most stock categories lacked support, with several of the recent pools apparently not yet reorganized, there was no marked liquidating pressure except in the instance of some of the recently more buoyant specialties. Wheat, corn, rye and oats went through a series of rallies and declines and were generally heavy. Silver improved moderately. Bonds were soft in spots. The dollar gyrated uncertainly in foreign exchange dealings. Sterling gained nearly 10 cents at one time and then proceeded to lose most of this advance.

Most commission houses were down to around a normal rate of business today, and predictions were general that a quieter market could be expected during the next few weeks, with price fluctuations much milder than in many past sessions. Today's business was largely professional, with the public inclined to hug the sidelines for the moment. Brokers point out that the recent break took away considerable trading enthusiasm as well as profits from the customers who were dealing in symbols rather than in values.

Notwithstanding the nervousness of cotton futures, followers of this staple were cheered by the preliminary estimate of the New York Cotton Exchange Service which placed world consumption of American cotton during the 1932-1933 season at approximately 14,132,000 bales. This is the largest consumption since the 1928-1929 season when the world spinners used 15,226,000 bales of the American product. World consumption last season totaled 12,506,000 bales.

The exchange service attributes the large increase in consumption during the past 12-months—especially in the latter three months—partly to the sharp upturn in general business activity and rising prices. While industry abroad has also shown a firm tendency, the chief reason for the jump in cotton consumption by foreign spinners, it is said, has been the low price of the American staple in relation to growths abroad. At the same time, it is added, there has been an unusually small supply of foreign cottons in the world supply of all growths.

COTTON PRICES RULE EASY

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—Cotton futures opened easy, 11 to 22 lower under liquidation due to rains in Texas and Oklahoma. October, 10.53; December, 10.72; January, 10.80; March, 10.80; May, 10.96; July, 11.15.

Trade interests were buyers on the opening decline, but otherwise demand was limited. Liquidation continued and there was some selling here through houses with foreign connections. Prices worked off to net losses of over $1 per bale before the end of the first half hour, with December selling down to 10.60c and March to 10.85c.

After showing net losses of about 30 to 32 points under the early pressure, prices rallied 6 or 7 points on trade buying or covering but the market eased again later in the morning under renewed selling which appeared to be influenced by weakness in the wheat and stock market. At midday December was ruling around 10.48 and May 10.90, making net losses of 31 to 34 points on the active positions.

LIVERPOOL, July 31—Cotton, 7,000 bales, including 4,000 American. Spot quiet; prices 10 points lower. Quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 7.02; goodmiddling, 6.72; strict middling, 6.42; middling, 6.27; strict low middling, 6.12; low middling, 5.92; strict good ordinary, 5.72; good ordinary, 5.42. Futures closed quiet and steady. October, 5.99; December, 6.02; January, 6.03; March, 6.07; May, 6.10.

STOCK SETBACK FAILS TO CURB TRADE GAIN

By MERRYLL RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, July 31.—In spite of stock market vacillations and summer heat, the general trend of business continues upward.

In some directions the adverse seasonal factor was reflected merely in a decreasing rate of advance.

Mr. Rukeyser

As far as could be ascertained, business men interpreted the speculative setback as purely technical, and it resulted in no alteration of their constructive plans.

There is a growing belief that as industries begin to operate under codes, there will be less rush to accumulate goods, and that production will be better syncronized with consumption. Consumption, however, is on an ascending scale as additional men are employed, as wage rates rise, and as the purchasing power of farmers is rehabilitated.

As a matter of fact some industrialists, who believe in the circulation theory, are of the opinion that many who think that they have bought far ahead will find that they underestimated their need for materials. Numerous producers of basic products have been seeking to induce their customers to buy only against near-term needs. One motive for this policy has been the belief that higher prices will be paid later in the year.

In connection with the break week before last in the stock market, President Roosevelt wisely departed from the Coolidge-Hoover tradition of meddling in the speculative situation.

Mr. Hoover disclaimed any intention to influence stock prices, yet he was exceedingly conscious of market changes. Believing in the efficacy of propaganda, he was inclined to say things for effect. But canny traders in Wall street soon sensed this, and as a result started to play his advice in reverse.

Mr. Hoover's illustrious predecessor allowed himself to say in 1928 when the street began to worry about the magnitude of brokers' loans that he did not consider them unduly large.

By ignoring the stock market, President Roosevelt set an example for business men in regard to attending to their knitting.

With the "new deal" goal for higher price levels, the President could not consistently object to the direction of the price movement, though all sober observers were disturbed with the tempo of the upward surge.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Raw sugar was quiet early today. Futures opened unchanged to 2 points lower and showed little variation during the forenoon. September contracts after opening at 1.42c sold off to 1.41c while December declined from 1.49c to 1.48c. The market at midday was 1 to 2 points net lower.

In refined a good withdrawal demand was reported, stimulated by the continued hot weather but new business was light and supplied through second hands. Prices

PROSPECT SEEN FOR SECONDARY REACTION

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, July 31.—There are always at least two ways to look at the stock market, one is that of the short-term speculator, the other that of the long-pull investor.

From the speculative trader's standpoint, the big question just now is, is there to be a "secondary reaction." To me it seems that this is rather likely.

Much depends upon whether there are enough weak positions left to bring on further selling pressure. This may easily be the case. The fact that it was necessary to support the market when the gold stocks were sold on Thursday merely tends to prove this. The same thing was true when commodities broke on Friday.

It is also doubtful if brokers' loans have had a normal clean-out. They did not fall as much as expected, and this leaves the large expansion during the rise only partly corrected.

TRADERS PROTECT SELVES

But one can say that so many people in Wall street are expecting that "secondary reaction" that it is less likely to occur than would otherwise be the case.

We should always remember that when everybody expects something to happen in the stock market it hardly ever comes. This is true because traders protect themselves against it.

It has been so long since clearly marked "secondaries" have appeared that a word about them may not be amiss.

Following the first sharp break after a rising period the market always rallies. It usually rebounds enough to recover from one-third to one-half of the ground lost.

Then it usually reacts again, and this is the secondary reaction. It is brought on by the selling of support stock bought on the first decline by the completion of short covering, and by the operations of experienced traders who play for such moves.

MAY REGAIN HALF

Usually the first big break ends in a few days with a large run-up in the volume of trading. Then a rally occurs, with the volume declining. This rally lasts from two to eight days, and as I have said, may regain as much as half of the decline.

In a bull market the general trend of the volume of trading is downward throughout the whole period of rally and secondary decline. It may increase somewhat on the secondary sell-off, but not as much as on the first break.

The trader may consider it an indication of strength if there is a very large volume on the initial decline, and not nearly so much on the secondary. That shows that the weak spots had been cleaned out.

But if the trading activity falls markedly during the rebound, and then becomes large on the secondary reaction, it is a fairly important sign of weakness.

DECISION NEAR

Secondary bottoms should normally occur at about the same level as the low point of the first reaction. In a bull market they are apt to be higher than that; in a bear market lower. At present, it seems that if we have a secondary reaction it is unlikely to go through the previous bottom.

If it should, real weakness would be shown. A very few days will tell. Washington and most traders want a fairly stable market for a while.

On the bear side, we can say that bull leadership is lacking, business is hesitating and the market had probably discounted all the good news yet in sight. On the bull side, the selling pressure seems moderate, many are waiting to buy stocks on a secondary decline, and some hope for good results from NIRA.

Probably the chief point is that there will be considerable buying on any good selloff.

I am inclined to look for no very wide swings during August.

Hot Oil Shippers Plan Fight On Order

Proration violators in the mid-continent fields will contest the legality of the President's order forbidding the shipment of "hot oil" in interstate commerce, if they fail in their attempts to thwart proration at the Washington oil code hearings, according to the T. S. Hose review of the oil situation. Outcome of the suit will have definite bearing, in the opinion of Mr. Hose, on the future of the Industrial Recovery Act. The same tactics will be employed as those which were successful in contesting state proration orders.

PREMIERE -:- Gripping Story of Life Behind The Scenes at Hollywood -:- By ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

"Well, you saw the one guy that you handed my jimmy to, anyway. How come you give it to him?"

"Because he had hoodlum stamped all over his pan," said Cavanaugh contemptuously. "I knew you two belonged together."

"I'm awful sorry about that," said Slug morosely. "I oughtn't to mixed up with them fellows. They ain't right. We've cut up the dough already—that part of it is jake, but they've gone in a panic. They didn't have to shoot that bird—they could have slugged him. These guys that is so nervous on the trigger is always yellow. But that's what I get for working with strangers."

"All right, what's the total?" asked Cavanaugh impatiently.

Slug avoided his eyes in answering.

"I'm sorry as hell, Lucky. I talked to them rats but they're on a hot stove. They got the idea you're the only witness against them. So they're prowling around town laying to rod you."

It was not the first time in his life that Lucky Cavanaugh had received information that death was in store for him. It was not pleasant news but neither was it paralyzing.

"Thanks, Slug," he said.

Slug made a regretful gesture with his hand. "I tried to tell them you was the rightest guy in California but they're itching. One of them's on the dope—he's the gunster. I thought I'd give you the word."

"Do they know where I live?"

"I don't know. They was phoning around trying to find out when I scrammed."

LUCEY APPRECIATIVE

Cavanaugh was conscious of gratitude toward Slug. In his crude way the man had tried to do something decent, perhaps had risked his own safety. There were worse men around than Slug and many of them occupying higher positions in society.

"Well, it's swell of you to tip me," Cavanaugh said warmly. Maybe I can do you a favor sometime."

"I won't worry about you now," said Slug. "As long as you're wise, I guess you can take care of it. I'll get along—S'long!"

His mission finished, Slug wasted no time in farewells but moved down the street keeping instinctively as much in the shadows as possible.

Cavanaugh watched Slug disappear at the end of the block and then Lucky turned toward Leni's house. It was a quiet and comfortable structure with diagonal beams set slantwise in English fashion on the second story. Moonlight lay like yellowed frost upon the sloping roof. A house of security and pleasant happenings.

COMFORTABLE PLACE

The lighting arrangement had been changed while he talked to Slug. The lower floor was now in total darkness. Upstairs there was a discreet and confidential flow as from a single heavily shaded lamp in a corner room.

Cavanaugh put the key into the lock and swung the door open noiselessly.

In the dark as Cavanaugh let himself into the wide hallway of Leni's house there was the indefinable flavor in the air of a lovely woman's home. The warmth was friendly and comfortable. His imagination told him there would be flowers about in vases.

He stood in the center of a heavy rug until his eyes became accustomed to the lack of light.

A battery of push buttons were set into the wall, their glazed surfaces shining. One touch of his fingers would illuminate everything, but he forebore.

A strange feeling of leisure came over him. There was no hurry about anything. The cool dusky living room invited him and he entered. One hand rested for a moment upon the back of a comfortable chair. Tonight had been the strangest night of his life. He dropped into the chair, got out a cigaret and lit it.

Something deep in his being was trying to communicate with him. An inner voice was trying to speak.

The curious thing was that when he thought of Leni he was not able to hold her image focused in his mind. Instead, the commonplace features of Mulrooney kept intruding. He could see the man's clear blue eyes, the hunch of his shoulders, the stubby moustache as accurately as though he were present in the flesh.

Crossroads . . .

A WARNING

The single word spilled into Cavanaugh's brain meaninglessly. Slowly he filled his lungs with cigaret smoke. What the devil was he trying to remember about crossroads. He grew very still.

"You've come to the crossroads," he seemed to hear Mulrooney saying.

His body began to remember that it was tired—that the nervous strain of the night had consumed a large draught of his vitality. He had been tuned to concert pitch and now the fine tight wires were beginning to relax.

Gradually through his consciousness it dawned that Mulrooney's words carried a warning that might refer to his whole life.

For the last year or so there had been a little of the old zest lacking in Cavanaugh's existence. Maybe he was merely doing the same old things over and over again. Merry-go-rounds are boresome. It was barely possible — and the thought made him uncomfortable—that he was at some kind of a mysterious crossroad. Mulrooney's words stuck in his mind, irritating him.

And Leni—was she to be just one more woman? Cavanaugh shrugged and ground out his cigarette. These were new kinds of thoughts.

Nobody likes it when life creeps up and starts to be serious. No pleasure in being put on the grill by a man like Mulrooney. Somewhere in life a man should have a substantial place to stand—a place of security in the event of retreat.

Marriage . . .

The thought came, unbidden and unwelcome. Only saps got married.

Somewhere in his reading Cavanaugh had once come across the statement that marriage was the only possible adventure for a coward. Cavanaugh knew plenty of people who were married. All seemed to be victims of an invisible tyranny. A dozen women had tried to ensnare him.

And now Leni upstairs . . . waiting . . .

He lit another cigaret. If he could be sure that life would always hold—with her—the pleasant suspense of this present moment it would be marvelously well worthwhile. This was not the first time he had felt a woman's fascination. It had never lasted. After a while he had grown tired—or the woman had. Roses wither.

Life itself, unless constantly refreshed, becomes sluggish and stagnant.

Yet never before had he met a woman like Leni Luneska. Never before had a woman set music singing in his blood.

(Copyright, 1932, by Robert Terry Shannon. Distributed by King Features Synd., Inc.)

Synopsis

At the premiere of her latest picture, Leni Luneska, beautiful star, is stunned by the appearance of her jailbird husband. He insists upon recognition as her husband. Lucky Cavanaugh, handsome gambler, tries to make Kruger leave. Kruger empties his gun at Cavanaugh without effect, then rushes into the next office in a rage. He surprises burglars looting a safe and is shot dead. Later as Leni and Cavanaugh are about to leave the theater to avoid questioning, Detective Mulrooney stops them. They deny knowing Kruger, Cavanaugh telling a plausible story of how he and Leni met, fell in love, and were running away from Leni's elderly escort. Lucky cautions Leni against talking, but she tells all to Mulrooney. Mulrooney gives Cavanaugh four days in which to find the guilty man. A gangster friend of Cavanaugh warns him about the men who shot Kruger. They fear Cavanaugh will "squeal."

Now Go On

"They got the idea you're the only witness," said Slug.

We have a question to answer today—the picnic starts as soon as the park opens, at about 9 o'clock, but you can come any time during the day and still have a swell time.

Notice the map right below here. It shows clearly and simply how to reach West View Park from several different localities, and from downtown Pittsburgh. It will be easy for your mother or dad to drive the car along this route.

The HONOR ROLL has been postponed until Wednesday. We're sorry, fellows, but we have been so busy with the picnic that we couldn't find the time to judge the many good letters we have published lately. Look for the first HONOR ROLL Wednesday, day after the picnic.

We have been noticing fellows, that many members are careless about writing their address on letters and pledge slips. Be sure always that your address is complete and correct—read it over twice before you mail it.

A letter we got today from Capt. Marie Rae, of 220 North Linden avenue, East End, is just a sample of the enthusiasm the members of the Junior Patrol are showing about the picnic: Marie says: "Dear Quin Hall, Snuggins, Junior and Spike:

"I have organized a club in our community. There will be 11 members when they receive their pledges. There are six girls and five boys including myself.

"We are all going to the picnic and we are going to have a swell time. We are saving the coupons from the Sun-Telegraph. We all listen to your program on Wednesday and we think it's swell."

Fellows—Tickets for coupons which reach headquarters this morning will be mailed today, and will probably reach your home tomorrow morning. Coupons you have today should be exchanged at your nearest exchange station.

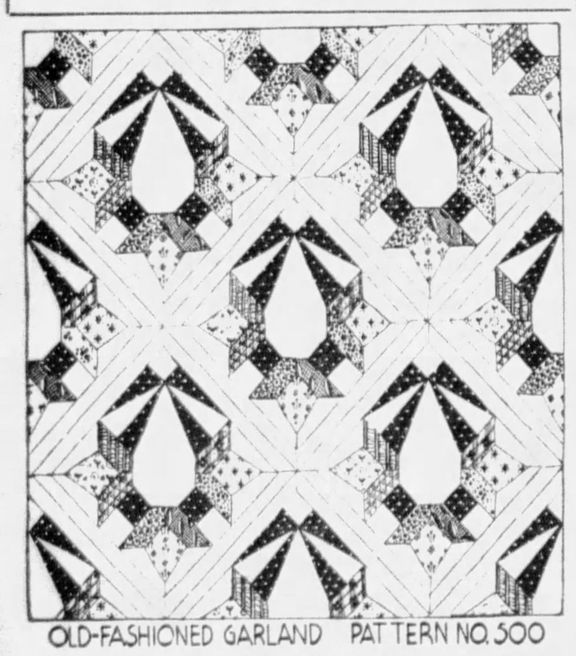
PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN



OLD-FASHIONED GARLAND PATTERN NO. 500

By LAURA WHEELER

The quiltmaker of days past was a gardener as well as a needlewoman. It is no wonder then that she found special joy in bringing her flowers into her quilts. This Old-Fashioned Garland, Pattern No. 500, gives a simple and quant picture of flowers formed into a garland and enhanced with a ribbon tied in a bow. Aside from its simple beauty, it is a scrap quilt, thus giving the quiltmaker the fun of doing the flowers in a variety of colorful materials that will indeed suggest a flower garden.

The pattern comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

Patriotism on Last Frontier

As we are still in the month of independence it is not too late to learn how the untrammeled town of Hunk's Corners, Ariz., spent the Fourth.

Editor McKinney, of Bisbee, sends in the patriotic program:

There was a gun salute and flag raising at 5 a. m.

While the echoes in the valley were still simmering they put on the horned toad race from the Young Democratic Club to the slag dump. That's a long race this administration.

The race was won by a horned toad. Three owners disqualified for coaching from the sidelines.

Followed by a patriotic speaking program. One thousand times around the postoffice. Everybody talking at once.

Pushmobile race from upper Tombstone Canyon to the foundations of the proposed site of City Hall.

Pie-eating contest and attack on the old stage coach. The attack was inside the coach. It was indigestion.

Fire hose race from Chamber of Commerce to the Better Business Bureau.

Novelty swimming and walking contest down the old Arizona River. There were 11 contestants ruled off the turf for running in the deepest parts of the river. Owing to the present width of the river it was a race in single file.

Open air variety show. Vaudeville, fireworks and one hour free dancing.

Declaration of Independence read on the freight platform of the Iron Mountain and Homestitch R. R. Depot.

Children's sports with continuous ambulance service.

Combined wolf and rabbit hunt on the postoffice plaza.

Baseball. Slag Dumpers versus Weedbenders. Umpire, Ham Price, an old Indian fighter, who wasn't used to having his eyesight contradicted. Along about the third argument the boys decided to turn it into a paper chase.

Some more patriotic denunciations, invitations to fight the world, 30 gallons of soupy ice cream, 11 jugs of moonshine and, so, to the hammock.

Rescue the Schools!

Retrenchment in Public Education Has Been Carried To a Dangerous Extreme.

If the New Deal is to accomplish in full its admirable social purposes and not carry in its wake a moral disaster to American citizenship, something has got to be done immediately about the public schools.

Retrenchment has gone so far that millions of children are being deprived of reasonable school opportunities—in many thousands of cases such opportunities have simply ceased to exist.

As business recovers its lost momentum, the evil of child labor is being voluntarily abolished under federal guidance.

This is a far-sighted and humane reform, which nothing must interrupt.

None the less, it is a reform entailing a very great obligation.

Obviously the place for all of America's children is in school. Yet at this very time the public school system has virtually broken down.

These were the thoughts expressed by Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase in his first public utterance as chancellor of New York University, and they are thoughts that should possess the minds of every parent and every public official in the United States today. Dr. Chase said:

"The big question in America is what to do with youngsters in their 'teens.

"Industry doesn't want them. Industrial codes filed in Washington show that.

"And education, which above all should absorb the youth of our nation, is in many cases turning them aside. Yet education is the only cure for the situation as it stands today."

In order to understand fully the social menace of which Dr. Chase warns, it is necessary only to scan the public school system of the nation today. Here are some facts, covering 42 states of the Union, just issued by the National Education Association in its latest "state by state review."

In 11 states, 2,269 schools were closed before March 1 of this year, curtailing school terms by several weeks.

Many of these schools report no prospects of being able to reopen in the fall.

Approximately 100 city school systems have reduced their school terms by 20 days or more.

A larger number of rural schools have shortened their terms by 30 days or more.

Up to 1930, to care for the annual increase in school population, the country at large spent about $400,000,000 for new schools. This year only $154,000,000 has been provided for the purpose.

The dearth of funds means that 4,000 new schools, urgently needed in rural districts, are not being built, and in 18,000 other rural districts repairs to maintain the existing buildings are not being made.

Of the rural schools kept open, 17,000 are struggling along with insufficient equipment.

As a consequence of the virtual stoppage of all school construction, the National Education Association estimates that 250,000 children attended school last term on a part-time basis and 150,000 were housed in portable shacks or other temporary structures.

Nor is that all.

Throughout the country, sales of textbooks—the very tools of education—have fallen off 30 per cent since 1930, and in 50 per cent of the cities cultural courses, night schools, Americanization classes and kindergartens have been dropped or curtailed.

In no phase of American life have the effects of depression and false economy been more devastating than in the public school system.

And unless corrective action is taken at once, the very policies intended to abolish depression—the New Deal itself—may make that devastation worse.

Either the schools must be rescued immediately or the nation must pay a bitter price a few years hence.

Until now, in the states and the communities, the politicians have protected their own jobs and sacrificed the schools. That process must be promptly reversed.

And with billions available in federal loans, surely some portion can be allotted to spare America from the shame of a degraded citizenship—a vast and growing number of untrained, uneducated men and women, inured to thriftlessness and dependency in the formative years of their youth.

The Low Death Rate

The Middle-Aged Unfortunately Do Not Show the Improvement Noted in Babies.

The Bureau of Vital Statistics at Harrisburg reports that Pennsylvania's death rate last year was the lowest in its history.

The improvement was largely due to a reduction in infant mortality, which was 65 per cent lower than in 1906 and also established a new record.

Certain coldly efficient biologists say it is a mistake to save the weaklings among babies, as we are now doing. They will grow up feeble, and many will die in childhood or youth, it is said. However that may be, it will be a long time before people will be persuaded to let babies die who can be saved.

Dr. Theodore B. Appel, secretary of health, remarks that there has been no improvement in the death rate of middle-aged Pennsylvanians. They are continuing to die at the same old rate.

Perhaps there is no class that can be spared less than they. The middle-aged are the financial supporters of children and youths, and because of their experience and authority constitute the mainstay of business and the professions.

It is earnestly to be desired that the death rate of mature persons shall be cut down as that of babies has been. The mortality rate of the middle-aged is no less a challenge to the health officials than the infant death rate has been.

War on Watersnakes

The Extermination of These Reptiles Would Help to Improve Fishing in Pennsylvania.

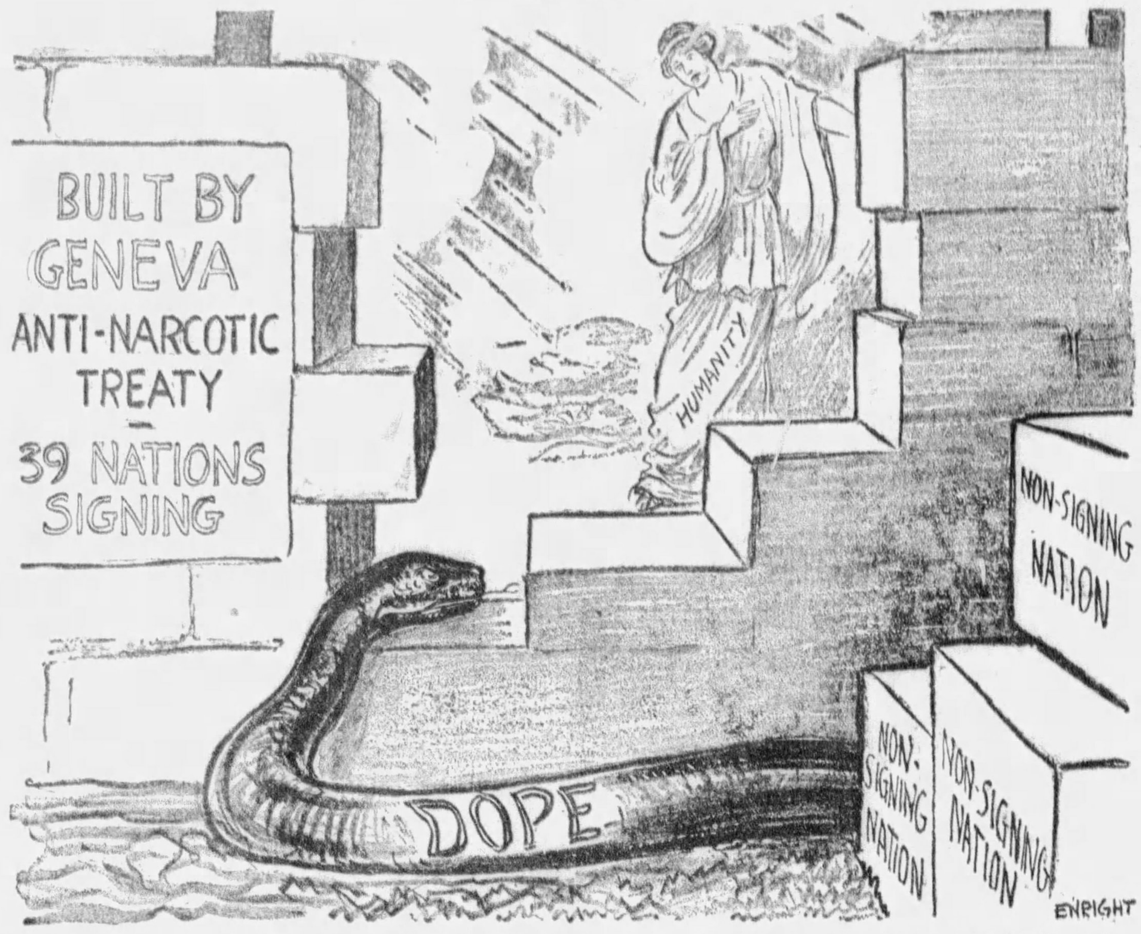
Pennsylvania has a number of species of nonpoisonous snakes which not only do not injure human beings in any way, but may actually render service by their destruction of mice and other vermin. But the watersnake is not one of them.

Watersnakes prey on trout and other small fish. According to the Fish Commission, the reptiles have been increasing steadily in Pennsylvania waters and have become "an outstanding enemy to fish life."

To encourage their destruction the commission announces it will give a medal to every Boy Scout who asserts on his honor that he has killed 10 or more watersnakes. That should be almost enough to bring about the extermination of the snake and an improvement in the fishing.

Complete the Work

(Copyright, 1933.)



With 39 nations combined against the nefarious "dope" traffic by the Geneva Anti-Narcotic Treaty, Humanity foresees the day when this hideous evil will menace it no more.

But the task is not done. The Geneva Treaty is Humanity's first wall of defense against "dope," and until all the nations have joined in the protocol, "dope" will continue to find its way to plague Humanity.

There must be no surcease of effort by the civilized governments and diplomatists until the wall has been completed.

How to Get Rid of a Man

Getting rid of a man is so much simpler and easier than shaking a woman, in these days of spoiled and coddled bachelors, that it seems superfluous to talk about it.

Still, having been inspired by Mr. Hilaire Belloc to give a few tips on "how to weary a woman," it's only fair to offer the following specific rules on "how to weary a man."

Begin by calling him up at his office (preferably before 10 a. m.) as often as you can and on any foolish pretext.

When you telephone him, always ask coyly "Guess who this IS," and persistently refuse to give your name. A man just LOVES to stop in the midst of a big business problem to play guessing games!

When you are together, keep up a running fire of small talk. Never permit him or anybody else to get in a word. Just be bright and scintillating and talk, talk, TALK. There's nothing a man enjoys so much as being continuously "entertained" by a human phonograph.

When he tries to give you "advice" on any subject, don't let him get away with it. Surprise and dazzle him by showing him how much more YOU know about it than HE does. This will reduce his superiority complex.

Tell him ALL ABOUT YOURSELF. Leave nothing to his imagination.

The first time he tries to kiss you melt right into his arms, exactly as though you had been waiting for that all the time. Or don't even wait for him to TRY.

* * *

When he invites you out, always suggest going to the most expensive places and order the most expensive dishes on the menu. This will show him that you are used to "nice things" and are sophisticated, and all that.

When he starts to say good-night, look hurt and coax him not to go home so early. Then hang around his neck goofily at parting.

Keep tabs on his smokes and drinks and drop in at his office, unexpectedly, every now and then, just to prove to him that you're going to be his "guardian angel" and his "keeper."

* * *

When he makes a bright remark or a new wisecrack, shrug wearily and spring a snappy comeback on him, which will make his own joke sound tame and flat.

Work up a fine case of jealousy every time he glances a moment too long at another woman. This will flatter him.

* * *

Be sure to let him know that you've got your eye on the altar and that your intentions are SERIOUS, whether his are or not.

* * *

By following these simple rules any girl who fears that marriage will interfere with her career can remain a spinster all the days of her life.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 31.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up and Constance Collier's picture of her dog "Dulcy." Also a letter from Mayor Wilson of Cincinnati harking to our stony-broke days on the Post. Then to a coffee-house and saw Sam Hellman, the pamphleteer, home from a long stay in France and wondrously kirtled.

Home and reading volume three of Arnold Bennett's journal, which I found, as C. B. Driscoll told me, utterly fascinating.

The magnificent million dollar estate of the former Jesse L. Livermores at Great Neck was recently sold for $168,000. The sale was to satisfy creditors. The place was built when Livermore was piling up millions as a spectacular bear in Wall Street. The house on 12 acres of a landscaped arcadia contained 29 rooms, 12 baths, basement with barber shop, game room and bar. Also a private beach with steel pier.

Their new quarters on the avenue side of a Radio City building is four times the size of their old stand a few skips down the street. Motoring from an evening with Frazier Hunt past the Bronx zoo at 1 a. m. four of us heard an inexpressible long drawn out moan. LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

She's restless. What for? She doesn't know herself. Yet, she's restless — discontented — always wishing.

Seemingly, she has so much. A pleasant home, a kindly husband, two fine children. And, in herself, youth, good health, a pretty face, a bright brain. But that isn't enough. She wants more.

What more? Oh, something that will make "life worth while." The chance to do something exciting—interesting—

"So people will know I'm alive. I'm just Fred's wife, now. I want to be something myself. Make my own mark. At what? Well, maybe writing. I always thought I could write if I could get at it. Or acting. I adore acting.

"And I like business, too. I've begged and begged Fred to let me take a job and pay for a girl to do the work. But he won't hear of it. And I think that's awful mean of him. I wonder how he'd like it—to be stuck in a house all day.

"If only I'd gone on and been a lawyer, the way I planned at Hi. Then my life wouldn't be wasted like this. Yes, of course I love Fred and the children. But if I only had a life of my own—my own career—"

You've heard that complaint before, haven't you? From a hundred pretty, discontented mouths. And what was your verdict?

Do you believe they really want a career—these restless, modern women with their empty, avid lives?

Have they anything upon which to build a career? Would they endure the drudgery, the discipline, the despair which must come with a career? Are they hungry or humble or honest enough to be great?

OR DO THEY JUST WANT TO SHOW OFF?

IS IT EGOTISM, NOT AMBITION, WHICH IS GNAWING AT THEM?

AND WHAT WOULD THAT GRATIFIED EGOTISM BUY THEM?

What, after all, is the greatest life for a woman? What will give her, herself, the deepest and most lasting satisfaction? What will be of greatest service to the world?

Two answers come to me, and the average modern wife will scoff at the formula. Yet it has given joy and peace and pride to rebellious human hearts for millions of years; and, I suspect, will continue to do so for millions more.

The first is from Pearl Buck's picture of a Chinese peasant mother in the July "COSMOPOLITAN."

"The truth was that this woman was such a one as could live well content with man and children and think of nothing else at all. To her, to know the fullness of the man's frequent passion, to conceive by him and know life growing within her own body, to feel this new flesh take shape and grow, to give birth and feel a child's lips drink at her breast, these were enough. To rise at dawn and feed her house and tend her beasts, to sow the land and reap its fruits, to draw water at the well for drink, to spend days upon the hills reaping the wild grass, and know the sun and the wind upon her, these were enough.

"She relished all her life: giving birth, the labor on the land, eating and drinking and sleeping, sweeping and setting in rude order her house, and hearing the women in the hamlet praise her for her skill in work and sewing; even quarreling with the man was good and set some edge upon their passion for each other. So therefore, she rose to every day with zest."

One picture—then this other, much like it, though written thousands of years before.

"Who can find a virtuous woman? For her price is far above rubies. The heart of her husband doth safely trust in her . . . she will do him good and not evil all the days of her life.

"She seeketh wool and flax, and worketh willingly with her hands. She rises also while it is yet night, and giveth meat to her household and a portion to her maidens. She considereth a field and buyeth it; and with the fruit of her hands she planteth a vineyard . . . She perceiveth that her merchandise is good; her candle goeth not out by night . . .

"She stretcheth out her hands to the poor, yeah, she reacheth forth her hands to the needy . . .

"She maketh herself coverings of tapestry; her clothing is silk and purple . . . strength and honour are her clothing; and she shall rejoice in time to come . . .

"Her children arise up and call her blessed; and her husband also, and he praiseth her.

"Many daughters have done virtuously, but thou excellent them all."

Two pictures of successful womanhood . . . of womanhood that was like rich soil in which other lives could root.

"But one was a poor peasant, and the other an ancient Hebrew, in the days when wives were little better than slaves. Why quote their lives to me?"

Why not? Pleasure and peace, pride and power—these things are the same, whether they warm the heart of an ancient Hebrew, a Chinese peasant or a modern college graduate.

And what can the modern college graduate do or be that will give her more of pride and power, pleasure and peace, than the simple setting of home life gave these two women?

Tell me that!

Gen. Balbo's Burning Ambition—Italy's Prowess In the Air—Another Autogiro Is Invented

By EDWIN C. HILL

ITALY'S modern Columbus, leading a great armada of the air, swoops down from the clouds and lands triumphantly at Chicago's magnificent Century of Progress Exposition. Gen. Italo Balbo, with his flashing black eyes and his lustrous black beard, once more demonstrates the gallantry and skill of the Italian race as he guides a squadron of Italian planes from Rome to Chicago and achieves another gesture of international friendship on what one might call the Mussolini scale of grandeur.

One night in 1923 this writer was dining in one of the most interesting restaurants in the world, the Ristorante Ulpia, in the heart of old Rome. It was once part of a pagan temple, which later became a Christian basilica, and then was buried under the debris of centuries. Excavated and restored, it was converted into a modern restaurant, with beautiful electric lighting and a first-class cuisine. Under my feet were 2,000-year-old flagstones which once echoed to the tread of Caesar's legions going out to war over the Appian Way.

While I sat at dinner there came a roar of cheering through a window high up in the stone wall of the restaurant room. I got up and went to the window and looked through to the adjoining room. There 500 of Mussolini's Fascisti commanders from all over Italy were banqueting and refreshing their spirits with shouts of pride in their great leader, Il Duce.

Italy's Great Airplane Fleet

POISED like a black eagle, upon a high rostrum of stone, was a young man with a curly black beard, and brilliant dark eyes. He was making a speech which cast off sparks, and at every period the massed Fascisti thundered acclaim. And I thought, as I gazed out over the vigorous and colorful picture:

"Here is a young man who is going somewhere."

And now he has arrived, one of the most powerful figures in the new Italian state, the trusted aide of Mussolini and the builder of Italian prowess in the air. Comprehending that Italy, as yet, is not rich enough to keep pace with other first class powers in the expensive business of sea and land armaments, Gen. Balbo has concentrated upon Italian defense in the air, has assembled a fleet of 2,000 splendidly equipped Italian fighting planes, and has proved in many dashing overseas flights the skill and competency of Italian aviation.

At 37, Gen. Balbo is fiery and tempestuous, but a resolute and able gentleman with all of his burning ambition to make Italy great. More than a year ago he led a wonderful flight of Italian planes from Rome to Brazil. When he returned to his homeland from that great adventure, Mussolini threw his arms around him and kissed him, an honor reserved for few.

Now Gen. Balbo, the Italian eagle, has led another glorious flight to the Chicago Exposition, as a definite gesture of Italy's sincere and unbroken friendship for the United States.

Another Autogiro Is Invented

THAT young and brilliant Spaniard, Senor de Cieurva, who some day may be reckoned with the Wright brothers in the annals of aviation, has, I see, invented another autogiro in which the British Government is very much interested.

This new machine of the sportsman-inventor can be run so slowly that a man can easily outdistance it in a race. At the same time it can be used to pick up and deliver packages without stopping. It has all the other virtues of the first autogiros, in that it can take off vertically and can be brought down vertically. Indeed, it seems just one more step in the thing that the whole world is waiting for, namely, the fool-proof and almost one hundred-per cent safe air machine which will remove all fear of air travel from the many millions who still refuse to believe that the Overhead Express is quite as secure for their necks as is the Overland Limited.

Aviators Hit By Depression

MANY of the aviators in two fields around New York have been as hard hit by the we[ather] you economic troubles as have New York taxi drivers. Not [Mitz]. of the men who have flown oceans, Atlantic and Pacific, as well as spanned the continent, the made speed records, are down the work of barnstorming a[nd] carrying pleasure passengers. The Department of Commerce figures show 18,000 licensed airplane pilots in the United States and only 7,000 planes for them to fly. And of these 18,000 pilots nearly 600 are women.

But aviation has gone ahead rapidly in spite of hard times. In the laboratories, the scientists, masters of currents and blueprints, know no depression, or welcome it as the time when they can give all their attention to the big problems which take years of study and experiment to work out.

The past year has been a great one for aeronautics, the most productive in fact of any since the war, according to the findings at the meeting of the National Advisory Board. Down in Virginia they have been experimenting with a cyclogiro, which, like the autogiro, is a plane without wings but with the rotating, windmill-like effect above the fuselage. Tests show that this cyclogiro has the characteristics of vertical ascent and descent, and that it should be sufficient at speeds up to 100 miles an hour.

Yes, it seems to be on the way—maybe it is just around the corner—that air contraption which will ride low and slow. And when it comes, why, we'll all be in the clouds.

A GOOD BOOK

By Winifred Black

There she sat in the corner of the car—as sweet as a peach, in her little blue middie and white skirt and white outing shoes, and a foolish little white hat with a blue pompom.

Some little freckles on the bridge of her cute little nose, a pair of dimples, one on each side of the rougish pout she called her mouth, and brown hair with a streak of gold in it.

It made the whole day gay and young and joyous just to look at her.

What was that book she was reading—rather a thick volume—and she was having all she could do to keep from laughing.

Some idiotic tale of love on the merry-go-round, I suppose.

They are reading such unheard of trash these days.

It can't be so very bad, or she wouldn't be reading it in the street car.

She'd wrap it up in her school kit and hide somewhere while she read it—if it was really what they called "modern," at the circulating library around the corner.

How they do "circulate" the books at those libraries, some of them good and some of them very, very bad!

I do hope it isn't one of these things that delightful girl is reading.

Hurrah! What do you think it is—that book of hers—nothing in the world but our good old friend David Copperfield.

And she's just sweet 16, and as "modern" as a smart roadster at that.

Dora and Gyp—David and Agnes, Peggoty and the buttons that were always bursting.

Little Emily—can't you see her running out on the narrow pier with her little dress and her long, bright hair fluttering in the wind, and all the time before her and behind her and around her the dark shadow of her stricken youth that was to come?

Good for Dimples—you have a heart and brain and an imagination and a jolly good taste in reading, let me tell you.

If I were a young man of 20 or so, I'd keep my eye on you and I'd let the girl with the "blue" book walk right by on the other side of the street.

And that's the way I feel about it.
